1,000 BREAK THROUGH POLICE LINES IN WAVE OF ADMIRATION

'La Tres Belle Jackie' Wows Paris Crowds

JACQUELINE KENNEDY , , , Paris in the Spring.

PARIS (UPI)—A crowd of about 1,000 persons broke through police lines today and surrounded Mrs. John F. Kennedy in a wave of admiration for America's First Lady.

Most of the day Mrs. Kennedy was in the company only of diplomats and statesmen. They were with her on arrival at Orly Airport when she stepped out of a jetliner with her husband President Kennedy and at the luncheon with President Charles de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace.

Crowds of ten of thousands cheered her but only from afar — until mid-afternoon when she paid a 45-minute visit to a child welfare clinic founded by the American Red Cross after the First World War.

Then it was the turn of the ordinary housewives, shopkeepers and passersby who applauded her as she entered the red-brick building.

By the time Mrs. Kennedy was ready to leave, the crowd had grown to more than 1,000. They were held in check across the broad Avenue Brune by rows of police.

As the president's wife, in a pale yellow two-piece costume, walked to her car, the crowd began to force through the ranks of police.

Suddenly, the dam burst and the swarm of humanity flocked around "La Tres Belle Jackie"—the very beautiful Jackie—to tell her with smiles, waves and shouted words of acclaim the warmth the average Frenchman felt for her as a charmilng representative of the United States.

Earlier, two heads of state had looked on appreciatively as 2,000 French women cheered when Jackie stepped out into the sunshine of Paris in the spring.

The radiant American First Lady, arriving at the Elysee Palace for a state luncheon, was hailed with shouts of "Jackie" as she stepped from a limousine and she smiled and waved in response.

President Charles de Gaulle, a Frenchman still responsive to a chic woman and particularly one of his country's ancestry, stood alongside President Kennedy on a terrace at the moment.

De Gaulle beamed at the reception given the lovely young wife of his guest while Kennedy smiled quietly.

Mrs. Kennedy had kept in the background at the arrival ceremony at Orly Airport but the French crowds got a good look at her when she arrived at the Quai D'Orsday. She came not only as the President's wife but as a sort of ambassadress of American fashion.

Judging from the cheers, from the waxing French and American flags, the average Frenchwoman liked what she saw. But whether this was partly due to Mrs. Kennedy's good looks and the excitement of the state visit will have to await the verdict of French fashion experts.

"Jackie is absolutely terrified," said Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States. "She is afraid of what the critics will say because she, as the wife of the President, cannot be dressed any longer in the French couture houses.

"But the French people will be crazy about her."

The people seemed to be just that for they dubbed her "La Belle Jackie"—Pretty Jackie—and gave her cheers every bit as enthusiastic as those that greeted her husband.

President de Gaulle and President Kennedy were just walking out to the terrace of the Elysee Palace when Mrs. Kennedy arrived shortly after 1.15 p.m. and the two heads of state watched appreciatively as she got out of her car to shouts of "Jackie."

So far, Mrs. Kennedy, who used to buy all her clothes in Paris, has displayed two of the costumes designed for this trip by Oleg Cassini and Chez Ninon of New York. At the airport she wore a pale blue wool coat, single breasted with three self buttons, and a low set pointed collar.

For the Elysee lunch she wore a lightweight wool dress, diagonal closing loosely, tied belt and slightly flared skirt with box pleats. Over this she wore a matching jacket, loosely fitted with notched lapels.

JFK, De Gaulle In Agreement On West Berlin

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PARIS — President Kennedy and President de Gaulle reached "general agreement" today on the problem of West Berlin in the opening session of their allied policy conferences.

This result was announced by a U.S. spokesman. He said the agreement was achieved within the course of a 45-minute discussion when they first met.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters that during the day the two presidents "discussed Berlin, problems of Southeast Asia and the Geneva conference on Laos."

Kennedy began his first venture in summit diplomacy with de Gaulle after receiving a 101-gun salute and a warm welcome from the people of Paris.

The president and the French leader held two sessions of talks in de Gaulle's office at the Elysees Palace today.

Only two interpreters were present as the two men discussed world problems, including some concerning NATO on which the United States and France do not see eye-to-eye.

The two leaders began their talks, which will take up nine hours in five meetings over the next three days, just two hours after Kennedy and his wife arrived here.

The talks are expected to range over the entire list of international problems as a prelude to Kennedy's summit meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend.

Hundreds of Parisians shouted "Vive Kennedy" as the car carrying the smiling president swept through the gates of the Elysees Palace, de Gaulle's official residence, for the beginning of their talks.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Tens of thousands of Parisians lined the streets in spring sunshine to cheer the president and his wife as they drove through the city from the airport.

Andrew Hatcher, assistant press secretary to Kennedy, said he estimated the crowds at about 1,500,000.

Veteran observers said the welcome matched that accorded President Eisenhower, al-

15 YEARS FOR FRENCH GENERALS

PARIS (Reuters) — Ex-generals Maurice Challe and Andre Zeller both were sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment with hard labor here tonight for their part in last month's military revolt in Algeria.

Prosecutor General Antonin Besson told the special military tribunal that he found it "impossible" to ask the death penalty. He said he had spent "a week of sleepless nights" in reaching the decision.

Chatterton Hears Budget Next Week

New MP-elect George Chatterton said today he had heard reports the federal budget is coming down next week.

"I don't know," he added. "This is just talk I have heard."

However, Mr. Chatterton is expected to make his maiden speech in Parliament during the budget debate.

He now is awaiting word from Ottawa on when to take his first trip to the House of Commons as Esquimalt-Saanich MP-elect.

"I had expected to go this weekend," he said.

SHORT VISIT

Mr. Chatterton said he plans to attend the International Municipal Congress June 15 in Washington, D.C. as representative of Saanich.

He said he was told that he would not have to stay very long in Ottawa for his first visit. This could mean that he will be able to participate in the budget debate before going to the U.S. conference.

DEMONSTRATORS SHOT

Revelry Greets Birth Of S. Africa Republic

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PRETORIA—South Africa became a republic today with the country mobilized against demonstrations by the non-white majority of the people.

Church bells at midnight and cannon at daybreak heralded the birth of the new republic—and the only African nation still ruled wholly by whites.

Jubilant white throngs — mostly Afrikaners who long wanted a republic free of the 51-year connection with the British Crown — braved rain for night-long revelry in this administrative capital.

As the republic was born the government claimed a "total collapse" of the three-day strike launched Monday by leaders of the 13,000,000 non-whites to demand voting rights reserved for 3,000,000 whites.

But one Negro was shot dead and two were wounded Tuesday night in townships outside Port Elizabeth, where thousands of Negroes demonstrated against the government by burning South African flags.

Police moved into the Negro township with armored cars, but claimed they were not responsible for the shootings. Johannesberg's streets were

WAGE FOR MOM

OTTAWA (CP) — A woman trade unionist has suggested that the government offer mothers a "maternal wage" to keep them home with their children.

The suggestion came from Jeanne Duval of Montreal, vice-president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions at the annual meeting here of the Canadian Welfare Council.

Dominican Dictator Assassinated

Kennedy Orders 'Watch'

RAFAEL TRUJILLO

From Times News Service

PARIS — Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean, has been assassinated, it was learned here tonight.

The announcement was made by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, here with visiting President Kennedy.

He told reporters Kennedy has instructed State Secretary Dean Rusk to stay in Washington instead of coming to Paris so he can keep a close watch on the situation in the Dominican Republic.

The press secretary said the president had been in close touch with Washington on the matter.

Meanwhile in Washington, the state department said it has received unconfirmed reports of Trujillo's assassination.

Department sources said:

"Reports from travellers arriving in a nearby country say that an unusually tense situation exists.

"The capital is reported to be under heavy military guard.

"The department has no further information."

COMMUNICATIONS CUT

Earlier there had been rumors in Port au Prince, Haiti, that an attempt had been made to kill Trujillo.

The sources said communications from the consulate in Ciudad Trujillo had been interrupted.

Three weeks ago, diplomatic sources in Washington reported unusual air activity over Ciudad Trujillo, and speculated that a revolution might be brewing.

Regular direct communication between the Dominican Republic and the United States, as well as with Haiti, adjacent to the Dominican Republic, was cut off.

RULED 30 YEARS

Trujillo ruled the Dominican Republic as a dictator since 1930.

"You'll know I'm retired when you hear I'm dead," he told an American interviewer in March, 1960.

'POINT OF GUN' TACTICS CHARGE BY U.S.

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today accused the Soviet Union of trying to force the Laos peace parley to work "at the point of a gun."

W. Averell Harriman attacked Soviet opposition to giving the International Control Commission (ICC) in Laos added power to check violations of the cease-fire there.

He spoke to the 14-nation conference which re-convened after a week-long stalemate recess. But as soon as the session got underway Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin bluntly told the delegates that Russia opposes giving more power to the ICC.

Harriman immediately challenged Pushkin's stand.

SWEEP 'BEDLAM'

Nanaimo Pair Win $55,000

Word of their winning a $55,000 Irish Sweepstake prize today turned the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson, 1371 Discovery Street, in Nanaimo, into a bit of a "bedlam."

"The phone started ringing first thing and has never stopped," Mr. Watson said—by telephone.

Five Canadians won the $137,500 pot of gold with tickets on Psidium, winner of the Epsom Derby.

Another nine held $55,000 tickets on Dicta Drake, the second-place horse, and seven had $27,500 tickets on Pardao, the third-place horse.

The Watson's ticket was bought in Mrs. Watson's name under the pseudonym "All Wet."

Mrs. Watson used the nom de plume "All Wet" because she was in the bath when she bought the ticket.

"We didn't know anything about our winning until 7.30 a.m., when I got a phone call from my father in Vancouver," Mr. Watson said. "Then the fun started."

SHE DREW A BEAD ON PSIDIUM

EPSOM (CP) — You can count on Mrs. Marpad Plesch to hang on to that lucky red bead from now on.

Mrs. Plesch carries the bead in her handbag "just for luck."

And the charm worked wonders today as her chestnut colt, Psidium, came from well back to win the 182nd running of the Epsom Derby.

The colt, by Pardal out of Linarella, paid off in boxcar figures at 66-to-1.

Mrs. Plesch is the wife of a Hungarian-born financier.

'Class or Kind' Tariff Opposed by Exporters

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's controversial "class or kind" tariff legislation was opposed today by the Canadian Exporters Association but won the support of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association.

The three organizations were the first of a score of associations and individuals to appear before the Senate Banking Committee to give evidence on a proposal to give Revenue Minister Nowlan the final say on some factors in deciding whether imported goods are approximately of a class or kind of goods already made in Canada. Imports directly competing with Canadian-made goods generally face higher tariffs.

Tuesday night in the Senate the bill was given second reading — approval in principle.

Earlier Sen. W. Ross Macdonald (L—Ontario), opposition leader, said that while he would not bring the majority in to vote the bill down at the third reading stage, he was opposed to the contentious clause.

He hoped a compromise amendment could be worked in committee. Sen. F. McGrand (L—New Brunswick) called the bill a prelude to tyranny. Someday Canada may have a revenue minister who would say, like a king of France, "I am the state—the state is me."

The exporters' association said it opposes the bill on grounds that it will lead to increased rates of duty on a substantial volume of imports, notably machinery.

R. D. L. Kinsmen of Montreal, president, said the legislation will result in other countries raising tariffs against Canadian imports. The measure would work against the country as a whole and Canadian exporters in particular.

WILL PROVIDE STIMULUS

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said the bill will give much-needed stimulus to several important segments of the manufacturing industry.

"We believe that nothing would be gained by having such decisions subject to appeal," the association said.

'SUNNING HIMSELF' SAID FIRST-SACKER

Murder on the Foul Line

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI)—Frederick La Torella, 36, was a problem prisoner.

State penal authorities shifted the convicted burglar in and out of three prisons in the past year because he was a troublemaker. He was brought to the state prison here Monday and assigned to the prison baseball team for a Memorial Day game in the hope of getting him off to a good start.

Gordon Peterson, captain of the opposing "outside" team from Natick, Mass., noticed La Torella lying near the right field foul line behind first base during the game. He asked the first baseman what was wrong.

"He's been sick. He's sunning himself," was the reply.

Later, when a prison guard investigated, he found La Torella had been clubbed to death. The bloody baseball bat was still at his side.

A conspiracy of silence among the prisoners hampered the investigation of the death. But state police officials said fingerprints on the bat and other evidence indicated that convicts William Daggett, 23, and James O'Malley, 25, were the bludgeoners.

The suspects were formally arrested on murder charges today. Their cases will be presented to a grand jury next week.

nearly deserted. Hundreds in the country's biggest city had stayed home earlier in the week, but today was a holiday for most people anyway. Some Indian and Chinese merchants have kept their shops padlocked in silent protest against white-supremacy rule.

Charles R. Swart, a 66-year-old Afrikaner who once played bit parts in Hollywood and was South Africa's last governor-general, took over as the new republic's first president. His job is largely ceremonial.

The real power still rests with Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, who led the drive to make South Africa a republic out of the Commonwealth when its other members demanded that he modify his apartheid policy of strict racial segregation and white supremacy.

Swart took the oath of office a few hours after South Africa officially became a republic at midnight, left the Commonwealth and dropped the Queen as head of state.

Smart said in his inaugural address that the new republic wanted peace and friendship with all nations. But he also made clear that South Africa would not tolerate any interference in its domestic policies.

As Swart spoke, thousands of police and armed security troops stood guard in African townships to head off any protest against apartheid.

Although Commonwealth links are severed under the new republic, South Africa will retain its old flag, which will be the only republican flag in the world to feature the Union Jack.

The proclamation of a republic was a victory for just over half the country's white population — the Afrikaners. The Afrikaans-speaking whites have crusaded for a republic since the first Dutch settlers landed here 300 years ago.

South Africa's link with Britain began in 1806 when British forces occupied The Netherlands' Cape Colony.

"We're in the midst of renovating our house," Mr. Watson said. "Other than making the job a little more elaborate than we'd agreed on, we have no plans for the money."

They have three children, aged six years, three years, and eight months.

MECHANIC

A Vancouver jeweler's mechanic and his two sisters-in-law will share $137,500 in Irish Sweepstakes first-prize money.

Bill Pickerell, Olive Dobson and Mrs. Elsie Howarth jointly held a ticket on Psidium.

They used the nom de plume "Harry."

The ticket was one of three held in British Columbia on the winner or Dicta Drake, the second-place horse.

SURREY MAN

One of the winners of second-place money of $55,000 was Huntley F. Smith, of Surrey, 21-year-old bodyman at a garage.

Mr Smith's nom de plume was, suitably, "This Time."

Three Victorians drew horses in the sweep, but they failed to finish among the first three. None of the ticket holders here have been identified. They will get about $1,200 each for having drawn horses.

ways a popular figure, when he paid a state visit to Paris in 1959.

TALKED ANIMATEDLY

De Gaulle and his wife had greeted the Kennedys at the airport when they arrived to begin their visit. The two leaders shook hands warmly as Kennedy emerged from his plane and Kennedy began talking animatedly almost immediately with the French leader.

In his speech at the airport, Kennedy paid glowing tribute to De Gaulle and emphasized the importance of their talks — a prelude to his weekend meeting with Khrushchev.

STRESSES FRIENDSHIP

Kennedy, departing from his prepared text, said the "present relationship between the United States and France is essential for the preservation of freedom 'round the globe."

He described De Gaulle as "a captain in the field in the defence of the West for more than 20 years."

"Your vigor, your leadership, your long sense of history are needed now more than ever in the past," Kennedy told the French general.

De Gaulle assured Kennedy of "our deepest esteem and friendship."

"We have never known Americans here other than as friends and allies and as such we welcome you," he said.

Radar Stations Close

OTTAWA (CP)—Closing of three United States Pinetree radar stations and six gap-filler stations along Canada's northeast coast was announced today. A defence department statement said the closing of the stations is made possible by extension of the far-north Distant Early Warning radar line across the North Atlantic.

PNR Waiting To Win Subsidy?

The B.C. government has delivered only a "pseudo-ultimatum" to the Pacific Northern Railway, Opposition Leader Strachan charged Tuesday.

Mr. Strachan said the government is giving the PNR time in which to try and win a subsidy from the U.S. or Canadian governments.

The PNR wants to wait until the U.S. government decides whether or not to back a rail link with Alaska before deciding which of the two B.C. government proposals to accept.

The government gave it a deadline of July 17 to make up its mind.

ALTERNATIVES

The alternatives were:

1. By Nov. 1 firm contracts be let and immediately carried out for the clearing of the proposed line's first 100 miles of right-of-way from Summit Lake northwest.

2. A firm undertaking plus plans and definite work schedules by Nov. 1 for construction of about 150 miles of rail line to Takla Lake. This must include a guarantee that construction start by June 1 next.

If the second choice is taken, then the government requires a $200,000 deposit to be forfeited if the construction deadline is not met.

SUBSIDY

Mr. Strachan said that if the PNR fails to win a subsidy, then it need only build as far as Takla Lake.

"I think it is not mere coincidence that many of the mineral claims held by the Wenner-Gren company are in the Takla Lake area," said Mr. Strachan.

"In essence the great plan for the PNR has now diminished to the point where the government will be content with a mere mining railroad to serve the interests of Wenner-Gren."

Mr. Strachan added: "The bubble has burst."

EICHMANN DEAL RELATED

Pleaded, Begged Says Go-Between

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—A British government official in Cairo was less than enthusiastic toward Adolf Eichmann's "Jews-for-trucks" proposal in mid-1944, Eichmann's go-between testified here today.

The official was assassinated by Jews in late 1944.

Joel Brand, who acted as negotiator between Eichmann and the Allies on the proposal, testified at Eichmann's trial here that Britain's Lord Moyne told him:

"What shall I do with those million Jews? Where shall I put them?"

Lord Moyne was British deputy minister of state in the Middle East. He was assassinated in Cairo in November, 1944, by two members of the Stern gang, a Jewish terrorist organization.

Brand said he told Jewish leaders in Istanbul, Turkey, that Eichmann promised to spare 10 per cent of the 1,000,000 Jews as soon as agreement was reached in principle on the exchange of the million for 10,000 trucks.

"I pleaded and begged," Brand said.

He said Eichmann had told him that if President Roosevelt and British wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill wanted the Jews "then they can have them" in exchange for the trucks.

The British arrested Brand in Syria in 1944 while he was on his way to Palestine to discuss the exchange offer with Jewish representatives.

Violation Claimed In Goofball Bill

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Has the government violated its own Bill of Rights in proposing a goofball crackdown?

The Liberals think so. They argued in the Commons Tuesday night that accused traffickers of goofball ingredients – usually sedative and anti-appetite pills – would be forced under government proposals to establish their innocence in court.

And that, said Paul Martin (L — Essex East) and J. P. Deschatelets (L — Montreal, Maisonneuve-Rosemont), runs against the provision in the 1960 Bill of Rights that every accused person must be presumed innocent until proven guilty.

Clause Delayed Until Fulton Back

Mr. Fulton was not in the House. He left the capital earlier Tuesday on other business—a move that postponed debate on his own Criminal Code amendment setting out "capital" and "non capital" murder.

Solicitor - General Browne confirmed that his colleague had checked the goofball bill and that "he has certified that this doesn't interfere with the Bill of Rights." Paul Martineau, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, also tried to refute the Liberal claim.

But Mr. Diefenbaker, a criminal lawyer, was not satisfied. He suggested that the clause on prosecution of goofball traffickers be suspended until Mr. Fulton's return. The Commons agreed.

The clause in question says that where an accused pleads not guilty, the trial shall begin as if he were being tried for possession of the drugs, even though possession under the bill is not a crime. It is up to the Crown to prove the possession.

Then, the bill says, the accused "shall be given an opportunity of establishing" that he got the drug in question from a person authorized to sell it, or that he did not possess it for the purpose of trafficking. After that, the prosecutor can try to refute that story.

AIRLINER LIMPS TO SAFETY

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—A crippled American airliner with 104 persons aboard — mostly women and children — today limped hundreds of miles over the Atlantic to a smooth landing here.

The Super Constellation ferrying U.S. military personnel and their families from Germany to McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., was forced to turn back two hours after leaving Shannon when one of it four propellers ran wild and the pilot could not feather it.

A Pan American airliner in the vicinity shepherded the crippled plane to safety.

Forty children were among the 95 passengers aboard the airliner, 20 of them babies in arms.

APPEAL BY CASTRO

Wanted: 500,000 Spies

MIAMI (UPI)—Radio Havana announced Tuesday night that Premier Fidel Castro needs 500,000 more spies to help him track down saboteurs and other foes of his regime.

The official radio called on Castro supporters to heed the appeal of his National Directorate of Citizen Spies for recruits to help "stamp out criminal activity."

"Let there not be a single block, a single workshop, a single factory, co-operative or work centre without its (spy) committee for the defence of the revolution," the broadcast said.

"All the people should join in this revolutionary vigilance to close in on the enemies of the revolution."

TO THE WALL

The radio also said that saboteurs will be "liquidated" by the Castroites — suggesting that the firing squad rifles which have been silent for six weeks soon may be heard again in Cuba.

"The counter-revolutionary worms (unsuccessful invaders) who did not dare to fight our militia and army . . . are now using live phosphorus and Yankee dynamite in criminal attempts against women and children," the official radio said.

"The generosity of the revolution does not mean that such acts will go unpunished."

Castro's firing squads have executed at least 34 persons for anti-government activity this year. No executions have been announced since April 20, but three persons were sentenced to death last week on charges of killing a Castro supporter in 1956.

Communism Is Negotiable

RECENTLY, WHEN MR. HOWard Green was reported as offering to mediate between the United States and Cuba, a remarkable retort was made by some anonymous authority in Washington. "Communism," said this nameless spokesman, "is not negotiable."

That, of course, was only one of those quick, off-the-cuff comments which are constantly issued by officials to the embarrassment of their governments later on.

There seems to be some doubt that Mr. Green actually offered to mediate in the Cuban dispute. What he actually said to reporters at the Geneva airport is not clear. Mr. Diefenbaker denies that his foreign minister was attempting to interfere in any way with the business of the State Department.

Whatever Mr. Green may have said, or not said, it is ridiculous to argue that Communism is not negotiable.

To be sure, in certain areas of vital interest the United States and its allies are not prepared to negotiate a surrender to Communism and they cannot. But in other areas and interests they are negotiating with Communism every day. They are negotiating with it on nuclear testing, on disarmament, on the neutrality of Laos, among other things.

Moreover, these negotiations have been carried to the Summit by President Truman, when he met Stalin at Potsdam, and by President Eisenhower when he met Mr. Khrushchev at Geneva, Camp David and Paris, with dismal results.

Mr. Kennedy will meet Mr. Khrushchev on June 3, and his ambassador at Moscow is constantly negotiating with the Russian government.

Without officially recognizing Communist China, the United States negotiated with it also in the original Indo-Chinese settlement and is negotiating with it at Geneva today to prevent a collapse of that settlement.

Indeed, Mr. Kennedy insisted on negotiation in his inaugural address. The United States, he said, must never negotiate out of fear but should never fear to negotiate. And the central subject of negotiation in world affairs is nothing but Communism.

Without negotiation, without the hope of gradually easing the points of friction in the world struggle, there is no alternative to ultimate war of annihilation.

No one knows that better than Mr. Kennedy. No one is pursuing such small, peripheral gains more vigorously while knowing that a final settlement is still a long way off, probably far beyond his term of office.

It is no assistance to him when some official, brittle and frustrated after the Cuban fiasco, sounds off with slogans that mean nothing and serve only to alarm the United States' foreign friends. Those friends should remember that only the President can decide his nation's policy.

Freedom Dies by Inches

THERE CAN BE LITTLE DOUBT that the Cubans, individualists that they are, would never stand for the dictatorial restrictions under which they now live had these been imposed overnight. Fidel Castro cleverly built his dictatorship—once the violent military phase was over—stick by stick and stone by stone.

Each step, each deprivation of a basic liberty, was taken "temporarily" for the safety of the state, for the good of the people, for progress and for other worthy causes. It was only when the structure was completed that the people could suddenly realize that a prison had been erected around them. Some do not know it even yet.

In a recent New York Times Magazine article, Max Frankel gives an account of the gradual rotting away of liberties, the piece-by-piece theft of freedoms which Castro has carried out. The account is strongly reminiscent—in its horrible inevitability—of George Orwell's novel "1984" which describes the iron police state of the future.

Most outstanding thing of all: the people did not recognize that they were being gradually imprisoned; they relinquished their rights readily, even gladly, as being of no importance in the greater achievement of a strong state. Only when it was too late would they realize that the state had been built, not for them, but against them.

Each newly announced restriction, of course, was drowned in cries of "democracy." The pace was set by massing thousands of people into public squares to hear orations by Fidel Castro and others, and whipping them into a frenzy in which they would shout "si" to anything. Berlin, Rome and Moscow squares have rung to similar cries.

Newspapers which criticized, radio stations which did not fall into line—these, vilified as the properties of exiled enemies of the state, had, of course, to be seized. No patriot could disagree with that.

And with elections shelved for the time being—for everyone was too busy for elections—there was no particular need for political parties except the government party and, because its organization was useful to the government, the Communist Party. Nobody was going to protest at a temporary measure like that.

At the start, only the lands of huge landowners were expropriated—obviously a fine move for the peasants. And of course it was only the businesses of American profiteers and scheming United States monopolies which were seized in the beginning. Could any true Cuban object?

The purging of professors—this was done only by student committees. Could anything be more democratic? And the only labor unions which were forbidden to strike were those which demanded unduly high wages while peasants went hungry.

The People's Militia, of course, took only volunteers. But naturally it was the public duty of any patriotic citizen to volunteer—and should an unpatriotic citizen be allowed to keep his job while patriots went without?

The teachers who were fired were only the disloyal ones; after all, those who instruct the young should have the right ideas.

So bit by bit, squeeze by squeeze, the vice of dictatorship was tightened. When enthusiasm flagged, there was always the United States to hate—as in Berlin there had been the Jews and the "encircling" democracies, and in Moscow the warmongering capitalist states. Threatened danger from the United States could supply an excuse for almost any usurpation of Cuban freedom by President Castro.

Middle class citizens and small businessmen who had cheered the use of dictatorial powers against big business, suddenly found themselves next on the list. They found themselves in the grip of a power which gave soldiers the right to search any premises, which could hold citizens indefinitely without trial, which could seize property without recourse. They found themselves facing judges appointed to replace other judges who had not co-operated with the government.

Teachers and students who held reservations about the Castro regime found themselves on the street. Everything was done in the name of "reform." Apartment block tenants found themselves under the daily scrutiny of spies. They could not move to another home without permission.

At first the jails had been full of war criminals; next came counter-revolutionaries; and now suspected counter-revolutionaries.

And so it continues. This is the environment which thousands of Cubans have fled, in which thousands now look about them in suddenly awakened alarm, but in which other thousands gather round President Castro to chant "we don't want elections."

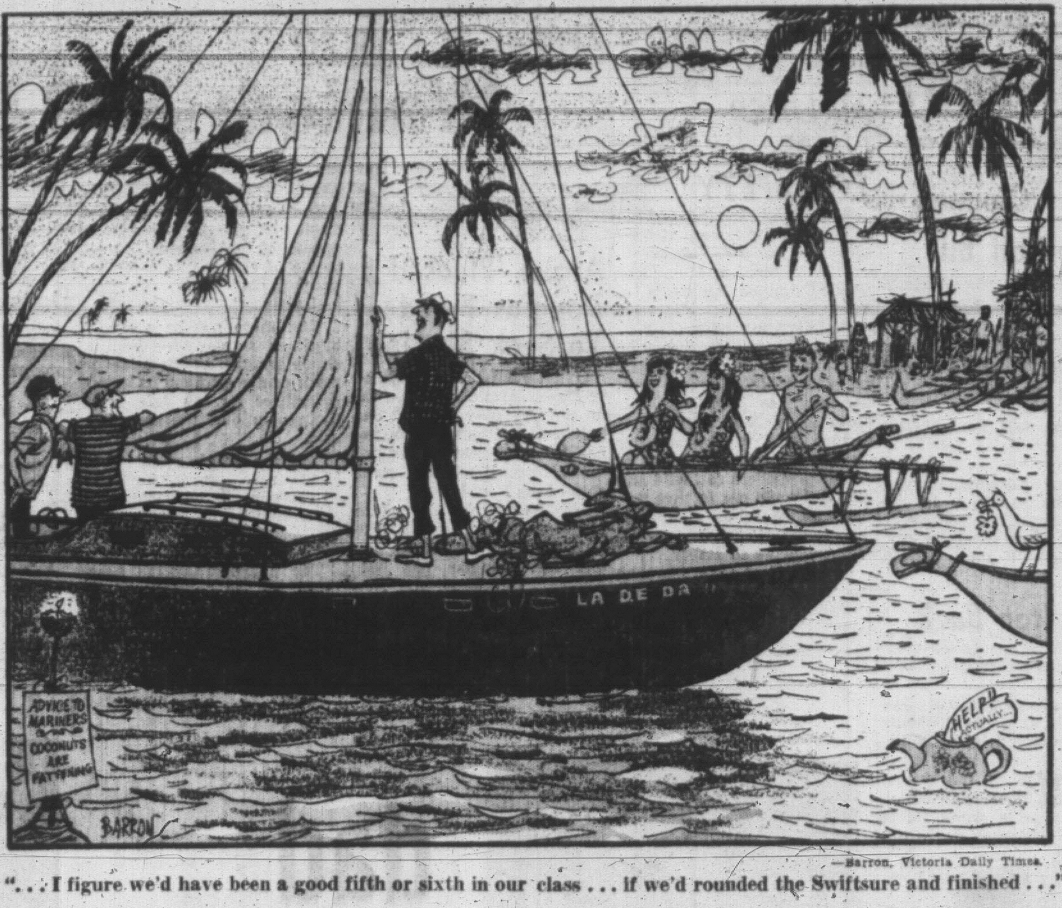
The price of freedom is eternal vigilance.

In Its Natural State

CITY PARKS ADMINISTRATOR W. H. Warren is on sound ground in urging that Thetis Lake Park be left alone. This area is not just an ordinary recreational or sports park—it is an almost unique exhibition of the balance of nature, of "growth in association," of undisturbed development of plant and animal life which provides an invaluable classroom for students of nature.

To "develop" it, to fill it with parking spaces, broad roads, buildings and other facilities suitable for some other areas would be to destroy its chief asset. In advising that the park be left in its natural condition to preserve it for the present and for future generations, Mr. Warren has spoken with wisdom and an appreciation of the values involved.

Let us not destroy this wonderful area with further depredations—no more roads, power lines, concessions, logging and other encroachments. Let's leave it alone, in what perfection remains. And as encouragement to those whose main interest is economic — it's cheaper that way.



—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

THE FULL TREATMENT

Facts and Figures: Testing, Testing . . .

WITH the increasingly crowded state of the planet, it is perhaps natural that we should become increasingly interested in studying the raw material around us. It is a natural inclination in human beings to begin to observe and analyze anything that is put before them. There used to be a story to the effect that it would be a cruel and unusual punishment to place a statistician in a prison cell with only one of everything. He would have no material on which to exercise his talents of tabulation and interpretation. The story merely demonstrates the fact that "thinking man" likes to investigate what is around him and right now what is most around man is mankind.

Tobin

Chief among the ways in which our species studies itself is the preparation of question-and-answer forms. Thus we have census returns, which get more and more complex every time. More information is required, and more computations are made with the facts.

There is a passion to reduce humanity to totals and percentages, to interpret our daily lives in terms of index numbers and ratios, to wrap up everything in one big, shining representational figure.

Perhaps some of it is useful, perhaps a lot of it is merely indulgence in statistical curiosity. But the thing is spreading.

Application forms for this and that call more and more for information that seems to have nothing to do with the matter at hand. Anyone who thinks he can get through modern life on the principle that he need tell nothing about himself but the old army requirement of name, rank and regimental number, will find that he can hardly acquire a dog licence on that basis.

There is another trend today that threatens to exceed even the census-compulsion as a force in our society. This is the urge to inflict tests on every person who can possibly be tested.

One of the latest developments in this comes from the United States, where reports say tests are being devised which will predict accurately what grades a high school student will earn during his university career. These, it is stressed, are quite apart from the usual intelligence tests, aptitude tests, knowledge tests and physical tests.

The new procedure will take into account the student's abilities and the university's standards, and give a close answer to his future examination marks.

Of course, where the computed marks and the actual marks are found to disagree, no doubt further tests will be given to find out why—and this, it seems, could go on indefinitely. The net result could be that there will be so many tests the student will never have time to gain any further knowledge.

Like a miser, he will spend the rest of his life counting over the little store of wealth he has amassed at high school—or having it counted over for him—and never add to the treasure.

Electronic brains, of course, will be used more and more to record, sort, analyze, distribute, re-distribute, extend, interpolate, chart and project the results of mankind's tests. And no doubt, as time goes on, more and more information will be needed to satisfy the hunger of the electronic monsters and their attendants.

The day may come, indeed when all of humanity will spend its time in electronic booths, taped with electrical contacts, strapped with instruments and ceaselessly recording every passing moment of conscious and unconscious existence.

We will know absolutely everything about everybody—not one single, tiny fact will escape.

All mankind will become part of a great pulsing graph which represents the race in all its complexity—and woe betide the human being who by thought, word or deed steps out of line and spoils the symmetry of that beautiful bell-shaped curve.

Panic in Angola: The Marchers Prepare

THE oldest stock epithet in the foreign affairs debates of the House of Commons is the reference to "Portugal, our oldest ally." Still in use along the Conservative front bench and still greeted with despairing laughter by the Labor Opposition, this phrase dates back to an alliance so old that practically everybody has forgotten all about it, apart from a feeling that it was responsible for the British taste in port wine.

Britain, like most other nations in Western Europe, has failed to form any fresh or definite policy towards either Spain or Portugal since the Thirties.

Exchanges of opinion in Parliament on these countries follow an unvarying pattern: the Opposition protests at any approach to the "guilt of Guernica" or "the imperialists of Angola," and the Government then pertly rebukes the Opposition for living in the romantic past of the Thirties or for insulting our oldest ally.

The rebellion in Angola suddenly makes the Portuguese system a matter on which Britain may finally be forced to declare an opinion.

Lord Home, the foreign secretary, is currently visiting Portugal and Spain, in a cautious attempt to gauge the gap which divides Britain from these two totalitarian states and to convey to their rulers some British views on their conduct.

Angola is bound to be brought up in the Lisbon discussions. But two indiscretions, both committed on the British side in the past month, are probably going to deprive any criticisms that Lord Home may make of much of their weight.

Earlier this month, at the height of the panic and massacre in Angola, a small British warship turned up at Luanda on a "goodwill visit." The visit had been long arranged and the Admiralty, which obligingly removes colored seamen from British warships before they visit South Africa, simply did not see why a little political fuss ashore should lead to its cancellation.

The row engendered by this incident would still be alive, if it had not been superseded by the results of a genial mood which descended on Home Secretary Richard Butler, at a private dinner party in Madrid.

Assured of privacy, he told his Spanish hosts that it was a "real shame" that Spain had been kept so long out of international diplomatic life, and added that Spain should be fully incorporated in the Western world. Next day the delighted Spanish Information Ministry gave prominence to these words.

The speech, with its implied invitation for Spain to join NATO, goes far beyond British policy and has been discreetly disavowed by the government. Moscow Radio has had fun picturing Mr. Butler in a white cape, serenading General Franco on a guitar.

Photographs however show that Mr. Butler, who has a likeable reputation for dropping as many bricks at home as abroad, is touring the burning hills of Andalucia in his black London bowler hat.

Pilgrimage to Moscow

In mid-June, nuclear disarmament marchers will set off from London on their longest, boldest, and perhaps most logical journey: the walk to Moscow.

A mass meeting in Trafalgar Square on Sunday, June 4, will launch them on their way and if all goes smoothly the marchers hope to arrive in Moscow around October 25, having covered nearly 1,600 miles on foot.

This venture is not sponsored by the British mass anti-nuclear movement—the rather cautious Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament—but by the American Committee for Non-Violent Action, allied to the British civil disobedience demonstrators who last week besieged the piers around the American Polaris base on the Clyde.

A hard core of about 50 marchers intends to go the whole way, and at least 10 of these will be Americans who are expected to land in England shortly after completing a preliminary approach march clear across the American continent, under the slogan "Walk for Peace from San Francisco to Moscow."

Other hard-core marchers will be Britons, Swedes, Frenchmen, Germans, Finns, Danes, and Norwegians. The leader of the project is a Swedish gym teacher and World Citizenship protagonist called Inge Oskarsson.

The campaigners expect to be joined by contemporary contingents in each country they traverse. But so far, their chances of completing the journey are very hard to weigh up. Not one country on the direct line of march has yet given them permission to pass across its territory with banners flying and slogans freely voiced.

Even France has not yet promised them entry, but they intend to use every means, legal or illegal, to enter because they feel that anti-nuclear propaganda is specially needed there.

In Western Germany, special demonstrations will try to influence the election campaign. If neither of these countries will give them access, an alternative route has been arranged across Belgium, Holland and Scandinavia.

In spite of claims that the Russian Peace Committee is prepared to welcome them, no Russian official permission has yet been received for the march to cross Soviet territory.

LONDON:

Approaches To Berlin

By JOSEPH ALSOP

IN addition to nuclear testing, there is only one other problem which President Kennedy is quite certain to discuss with Premier Khrushchev — the recurrently, endlessly critical problem of Berlin. Here in London, it is very clear indeed that this need to talk about Berlin next weekend will force the President to make what may prove the biggest choice of his time in office. The point is that he cannot talk very effectively about Berlin unless he has already decided how he means to deal with the Berlin crisis when the crunch comes.

Alsop

His choice lies between the Franco-German approach and the British approach. When Kennedy makes this choice, moreover, it will be the first time the American government has had a clearly defined policy. For President Eisenhower succeeded in avoiding the basic choice until he left office.

The Franco-German approach really represents the personal views of two men, Chancellor Adenauer and President de Gaulle. In both the French and German governments, there are high officials who sympathize with the quite different Berlin policy of Prime Minister Macmillan.

But as long as de Gaulle and Adenauer hold office, no one else matters at all. And at their recent meeting in Bonn (so like a cosy dialogue between two ancient granite statues) Adenauer and de Gaulle reaffirmed their well-known view.

Vital Position

Their view is: first, that the Berlin position is absolutely vital to the Western Alliance; second that Berlin is not negotiable and ought not to be the subject of negotiations; and third, therefore, that the only way to protect Berlin is to convince Khrushchev that the West will fight for Berlin without bothering to argue about it.

Both General de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer are confident that if Khrushchev can only be convinced the West will fight for Berlin, he will soon abandon his attempts to grab Berlin. But this is easier said than done, since Khrushchev has made no secret of his sublime certainty that the Western Powers will never fight for Berlin.

He expressed this happy certainty most recently in a talk with Doctor Kroll, the German ambassador to Moscow. He also graciously assured the German ambassador that he would wait until after the Communist Party Congress next October to make his final grab.

The time is not far off, and the British long since began expounding to the President their view of the right way to handle the Berlin crisis. This view was summed up, at least in its most extreme form, in a foreign office paper long famous among the Western policy makers as the "slippery slope memorandum."

Basically, the British view is that the Western Powers not only ought to negotiate the Berlin problem with the Soviets, but should also be ready to make very great concessions. They do not admit that they advocate de facto recognition of the Communist government in Eastern Germany but the rest of the world would certainly call it de factor recognition, if the Western Allies follow the British line.

Passive Acceptance

The British want passive, if pained, acceptance of a Soviet-East German peace treaty; passive acceptance of East German control of the Berlin access routes, which is to be symbolized by willing presentation of the documents of allied convoys to the East German highway controls; reduction of the Western garrisons in Berlin, and some other changes in the Berlin position as well.

The British hopefully say that if we make all these concessions to the Soviets, we may perhaps be able to trade our existing occupation rights in Berlin for new and better treaty rights.

They swear they are ready to fight for what is essential, the freedom of West Berlin and the freedom of the Western Powers to use the access routes to Berlin. But they keep repeating that they cannot "fight for a rubber stamp," meaning that the East German highway controls have replaced Soviet highway controls after the Soviets have signed a treaty with the East Germans.

The formula, "we cannot fight for a rubber stamp," is both flagrantly misleading and propagandistic. The rubber stamp in question, of course, will be no more than the symbol of a deep change in the political status of Berlin. And this change will be made by the Soviets in open, contemptuous disregard of their numerous promises and commitments to the Western Allies. Yet there is little doubt that the British government's view about Berlin is rather more firm than British public opinion.

Unknown View

Meanwhile President Kennedy's view is unknown. The weary task of contingency planning has been resumed by a Franco-German-British-American group in Washington. When Prime Minister Macmillan visited the White House, the Berlin question was also raised directly with the President by the Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

Yet Kennedy then contented himself with requesting Assistant Secretary of State Foy Kohler, ambassador to London, David K. E. Bruce and former Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson to give their divergent opinions. So far, in short, Kennedy has not spoken out in person. No doubt he will have to do so even before he meets Khrushchev, in his talks with de Gaulle.

The choice he reveals when he speaks out at last has been the basic Western choice ever since Khrushchev started the new Berlin crisis two years ago. But in the context of Cuba and Laos, this choice is now more important than ever. For in this context, the smallest retreat at Berlin will almost surely be the signal for forced retreats in many other places.

THE LIGHTER SIDE — By DICK WEST

Good Cover, Poor Plot

West

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some four years ago, as the tax dollar flies, the U.S. Information Agency upped its periscope in the southern hemisphere and sighted a large cultural gap.

Our Latin American neighbors, the USIA discovered, were having to struggle along without paperback books.

The publishers of that backward region, it seems, were bringing out books that were okay for reading but were too big to fit into the reader's pocket.

Moreover, they still clung to the quaint, Old World notion that the place to sell a book was a book store.

As I understand the situation, a reader could spend hours searching through food and drug stores without finding a single reprint of Plato's "Symposium" done up in a sexy cover.

All he could find were food and drugs.

* * *

It was with a view of rectifying this deplorable condition that the USIA, in 1957, gave Jose Ricardo Torfano, a Buenos Aires publisher, a grant to study U.S. paperback publishing and distributing methods.

What happened after that was told today in a paperback volume of testimony made public by a House appropriations subcommittee. It makes rather interesting reading.

You will get some idea of the plot when I tell you that the incident was related under the heading of "Waste of taxpayers' funds with the publishing firm of Jose Torfano."

Upon his return to Argentina, Torfano undertook to establish, under a USIA subsidy, a continent-wide network for the publication and dissemination of paperbacks.

The contract, before it was terminated last year, cost the agency about $200,000. Part of that was a dead loss. Just how much the USIA doesn't know.

The reason it doesn't know how much it lost is because it doesn't know how many books Torfano published. The reason for that was explained by G. Lewis Schmidt, a USIA administrative officer.

* * *

"Initially when this subject was raised prior to the contract being written, he (Torfano) resorted to a rather characteristic stand on the part of South American publishers," Schmidt said.

"They do tend to resent actual counts being made or inspections of the records being made."

Rather than risk offending Torfano, the USIA contracting officer omitted any provision for counting the books. There developed, however, a "strong presumption" that Torfano was fudging a bit.

This suspicion was aroused in part by a report by some printing experts indicating that Torfano's plant was not big enough to print as many books as he claimed to be producing.

Despite the indicated loss, I think it was a fair exchange. We brought paperbacks to South Americans and they taught us something about contracts.

$653,000 For Waiting

Reyburn

LONDON—Was Elizabeth Taylor's illness the most expensive in history? With the abandoning of England as the place to make "Cleopatra," so that it can be made in a clime kinder to Liz's health, the film company has already spent $4,030,000 of the $5,000,000 budgeted for the opus.

This includes $960,000 for hire of British studios in which very little footage has been shot and $825,000 for outdoor sets now scrapped. To date, Peter Finch (Caesar) has been paid $653,000 for waiting around for Liz to get better.

"Give us back our dreams" is the cry of the millions who do the football pools each week. As I mentioned, the pools firms reducing their stake money to a lowly farthing was bound to kill the goose that was laying the golden eggs.

The farcical situation whereby some half-a-million punters "won the pools" (that magic phrase) only to receive $3 each has raised a holler for the return to the days when it was twopence-a-go and dividends of up to $825,000 had a dream-like quality.

Bryant and May, probably the most famous name in matches, are currently celebrating the fact that it was 100 years ago that two Quakers, William Bryant and Francis May, set up their factory.

I don't know whether Bryant and May know it, but their match-boxes have for years been providing me with a party trick that never ceases to amaze.

* * *

After everyone has trotted out their tricks with varying degrees of success, I say casually: "Would you like to see some smoke?" I rub my fingers together and volumes of smoke pour out of my hand. I can go on doing this indefinitely and no examination of the hands reveals where the smoke comes from.

I can't remember where I learned this trick but it's a real baffler and I've never struck anyone else who knows it. But at the risk of incurring the displeasure of the Magic Circle, here's how it's done.

* * *

Slip away from the party and break up a Bryant and May match-box. (Some other similar match-boxes will do, but the best is good old B and M.) Peel off some of the brown striking surface and place this face-downwards on a saucer or other glazed surface.

Light it.

When the brown deposit it leaves has cooled, remove it by sliding you fingertips on it.

Then, any time you like, rub your fingers together and smoke will pour out.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Time Now to Sow Perennials

Hilda

No sooner are the summer flowering annuals planted out than it is time to sow seed of perennials, which will flower next year and many years thereafter.

Generally speaking, perennials are grown from divisions of a named plant, or from cuttings, but there are some which provide lovely garden plants when grown from seed.

Among them are the modern strains of delphiniums with their strong stems, fine colors and firm textured petals; lupins, in the most enchanting assortment of colors; geums, which come true to their respective colors from seed, either "Mrs. Bradshaw" red, or "Lady Stratheden" yellow; gaillardia, which I believe is native to our Canadian prairies but needs cultivation here, is a long-lasting cut flower associating well with spiky blooms such as gladioli and redhot pokers (kniphofia).

Seed of these four perennials can be sown now. Unless the garden soil has been worked down very fine and a certain amount of shade can be provided, it will be found more satisfactory to sow the seed in small boxes, or shallow pots of sandy soil. These can be moved about as necessary for watering and shading.

When the seedlings are large enough to handle they should be pricked off the same as annuals, either into larger boxes (flats) of soil or into a prepared nursery bed.

They may be out of doors all this time since greenhouse shelter is certainly not needed, but the seedlings must never be allowed to dry out either in sun or wind.

By the end of August, a row of good soil in the vegetable garden, fertilized for a previous crop, will be the ideal place for these plants to spend the winter.

Many will flower early next summer when a selection of the desired colors can be made and the selected plants transferred to their permanent flowering quarters in beds or borders.

Supreme Court To Hear Dispute Between Unions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada agreed Monday to hear an appeal in connection with an application by the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 882 (CLC), for certification in 10 forest industry manufacturing plants in British Columbia.

The court granted leave to appeal in the case to the labor relations board for British Columbia, International Woodworkers of America (CLC) and Forest Industrial Relations Limited.

The application of the engineers to the labor relations board was opposed by IWA, main bargaining agent in the industry, and by the industry itself, represented by Forest Industrial Relations. The board rejected the engineers' application last July 29.

Major increase in expenditure was for education—from $31,000,000 to $38,000,000. The deficit increased the net debt from $17,300,000 to $19,500,000.

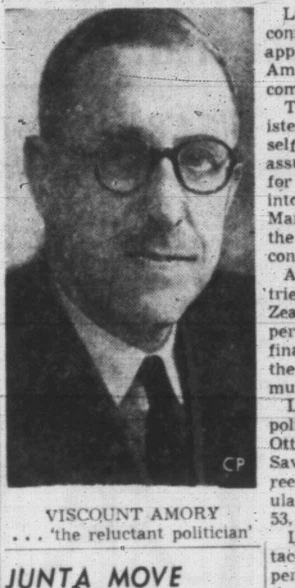
POLITICAL MOVE?

Mac Looks Ahead In Envoy Choice



VISCOUNT AMORY
. . . 'the reluctant politician'

LONDON (CP) — Political connotations are seen in the appointment of Viscount Amory as Britain's new high commissioner to Canada.

The view is that Prime Minister Macmillan, girding himself for the coming struggle to assure Commonwealth support for Britain's expected entry into the European Common Market, is seeking to ensure the closest possible political contacts with Ottawa.

Among Commonwealth countries, Canada along with New Zealand is likely to be most perturbed if and when Britain finally takes the plunge into the European economic community.

Lord Amory, 61, is the first political appointment to the Ottawa post. He succeeds Sir Saville Garner, a respected career officer who has been popular in Canada. Sir Saville, 53, is to leave Ottawa in July.

Lord Amory, a tall, bespectacled man, is an engaging personality with a quiet, throw-it-away style of humor.

Known in Westminster as the "reluctant politician" because of his apparent lack of ambition for high office, he entered political life after the Second World War under urging from Sir Winston Churchill.

He was a well-liked minister of agriculture for three and one-half years before becoming chancellor of the exchequer, a job he relinquished last year at his own request.

JUNTA MOVE

Gallup Poll To Decide Korea Future

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korea's military junta government said today it will take a Gallup-type poll this week to determine how to run the country.

The junta said it will send out college students to quiz about 1,500 voters chosen in Seoul at random on 24 basic questions as a means of determining what line to take in governing the country.

Among the matters to be covered by the poll were the harsh penalties the revolutionary regime has meted out to "hoodlums" and its punishment of 45 persons convicted of "dancing illegally" in violation of a junta decree.

At the same time, the junta ordered military regimes in South Korea's provinces to rush the land-reform begun a decade ago to completion this year.

'DRIVE PORTUGAL OUT OF ANGOLA'

World Boycott Asked by Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — Ghanaian President Kwame Nkrumah called Tuesday night for a world-wide boycott and concerted Afro-Asian action at the United Nations to "drive Portugal out of Angola.

In an address to Parliament, Nkrumah said appeals must be made to the Portuguese people "by every peaceful means at our command" to end this "unjust and inhuman colodnial war."

"Alone, we can do nothing for the people of Angola," he said. "United we are certain of securing their triumph."

Nkrumah urged the 46-nation Afro-Asian group in the United Nations to work for a "positive, effective resolution" in the Security Council when the Angola situation comes up for discussion.

OUIMET TELLS COMMONS GROUP

CBC Must Be Kept Intact

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet said today that the publicly-owned corporation would like to see a second Canadian television network but not at the expense of the CBC's existing national service.

He told the Commons broadcasting committee that if a second network is desirable the CBC's present network of 13 CBC and 46 private stations should be kept intact.

A second network should be built up over and above what the CBC already operates.

Mr. Ouimet testified as the committee continued its investigation of the current controversy resulting from the fact privately-owned CFTO-TV Toronto outbid the CBC for the 1961 and 1962 TV rights to Big Four football games. The CBC has rejected suggestions that its network be split to allow some private-affiliated stations to carry the Big Four broadcasts.

WOULD DESTROY SERVICE

Mr. Ouimet said that splitting the CBC network for football or hockey would destroy the national television service provided by the corporation. A second network would be created at the expense of the CBC's service.

Art Smith (PC—Calgary South) said Mr. Ouimet had "exaggerated the situation". Mr. Ouimet said it was possible to create a second network without splitting the CBC network. However, it wasn't necessary for private stations to have a second network merely to exchange programs. Such programs were available on tape.

Appreciation Winner Appreciates Trip by Plane

Elated winner of a trip for two to any point in Canada served by Trans Canada Air-lines is Mrs. Myrtle Thomas of 960 Terrace Ave.

Her name was drawn Monday from the names of all purchasers of Tourist Appreciation Week buttons, along with the six winners of transistor radio consolation prizes.

Mrs. Thomas heard about her good luck when she received a phone call Monday afternoon from John Coppinger, manager of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors Tourist Appreciation Week.

She said today that while she was pleased and excited she still hadn't made up her mind where to go. A widow, Mrs. Thomas said she might take one of her grandchildren and visit friends in New Brunswick.

Total sales of TAW buttons, which finance the arrangements for the week and the prizes, exclusive of the trip donated by TCA, are expected to run close to 7,000, a little ahead of last year.

Winners of the transistor radios were:

G. A. Giles, 2710 Mt. Stephen; Mrs. N. D. Gray, 855 Vancouver; William McAlpine, 673 Benvenuto; Mrs. Lily McLaren, 2059 Byron; Keith Taylor, 3430 Woodburn; and Lee Flach, 865 Vernon.

MPs Retain Death Penalty For Women

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons voted Tuesday to retain the death penalty for premeditated murders committed by women.

It also decided against a Conservative back-bencher's proposal that youths of 16—instead of the proposed minimum age of 18 should be subject to hanging for the same crime.

The two votes were taken in quick succession while the Commons sat as a committee dealing with clause-by-clause study of the new government death-penalty bill.

FINANCING SOUGHT

Blanshard Extension Wins Approval Again

Immediate steps to find a source of financing Blanshard Street extension was asked by city public works committee Tuesday.

The committee reaffirmed its support of the plan as adopted in October of last year, approved then because it dovetails with other downtown expansion for the future.

Its reconsideration of the earlier plan "shoots down" a suggestion made a few days ago that Quadra Street widening be accelerated as a cheaper means of speeding traffic.

Cost of the Blanshard Street proposal and of rebuilding a bottleneck intersection at Johnson, Wharf and Store Streets is estimated at $1,000,000.

Finance committee was asked to explore possible means of obtaining money for the project, about $800,000 for Blanshard and $200,000 for the other.

It is proposed to extend Blanshard from Hillside, where it forms a "T" intersection, through school board property and other private lots northward to link in Saanich with Douglas or Patricia Bay Highway.

This concept has long been considered as part of the city's over-all plans for urban redevelopment, to inject new life into the downtown area by better access and parking facilities, thus retaining the area as the centre of commerce.

More Economical Solution

The conflicting project was offered as a more economical solution to the problem by finance committee chairman Ald. Austin Curtis. Mayor Percy Scurrah and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, public works chairman, gave it early support.

Reaffirmation of the old plan was made in response to a four-page report by engineer James Garnett, clarifying the proposal. He said:

1. Quadra Street already is at capacity in the peak hours and widening can relieve only the existing condition, not extra capacity, nor relieve the strain on Fountain Circle.

"Thus, without an entirely additional highway, both these entrance routes will become serious bottlenecks in the near future and will result in stifling business in the city," Mr. Garnett said.

2. An essential feature of a modern highway capacity route is freedom from uncontrolled access, which fully-developed Quadra Street cannot provide.

3. Other Quadra limitations include the bottleneck between Royal Oak Avenue and Douglas-Quadra intersections on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Four Lanes to Airport

The provincial government has plans for a by-pass for the highway at this point, fitting in with its plans for a four-lane route to Patricia Bay airport and Swartz Bay ferry facilities.

This would deliver traffic to Douglas, with ample capacity now. But with creation of a completely new highway from this point south, as the government foresees, Douglas Street south of Trans-Canada Highway intersection would be "entirely inadequate to handle this additional load."

"It is the provincial government's concept that the new Patricia Bay Highway by-pass this junction and go behind the new Saanich Road shopping centre to link with Blanhard Street extension," the engineer said.

Such a plan, he said, would provide for a considerable increase in volume of traffic downtown.

The downtown area has commercial pulling power "but urgently needs parking facilities and better access."

Even if parking were prohibited along Quadra's entire length, Mr. Garnett said, load capacities indicate it would handle only 1,000 cars an hour.

4. The provincial government should pay more towards the cost of arterial highways within the city, since there is high mileage, hence high gasoline tax revenue, on city streets.

5. The land involved in the Blanshard extension is mostly undeveloped, and if the opportunity to obtain it is not seized now, it may be lost to expensive new commercial development.

New CD Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—A national health committee has been set up to advise Health Minister Monteith in event of a nuclear attack on Canada. The committee, officials said Tuesday, was formed at a closed meeting of Canadian doctors, veterinarians, nurses and dentists. Named as chairman was Deputy Health Minister Dr. G. D. W. Cameron.

Human Chain Triumphs

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (AP)—Twenty-four teen-agers, who formed a human chain across a breached dike until it could be shored up, have the sniffles Wednesday—and the satisfaction of having saved valuable farmland.

Army engineers, sent here to direct the fight against the swollen Kootenai River, said the boys stood waist deep in the frigid waters, locked arm in arm, for several minutes while other volunteers worked feverishly to place sandbags across the breach.

It was a 20th-century version of the Dutch legend of the little boy who saved Holland by sticking his finger in the dike—except that the Bonners Ferry boys used their backs to stam the tide.

'FREEDOM RIDERS'

Gov't Tries To Link KKK To Violence

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The justice department planned to continue today its efforts to link the Ku Klux Klan to mob violence against "Freedom Riders" in Anniston, Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala.

This is the third day since the government launched a hearing in federal court aimed at:

1. Making permanent an existing injunction against the KKK.

2. Obtaining an order requiring Birmingham and Montgomery police to provide protection for future interstate passengers.

During the second day of testimony before U.S. District Judge Frank Johnson three witnesses refused to answer at least some of the questions put to them. They pleaded the fifth amendment of the constitution, saying answers might tend to incriminate them.

One witness was cited for contempt after he refused to tell the judge who advised him to use the fifth-amendment plea.

CONVICTION UPHELD

Also in Montgomery Tuesday, the Alabama court of appeals upheld the conviction of 12 Negroes arrested in a series of lunch-counter sit-ins, ruling that a merchant can serve customers he sees fit.

Eight more integrationists arrived at Jackson, Miss., Tuesday and followed their predecessors to jail as the "Freedom Rider" movement continued.

The riders jailed Tuesday—five white and three Negroes—rode a train instead of a bus and were arrested when they tried to use white facilities at the railway station in Jackson.

Alberta Bids For Alaska Road Route

EDMONTON (CP) — Hon. Gordon Taylor said Tuesday night that the Alaska Highway should go through Alberta rather than British Columbia. Mr. Taylor was speaking at a dinner sponsored by the City of Edmonton and the province to a group of Montanans on a trip by plane to promote the paving of the Alaska Highway.

Neil Wall, chairman of the Montana Chamber of Commerce international relations committee, said afterward that his chamber agreed with Mr. Taylor's arguments.

Mr. Taylor, Alberta Highways Minister, contended that if the highway went through Alberta it would avoid British Columbia's mountainous terrain and could be kept open 12 months of the year more easily.

No General Election Bennett's Prediction

The federal byelection results pleased everybody, but won't spark a general election, Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

He told a press conference that if he were prime minister, he would not call a general election on the basis of Monday's results.

"I'm sure Mr. Diefenbaker will not either," said Mr. Bennett. "He will call an election when it is for the good of the country."

He added: "Everybody is pleased. The Conservatives because they won; the Liberals because they were such a strong second; the New Party because it polled such a large vote and Social Credit because we got four-fold as many votes as last time."

HE'LL MARRY GIRL HE STABBED

They Run Hot and Cold

WINCHESTER, England (UPI)—Frank Chapman will walk out of prison Thursday to marry the girl he stabbed, and then return to his cell to finish his sentence for the crime.

The civil ceremony here will climax a stormy romance between Chapman, 31, and 20-year-old Eileen Russell.

Chapman abducted Eileen when she was 16, and served an 18-month prison term for the crime. When he finished the sentence, she was waiting for him.

Then they quarreled, and Eileen complained to a magistrate's court. Chapman was put on probation. Angry at her complaint, he stabbed Eileen in March and was sentenced to another 18-month prison term.

The romance warmed up again when they started corresponding. Chapman proposed in a letter from prison, and earlier this month Eileen wrote back: "Yes."

YoungSchoolRunners Compete in Finals

The track stars of the elementary schools had their day at Victoria High School Tuesday.

A total of 148 sprinters competed in the finals of the inter-school track meet. They were the winners among the nearly 3,000 students who took part in competitions among 32 schools in seven zones earlier this month.

GAVE THEIR ALL

The pint-sized athletes gave their all to the 85-yard sprints and relays. It was the first time that scores were counted individually, rather than by schools.

The meet was designed to serve as an introduction to junior high school competition, which will come soon for many of Tuesday's stars.

Winners:

Sprint results—10 and under girls: 1. P. Shade, 2. Arlene Zannet, 3. Elaine Jones; 10 and under boys—John Pennington, Greg Shroeder, B. Fediw; 11 and under girls—B. Hall, Evelyn Butler, D Kennedy; boys—Jack Harper, R. Green, Ronnie Langley; 85 yard open: girls—Ingrid Pedersen, Edna Lofting, Monica Groth; boys — Paul Louie, William Wong, Garry Griffin.

Relay results: 10 and under, girls—winning school teams: Oaklands, Doncaster, Cloverdale; boys — Willows, Burnside, Margaret Jenkins; 11 and under, girls—Willows, Doncaster, Tillicum; boys — Willows, Gordon Head, Tillicum.

SPARKED VARSITY DRIVE

Chamber Group 'Very Happy' With Success

By GORDON BELL

Convocation at the University of Victoria Monday, following on the weekend an announcement of plans for expansion on the Gordon Head campus made by the University Development Board, was an especially happy occasion for a group of local businessmen who provided the initial spark to create a university for Vancouver Island.

This group was a committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, appointed in 1957 under the chairmanship of Capt. Ronald Newell.

It was the Chamber of Commerce committee which was instrumental in acquiring the Gordon Head property when it was declared surplus by the Department of National Defence.

The committee persuaded Premier Bennett to meet voluntary donations dollar-for-dollar with provincial funds and then it swung into action with a fund-raising campaign which brought in over $2.2 million from local and national sources.

Capt. Newell said today: "After the amount of effort, time, sweat and tears put into this project by our committee naturally we're very pleased with the results."

"We tried very hard to bring this about and now that it has been achieved, I know I speak for the whole committee when I say that the projected university will be a great asset to Greater Victoria and to all of British Columbia," he added.

Future Appears 'Solid'

Capt. Newell believed that the future of the university looked very solid with the plans which were unveiled at the weekend. And he said there was now considerable assurance that students who were qualified for a university education would be able to obtain it, providing that the government and public support which had been given so far was continued.

Alderman Austin Curtis, who as president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1957 was responsible for appointing the committee, said: "Naturally I'm very happy the committee was successful in helping to establish the university. I look on this as comparable to the establishment of a new industry for the Victoria area and I'm sure it will contribute greatly to the growth of the area."

Also solidly supporting the new university plans is the Victoria Labor Council which has urged consistently from the beginning that a single site was necessary for successful operation.

Council secretary-treasurer Ald. A. W. Toone said today that it was the council's hope that the full liberal arts program would be implemented as soon as possible. He hoped that federal government assistance would be available to bring this about.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch also expressed his satisfaction at the plans for the university campus which takes in about 140 acres of Oak Bay municipality.

He pointed out that the campus would cover almost seven per cent of Oak Bay and would greatly enhance land values. With the present campus plan, he said, there are now only about 30 acres of land in the municipality left for development.

COLORFUL CAREER

Anglican Primate Retires

LONDON (UPI) — Geoffrey Fisher, the 74-year-old Anglican primate who tried to bring the Church of England and the Roman Catholic Church closer together, retires at midnight as the Archbishop of Canterbury.

He will be succeeded June 28 by Arthur M. Ramsey, now Archbishop of York.

The outgoing archbishop, 99th primate of all England, told newsmen Tuesday he planned to retire to the country. He said he might be willing to take a new job if the duties were not too arduous.

"The house I want has got to be far enough away from London to escape suburbia," he said. "If anyone wants me, there are a number of fields in which I might be tempted, more probably in what I might call a reflective rather than an executive capacity."

His last official function was his appearance Tuesday as chairman at a meeting of the Anglican Church assembly's standing committee.

Ceremonies at which the archbishop officiated during 16 years as Britain's principal prelate included the weddings of Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, the Queen's Coronation and the funerals of King George VI and Queen Mary.

The archbishop stirred a controversy in 1955 by advising Margaret to give up her divorced sweetheart Peter Townsend. He has always denied, however, that he blocked the marriage, saying the princess made up her own mind.

Tourist Dies On Cruise Ship

CAMPBELL RIVER—A tourist, Mrs. Andrew Price, of Fort Worth, Texas, died aboard the Alaska-bound CPR cruise ship Princess Louise, presumably of a heart attack.

Her body was put ashore here Tuesday and Dr. N. B. Hall, coroner, said an inquiry would be held. Her husband and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Owens, also stayed here.

Transfer was made by the RCMP patrol vessel Massett, which met the cruise ship at Duncan Bay, three miles north of here.

Mac-Powell Drops Foleys From Board

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold S. Foley, former vice-president of the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Company has been dropped from the big forest industry firm's executive committee.

His omission was disclosed Tuesday as chairman J. V. Clyne announced the list of executives elected at a meeting of the board of directors last Wdnesday.

George W. O'Brien, a longtime executive of the Powell River company, also left the policy-making group. He said he did not stand for re-election for "purely personal reasons."

Also dropped from the executive committee was M. J. (Joe) Foley, Harold's younger brother, who resigned from the company after a management disagreement in mid-April and became vice-chairman of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills in Quebec.

Filling the Foley's positions are Vancouver financiers Alan H. Williamson and Frank H. Brown.

Harold Foley Tuesday declined to explain his omission from the executive but it is reported that he now plans to resign from the board of directors.

Stories that discord was developing in the company had been prevalent since the merger of MacMillan and Bloedel and the Powell River Company in December, 1959.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Joe Foley resigned April 19 as president of the merged companies and said he was quitting because of a policy dispute. At the company's annual meeting April 25, chairman Clyne charged that there had been a lack of executive teamwork.

His attack apparently took the Foleys by surprise and as a result Harold Foley stepped down from his position as vice-chairman. H. R. MacMillan, dean of the B.C. lumber industry, quit as honorary chairman.

However, MacMillan remains on the executive committee along with Prentice Bloedel of Seattle, Conley Brooks of Minneapolis, president R. M. Shaw, W. J. VanDusen, Brown, Williamson and Clyne.

Plans Made For Philip's Conference

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian industry and labor have contributed more than $600,000 to finance the Duke of Edinburgh's second Commonwealth study conference next year, a 25-day investigation of the impact of the industrial community on family life.

A steering committee announced this when it met here to assess progress in the organization of the conference scheduled to begin May 13, 1962, in Montreal.

The money will underwrite the cost of a concentrated study of particular human problems by 300 delegates from more than 30 countries during a nation-wide tour.

The delegates, young men and women likely to assume positions of leadership and responsibility within a decade, will hold two days of plenary sessions in Montreal. Prince Philip, conference president, will address the opening session May 14.

The group will spend a day in Ottawa before breaking into groups of 15 to visit selected industrial communities in Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

On May 27 delegates will board two special trains here for the journey to Vancouver.

SPECIAL JOB PROJECTS

Federal Gov't Aids Nova Scotia Miners

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is continuing special coal subventions to alleviate coalmining layoffs in Nova Scotia, Mines Minister Comtois said Tuesday, and will allocate $1,500,000 for special job-making projects.

The special subsidy on freight rates to make Maritimes coal competitive in Central Canada was inaugurated last year for areas previously outside the so-called subventions zone and was paid to Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to keep three pits open.

Mr. Comtois said this alone won't be enough. Layoffs would continue and the special $1,500,000 fund was being established — after parliamentary approval — for Cape Breton projects that would be approved on their merits.

Aside from the special subvention, other subsidies are paid on Maritimes coal as well.

The one being extended from June 1 to Aug. 1 next year amounts to $1 a ton — 80 cents from the federal government and 20 cents from the Nova Scotia government up to a maximum $300,000.

Mr. Comtois recalled that this has gone to Dosco on the express understanding that the company provide assurance it would use the money to keep as many men at work as possible.

Pacific Pete Streamlines

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Gordon Bell

Pacific Petroleums Ltd. president John Getgood has scotched rumors that Pacific's northeastern B.C. refining and marketing operations were going to pot with an announcement of a stream-lined set-up which will concentrate all refining operations at Taylor Flats.

When Pacific's subsidiary, XL Refineries, at Dawson Creek, was cleared last month the company began shipping refined products from Alberta into the area and there were fears that B.C. producers were to be cut down and, also, that the Trans Prairie Pipelines Ltd. link between Fort St John and Dawson Creek would be abandoned.

However, the Pacific plan is not that drastic although it will result in loss of employment for about 40 persons as well as temporary reduction in throughput capacity.

As Mr. Getgood explained it, the plan is to leave the Dawson Creek refinery intact except for the asphalt refining section which is being moved to Pacific's refinery at Taylor Flats. This will boost Taylor Flat's crude throughput from 2,000 to 3,000 barrels daily plus 3,500 barrels daily of natural gas liquids from the scrubbing plant.

The Trans Prairie line will be switched over to refined products carried from Taylor Flats to the Dawson Creek market area.

Most important component of the Taylor Flats refinery is the gas scrubbing operation which can handle 330 million cubic feet of natural gas daily, producing about 300 million cubic feet of clean line gas.

Although the Dawson Creek refinery is being left for possible future use and could be put back on stream quickly if market demand warrants, all key personnel are being moved to Taylor Flats.

Foreign exchange problems continue to bedevil Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co. Ltd., as president Henry Borden pointed out in his annual report.

Although earnings in Brazilian cruzeiros for 1960 showed an increase, it was not enough to offset the continuing inflationary devaluation of the currency. In addition, currency exchange regulations continue to make it difficult to effect transfer of funds.

Mr. Borden reported that it was no longer necessary or desirable to make abnormal provision for depreciation or amortization and as a result the net profit figure for the year showed a good increase from 58 cents a share in 1959 to 97 cents a share in 1960.

However, a better assessment of the company's year can be made by noting that if Brazilian computed its net income for 1959 on the same basis as for 1960 the net per share would have been $1.43.

Bank of Canada statistics show that speculative activity in Canadian stock markets declined slightly between December, 1957, and March of this year, while New York Stock Exchange figures reveal an increase of about 50 per cent in U.S. speculative activity for the same period.

Customers' debit balances carried by the Montreal, Canadian and Toronto exchanges during that term dropped from $154 million to $152 million.

On the New York exchange the balance rose from $2,482 million to $3,604 million.

Standard Oil of B.C. is pushing ahead with its plans to invade the Alberta retail market with a new station going up in Edmonton and two building contracts let in Calgary.

Standard is expected to have six retail outlets in operation by the end of the year to familiarize Albertans with the brand name before making a full-scale push.

Certain to bring a howl from truckers who have not yet been taken over by the railways is an announcement by the CNR of new "incentive" freight rates on an experimental basis in central Canada.

The CNR will offer shippers special rates on 11 minimum weights ranging from 20,000 to 120,000 pounds. The scheme is designed to encourage loading toward full boxcar capacity.

How do consumer market research analysts arrive at some of the figures they throw around so glibly?

For instance, an announcement by Coutts Hallmark Cards of a new line of party goods, tosses in the information that there will be an estimated 23 million parties held in Canada this year.

How do they know?

Torwest Resources, Ltd., is negotiating with two large mining firms to take over development of its two Craigmont area properties, it was disclosed at the annual meeting in Vancouver.

Names of the companies were not disclosed but it was stated that some kind of deal should be made within two months.

It was also stated that Torwest could raise another $50,000 through sale of 193,000 treasury shares. The sale has been approved by the Ontario Securities Commission subject to Torwest filing a prospectus.

If it is decided to go ahead with the sale, Torwest probably would apply for a listing on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

TV, RADIO SALES DROP IN CANADA THIS YEAR

OTTAWA (UPI) — Producers sold fewer television sets, radios and record players in the first quarter of this year than in 1960, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

January-March sales of TV sets numbered 77,772 units compared to 81,651 a year ago. Radio sales dropped from last year's 155,149 to 139,548, while record players sales were down from 38,792 to 31,249.

Trade Problems Told by Crump

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — Increasingly grave difficulties face Canada in marketing her goods in a world divided into trading blocs, president N. R. Crump of the Canadian Pacific Railway said Tuesday.

Mr. Crump, here for the first directors meeting of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company to be held in the Kootenays, was speaking of the problems faced by the recently-formed National Productivity Council, of which he is a member.

He told a meeting of civic and business officials no solution to Canada's international trade difficulties can be found without fair co-operation of management and labor.

He said the council's task is to make a thorough survey of Canadian business and decide how it can best trade in a world divided into such blocs as the hard currency area, the sterling bloc, the European Common Market, West and East.

Mr. Crump made a tour of Cominco's Sullivan mine here with company president W. S. Kirkpatrick and 11 other directors.

FOYT WINS BY 8½ SECONDS

NEW RECORD IN INDIANAPOLIS 500

Big Prize Almost Slipped Through Texan's Fingers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Texan A. J. Foyt, who sits mighty tall in a race car seat, will learn at tonight's victory dinner how much he won Tuesday by capturing the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race in a record 139.131 miles an hour.

The top prize of $100,000 or so almost slipped through his fingers in a ferociously contested race on Tuesday that knocked out 21 of the 33 starting cars before the checkered flag fell. And, because of a breakdown in the timing system, it wasn't until Tuesday night that he learned he'd set a record.

It was a three-car race in the last stages among Foyt, 26, the big car champion from Houston, Texas; Eddie Sachs, of Center Valley, Pa., and 1959 winner Rodger Ward. And it finally was decided in the pits.

Foyt made his third and supposedly last pit stop for tires and fuel, but the connection on the pressure fueling system wouldn't work. His crew borrowed a refueling rig and called Foyt back in for an extra stop.

Meanwhile, Sachs was flying and looked like a sure winner, after failing to finish in four previous starts. Then his right rear tire wore ragged and he had to stop for a new one with only three laps—7½ miles—to go.

Foyt passed Sachs as the Pennsylvanian was gunning his car out of the pits. The handsome Texan beat Eddie to the finish line by 8½ seconds. With four pit stops apiece, Sachs spent 8 2-5 seconds more off the track.

Foyt drove the Indianapolis Bowes Special. Sachs the Long Beach, Calif., Dean Special.

Ward, having trouble with a new type Watson car, was less than a lap behind in third place.

Mechanical trouble sent Jim Rathmann, last year's winner, to the sidelines after he had led part of the race. Other leaders at various times included 1952 winner Troy Ruttman, who became physically exhausted; rookie Parnelli Jones and second-time starter Jim Hurtubise.

Hurtubise and Jones both suffered facial cuts from small flying objects, and Jones' cut forced him into a four-minute-plus pit stop. He had to change goggles three times because of blood from his eyebrow.

Jack Brabham, of Australia, the world road racing champion, drove a shrewd, smooth race to ninth place but was never in contention. His little English Cooper simply didn't have enough "oomph" on the straightaways as the American Offenhausers remained kings of the speedway for the 15th straight year.

Following the third-place Ward, in order, were Shorty Templeman, Al Keller, Chuck Stevenson, Bobby Marshman, Lloyd Ruby, Brabham and Norman Hall.

The race was run without death or serious injury to a driver, in spite of a series of spectacular wrecks on the west main straightaway. A speedway guard, John Masariu, became the old racing plant's 54th fatality, however, when a fire truck backed over him after extinguishing a fire in Eddie Johnson's wrecked car.

The first posted time had Foyt finished at 138.466 which would have been a whisker behind Rathmann's record 138.767 last year. However, during the evening, speedway officials revealed timing equipment had gone bad on the 175th lap and had to be replaced by stop watches for two or three minutes.

The corrected time—139.131—made Foyt the fastest ever to finish the race.

SIDELINE SLANTS
BY
Doug Peden

Unless I have a deuce or two riding on one of the critters, horse racing seldom excites me. Just about anybody who doesn't make a habit of beating small dogs gets a kick out of watching horses run, but it usually takes the price of a mutuel ticket to get the innards squirming during the run down the home stretch.

I can't say the same about races run by Carry Back, the little colt that this Saturday goes after the Belmont Stakes—the third jewel in racing's triple crown.

The drives he made to the wire to grab the first two jewels—the Kentucky Derby and Preakness—were heart-stoppers that almost made the idiot box seem worth while.

The bubble may burst Saturday, but this is a colt with color and one that seems to have been adopted by the people as their kind of a horse, partly because he runs from behind but mainly because he's been ridiculed by turfdom's elite as a scrawny youngster from the wrong side of the tracks who has a knack of throwing dirt in the collective faces of racing's bluebloods.

* * *

Like a million other guys and gals, I'm for Carry Back because they call him scrawny and unfashionable—and because he's a come-from-behind scrapper. Learned turf experts will tell you that running from behind doesn't mean too much and that Carry Back's times are ordinary. A horse can run a mile and a quarter just so fast, whether he goes to the front or lays back until the last turn. But the way he does it, you'd almost swear Carry Back enjoys giving people heart attacks and works just hard enough to win.

Maybe he hasn't been busting any records, but only the great ones win every Saturday.

* * *

From the way race track snobs have been lifting their eyebrows, you'd almost suspect Carry Back had buck teeth and a tail like a camel. Listening to TV accounts and reading about the colt that has now won more than $700,000, you'd think he was just an overgrown Shetland pony. He has been described as "having the stringy homeliness of a dirty muskrat." And owner Jack Price appears willing to go along with the story.

In racing, they say "breed to the best and hope for the best" and Price bred the best he had to the best he could afford.

Price acquired Carry Back's dam, Joppy, for $150 and a cancelled $115 board bill. The stud fee for Carry Back was $400, because his dam was one of a group bred to Saggy at wholesale discount.

Trained racing people may be able to believe that Carry Back is a scrawny-looking thing, but for my money that part of his saga is untrue. From my TV seat he looks like a reasonably handsome colt, and the worst that can be said about him physically is that he's on the small side. And that's hardly a rap when you consider all the tremendous horses of the past that have also been smallish—Sword Dancer, Determine and Alsab, to name a few.

* * *

Carry Back's so-called unfashionable breeding only goes as far as the cost. All thoroughbreds come from the same book. And Carry Back doesn't have any reason to apologize to his ancestors.

For authority, we give you Frank Talmadge Phelps, the breeding expert for The Thoroughbred Record, who writes: "The presence within his first three generations of such sires as Equipoise, Hyperion and Blenheim II, as well as such mares as Chantress and Starweed, gives Carry Back enough quality in his bloodlines to qualify as a Derby winner."

* * *

Although Saggy had a habit of folding in the stretch, his sire, Swing and Sway, won the Whitney Stakes at a mile and a quarter.

"As a son of the brilliant Equipoise," Phelps points out, "Swing and Sway had a right to be any kind of a stallion. One suspects, however, that a considerable portion of Carry Back's staying ability is inherited from Saggy's dam, Chantress, daughter of the splendid classicist and superb sire, Hyperion.

"Joppy was the daughter of the virtually unknown Star Blen. But Star Blen was the son of the English Derby winner, Blenheim II, sire of classic victors on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. Star Blen's dam, Starweed, won the Wilbraham Stakes in England. Joppy's dam, Miss Fairfax, is inbred to the tremendous French stallion, Teddy, with one free generation . . ."

It's high-falutin' language, but it just goes to show that you shouldn't believe all those yarns about Carry Back being from the wrong side of the tracks.

He's better in the bloodlines than 90 per cent of his cafe society detractors who have been looking down their snobbish noses at his ancestors.

And when he's going by horses in the home stretch, he's a thing of beauty.

The squabble between Little League baseball and the medical fraternity is in the news again and there are a couple of articles coming up that should make interesting reading for anybody interested in the program that now involves hundreds of boys in this area.

Slated for the Weekend Magazine of next Saturday's Times is a piece by Andy O'Brien. Another is printed in the June edition of Reader's Digest.

Both boil down to the fact that Little League baseball is just fine, as long as parents leave it to the kids and don't put too much stress on winning and individual excellence. The danger is immature parents.

Four-and-Twenty Runs 1.34.2 Mile

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Four-and-Twenty has regained his role as probably the best three-year-old runner campaigning on the west coast.

The colt, in the purple and white silks of Alberta Ranches, won the $28,000 Will Rogers Stakes Tuesday in a stirring struggle before 63,079 Memorial Day fans at Hollywood Park.

The victory hardly atoned for Four-and-Twenty's dismal seventh-place finish in the Kentucky Derby May 6 but it did establish him as the horse to beat in the $100,000-Added Hollywood Derby in July.

The one-mile Will Rogers turned out to be a ding dong duel between Four-and-Twenty, with Johnny Longden up, and Olden Times, ridden by Willie Shoemaker. Sonofagun ran third.

The time of 1.34 2-5 equalled the race record set by Round Table under 122 pounds in 1957. Four-and-Twenty carried 126.

There was never any alibi for Four-and-Twenty's poor showing at Churchill Downs. Western turf writers contend he just ran into too many better eastern colts.

But Vince Glorioso, who is training the colt in the absence of head trainer Vance Longden, said: "He's in a lot better shape than he was when he ran in the Kentucky Derby."

Vance Longden is back east with the stable's other three-year-old hope, Flutterby, pointing toward the Belmont Stakes June 3.

Mexicans Blank Royals in Final

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Mexican select team won the John F. Kennedy Trophy and $1,000 in prize money Tuesday by defeating Westminster Royals of British Columbia 3-0 in the finals of the first Pacific international soccer tournament.

In the consolation round, San Francisco and Los Angeles tied 1-1 for third place.

The hard-playing Aztecs sewed up the championship match in the first half on a goal by Carlos Zapata at the three-minute mark and a pair by Armando Carrido at 23 and 29 minutes.

An estimated 4,600 fans turned out for the games in Rancho Cienega Stadium.

New Formula Tried by Vics

New Westminster sticks to its successful format—one that has provided 10 straight victories—but Victoria tries a new tack in a bid to vacate the Inter-City Lacrosse League basement.

Westminster's formula—steady goaltending by Les Norman and sufficient firepower by a smooth-working offense—gave the unbeaten leaders their 10th win Tuesday. They defeated Vancouver 9-6.

The change comes in Victoria's Memorial Arena where, tonight, the Vics face Nanaimo.

Manager Whitey Severson, who will handle the Victoria team in the absence of coach Arnie Ferguson, says the cellar-dwellers will concentrate on packing two forward lines in an effort to produce greater scoring punch.

Severson himself figures in the lineup shuffle, moving to a line with Jim McNeill and Jack Showers. Ron Jay, Tom Collett and rookie Rod Kilduff make up the second unit, with Al Gill available for spot duty.

Gill, returning to the lacrosse wars after a short-lived retirement, will start on defence but may move to a forward line "if needed".

NEW BLOOD SOUGHT

Severson also disclosed today that the Vics are attempting to get "three or four" players from New Westminster.

The list includes one-time Victoria stalwart Jack Howes.

"Jack apparently has been given his release. We're still not too well informed on why, but I have heard that he suffered a bad injury. At any rate, we're checking into it," said Severson. "We hope we can get him."

The other players—all rookies—are Wayne Shuttleworth, Larry Brownlee and Keith Jackson. All were cut by the power-packed leaders this week.

Henley Too Costly

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia announced Tuesday that its oarsmen will not compete in the Henley Regatta in England this summer.

The University said the main reason is anticipated trouble in raising $15,000 for expenses and the crew's lack of experience.

Bye Bye BOGIES

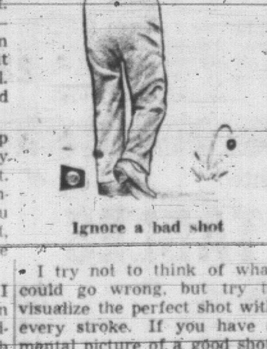
Pressure

No other game that I know of calls for greater control of emotions and feelings, more complete self command than golf.

Perhaps that is one of the game's greatest fascinations. When you have mastered golf, you have mastered yourself. There are so many things—some of them petty—that can put a golfer under pressure it is impossible to list them all. A bad shot for instance—and we all make them.

I find the best way to keep a bad shot from ruining my game is to simply ignore it. Forget it happened. Concentrate on the next shot. If you keep dwelling on a bad shot, it multiplies itself into more bad shots.

When I'm under pressure, I do better if I play the shot in which I have the most confidence. I often will take a club I wouldn't ordinarily use, simply because I feel better using it. Feeling better with it eases tension.



Ignore a bad shot

I try not to think of what could go wrong, but try to visualize the perfect shot with every stroke. If you have a mental picture of a good shot, the chances are you'll make it.

Mind over matter works in golf, particularly when the player is under pressure.

Spencer Traded

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals traded shortstop Daryl Spencer to Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday for shortstop Bob Lillis and rookie outfielder Carl Warwick.

Lillis, 34, who has seen little action this year, will replace Spencer as the No. 1 Cardinal shortstop. The Redbirds have been searching for a satisfactory shortstop for years, ever since the departure of Marty Marion.

Spencer, who will be 32 in July, is hitting .260 and has drawn some boos in recent games for fielding lapses.

Warwick, 24, hit .292 for St. Paul of the American Association last year.

Longshot Psidium Triumphs in Derby

EPSOM, Eng. (CP)—Psidium, a 66-to-1 longshot, won the 182nd running of the English Derby today.

Dicta Drake, the French-owned entry, was second and the American-owned Pardao came third in a photo finish for the runner-up spot.

The finish—a sensational one—had the crowd roaring wildly. Psidium did not make his dash until the last furlong. For a few strides it looked as though he would have a hard task getting the better of Pardao and Dicta Drake.

The lightly-rated Psidium, which hadn't won in three earlier starts this year, moved away in the final furlong to take the top prize of £34,548 ($96,734).

Dicta Drake was 100-to-8 in the betting and Pardao 13-to-2. Sovrango finished fourth at odds of 100-to-7.

Cipriani was fifth, followed in order by: 6, Just Great; 7, Latin Lover; 8, Bounteous; 9, Nicodemus; 10, Hot Brandy; 11, Aliosha, and 12, Belliquex II.

QUEEN SEES RACE

A throng of about 250,000, including Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family, watched the famed 1½-mile race under perfect weather conditions.

An Irish hospital sweepstakes is based on the result of the classic for three-year-olds.

The lead changed hands several times before Psidium, English-owned but ridden by French jockey Rogert Poincelet, pulled away to win by two lengths.

Psidium, owned by Mrs. Arpad Plesch, is a chestnut colt by Pardal out of Linarella.

MOUTIERS ALSO RAN

Moutiers, owned by the 80-year-old widow of American publisher Ralph Strassburger, was favorite for the race at 5-to-1 but was never in the contest after Psidium turned on the speed in the stretch.

Psidium's victory, accomplished over a hard, dry turf course after weeks of near drought, was the biggest upset in the classic since Aboyeur won at 100-to-1 odds in 1913.

Jerome Sets Mark

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Harry Jerome of Vancouver Tuesday won the 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds, equalling the world record, to help University of Oregon to a 70-61 track meet victory over Oregon State.

What! Reds In NL Lead?

New York Yankees fired a prodigious seven-home salute to Memorial Day and Baltimore Orioles popped a pair of classy pitching performances, but with no such style or fanfare Cincinnati Reds enjoyed the happiest holiday celebration of all.

In their inimitable scrambling fashion, the Reds dumped San Francisco Giants in both games of a double-header, 7-6 and 6-4, and moved into a first-place tie in the National League race.

For the Yankees, Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Bill Skowron each hit a pair of homers to tie a major league record and lead a 12-3 bombardment of Boston Red Sox.

This was the fifth time in major league history that three players on a team each hit two homers in a game. Yogi Berra also contributed a homer as the Yankees fell one short of tying the major league record set by their 1939 predecessors.

ORIOLES WARM NOW

Baltimore, meanwhile, capitalized on a pair of pitching performances reminiscent of last season—by Steve Barber and Skinny Brown—to sweep a double-header from Chicago White Sox, 6-0 and 2-1.

The American League race was tightened when first-place Detroit Tigers split a double-header with Kansas City Athletics, winning the opener, 5-3, on Norm Cash's grand slam homer, but losing the second game, 9-3.

Cleveland Indians took advantage of this to move within 2½ games of the lead, sweeping a twin bill from Minnesota Twins, 4-3 and 7-5. In the other AL game, Washington Senators defeated Los Angeles Angels, 5-1.

Chicago Cubs pulled a surprise sweep of a double-header from Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3 and 10-0; and Milwaukee Braves split two games with Philadelphia Phils, winning the first, 3-1, and losing the second, 11-4. In the only holiday night game, Los Angeles Dodgers pulled to within 10 percentage points of the Reds and Giants by turning back St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3.

REDS REALLY ROLLING

In moving into a first-place tie with the Giants, Cincinnati collected 24 hits and ran its latest winning streak to five games. The Reds have won 20 of their last 26.

Vada Pinson, winning pitcher Jim Maloney and Gene Freese each hit a homer that gave the Reds a 7-2 lead in the opening game. The Giants erupted with three homers in the ninth—by Hobie Landrith, Chuck Hiller and Willie Mays in a pinch-hitting role—to come within one run of tying before Jim Henry got the final out.

The second-game win was only slightly easier. Pinson hit a two-run single during a four-run third-inning rally against Juan Marichal. Jim O'Toole yielded seven hits for his fifth victory, although manager Fred Hutchinson called in Bob Purkey to pitch the ninth inning.

Hosts for B.C. Meet

Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club will be the site of the annual provincial tennis championships, July 24-29, it was announced Tuesday by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

"BEST CONTRACT" possibly ever offered a coach was the way Admiral John J. Bergen, head of New York Rangers, today described three-year pact given Doug Harvey (above), former Montreal Canadiens' star defenceman. No salary was mentioned but it is believed Harvey, 36, will receive between $25,000-$27,000 per year as playing coach with the National Hockey League club.

Battle Royal

It's every man for himself.

That's how promoter Rod Fenton describes a nine-man battle royal that takes top billing when the pro wrestlers take over Memorial Arena Saturday night.

Participating in the battle royal, as well as four supporting bouts, will be Whipper Bill Watson, Ivan Kameroff, Joe and Guy Brunetti, Mitsu Arakawa, The Yankee, Bob Morse, Danno McDonald and Doug Lindsey.

Body slams start at 8.30.

Purse-Splitting Pals Guilty of Conspiracy

TEE TOPICS

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Golf is the most consistently inconsistent game known to man, and it's a downright shame a guy has to go to work when there's so much left undone on the practice fairway. My game's as shaky as a pigeon-toed stilt walker coming out of the 19th hole.

Work? I suppose I must, but I feel like a preacher delivering an eulogy at a baptism.

I confess to jealousy, and on such days as these it annoys me to write about people. Such people I wish I were. Like f'rinstance:

Ronald MacLeod . . . He can afford to whistle while he goes to work. Phil Taylor marked up a 61 before they remodelled the Victoria Golf Club links, but nobody since has mistreated ol' Oak Bay like MacLeod did last week. Seven birdies, a bogey on the ninth and 10 pars adds up to 31-32—63, a new unofficial record. The round cost George Bigelow, Laurie Carroll and Harold Lineham a pretty penny. Sickening, hey chaps?

* * *

Vic Derman and Gary Smith . . . They had enough good shots in their bags to win club titles and emerge as strong threats for Saturday's city junior championship hunt at Uplands. Royal Colwood's junior handicap prize went to Smith, while Victor, son of Leo, came up with rounds of 77 and 79 to finish four strokes ahead of Earl Francis in Gorge Vale's junior event.

* * *

Harold Wickstrom, R. H. Snate and Bob Davis . . . A trio who couldn't be more perfect on certain Cedar Hill holes. They all made it in one. For Snate, it was 7 on 11. He used a seven iron to hole out on the 11th. Davis' turn came on the fourth and Wickstrom, playing in a foursome with Gord Hemmingway, Bob Lindell and Luke Lucas, aced the second hole.

* * *

Bill McColl . . . A persistent chap in more ways than one. It took time, but he cured the shanks and could be a real threat when the City Amateur rounds start Sunday at Oak Bay. McColl was around in three-under-par 66 figures to help Oak Bay win its match from Seattle last weekend, and he repeated his persistence to win a semifinal berth in the club championship. Two down after 15 holes, he birdied 16 and 17 and then parred 18 to force Cliff Horwood into overtime. McColl won on the 24th, needing a 35-foot putt to halve the 21st in order to stay alive. Bill joins George Sparling, Doug Munro and Al Manson in the fours, and the bad news for others is that McColl is moving.

* * *

The Tartan Types . . . How those clothiers can enjoy shanking and slicing—year after year—and get away with it amazes me. The haberdashers go at it again next Wednesday at Uplands. Tickets from Reg Fleming, Gil Briscoe, Ron Hughes, Bill Perkins, Bernie Rogers or Jim Pollock, and I can only hope that some day shanking will be as much fun for me as it is for them.

* * *

Doug Willard . . . The Uplands president who can really pick out the winners. For the second straight year, Willard's Warriors defeated Captain Gordon Pellow's side. I couldn't pick a winner if they gave me Gary Player, Stan Leonard and Arnold Palmer. (But let's face it, Memphis isn't giving anybody away.)

* * *

Dave Borthwick . . . A consistent swinger in an inconsistent sport. His handicap dropped one between rounds, but it was still enough to beat out Jim Reside for the Uplands Cup. Dave Humphries and Joe Briggs tied for low gross honors at 152. They could have stretched my handicap to 44 but I still wouldn't have made it close. My game is my biggest handicap.

Work? Aw, I'll do it tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Underworld boxing czar Frankie Carbo and four others Tuesday were convicted of an extortion-conspiracy plot to control the earnings and career of former welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Also found guilty by a U.S. district court jury of 10 women and two men were Carbo's reputed lieutenant, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, 54; Truman Gibson Jr., 47, former president of International Boxing Club; Louis Tom Dragna, 40, and Joseph Sica, 49, both of Los Angeles.

Carbo faces a possible maximum sentence of 85 years in prison, plus $50,000 in fines. Palermo could be sentenced to 125 years in prison, plus $70,000 in fines; Dragna and Gibson, 25 years and $20,000, and Sica, 45 years and $30,000.

SECOND TIME

It was the second time in two years Carbo, 56—boxing's "Mr. Gray"—had been convicted in an underworld boxing case. He spent two years in a New York jail for acting as an undercover managers of fighters in that state.

Ironically, Jordan denied any knowledge of a conspiracy to control him as a fighter and testified the key witness for the prosecution was his undercover manager at the time he fought for the title.

SEVEN COUNTS

Palermo was convicted on seven counts, Carbo on five, Sica on three and Dragna and Gibson, two counts each of conspiracy and extortion.

The prosecution charged that Palermo demanded a percentage of Jordan for a shot at then welterweight champion Virgil Akins in December, 1958. Promoter Jackie Leonard, after arranging the bout, was informed by Jordan's manager, Don Nesseth, he would not go along with any scheme to divide up Jordan's interests, according to trial testimony. Both Nesseth and Leonard testified they were threatened because of the abortive deal.

SENTENCE DATE

Judge Ernest Tolin instructed the defendants to return July 20—10 days after he receives a comprehensive probation report which he requested.

Trial of the five men lasted three months, with the jury receiving the case Saturday. It deliberated a total of about 16 hours, and indicated it was approaching a verdict Tuesday when it requested to have some evidence reread.

Only Gibson, who admitted during the trial the IBC dealt with the underworld to assure unfixed fights, remained free on bail during the case.

Captain's Guidance Sparks Aussie Squad

LONDON — Australian captain Richie Benaud spun the tourists to a 63-run victory over MCC at Lords Tuesday. He declared with the Australians 186 for no wicket in their second innings and MCC needing 294 in 240 minutes to win.

Benaud struck a double blow by taking the vital wickets of Mike Smith and Jim Parks in one over, and MCC slumped from 176 for two to 230 all out.

Other scores:

Hampshire 152 and 77, Lancashire 174 and 56 for 2. Lancashire won by 8 wickets.

Gloucestershire 325 for 6 declared and 246 for 3 declared, Sussex 258 and 304. Gloucestershire won by 109 runs.

Yorkshire 350 for 9 declared and 84 for 2 declared, Leicestershire 132 and 61. Yorkshire won by 241 runs.

Glamorgan 306 for 9 declared and 177 for 8 declared, Derbyshire 308 for 8 declared and 161. Glamorgan won by 14 runs.

Bill's Big Blast Stops Halfways

A thundering home run by Bill Petersen in the 10th inning ruined a fine relief chore by Dave Price Tuesday and enabled Maycocks to trip Half Way House 8-7 in a Senior "B" Men's Softball League thriller at Heywood Park.

Price had kept Maycocks under wraps from the eighth to the 10th when Petersen came up with one out and stroked the ball far out of reach. It was the only hit off Price during his relief stint.

The win boosted the winners into a first-place tie with Chinese Students. Each team has a five-one won-lost record. Half Way is in third place, a game and a half back.

Earlier, Jim Morgan sent Maycocks into a 7-3 lead with a bases-loaded home run in the fifth inning. Half Way House roared back in the ninth inning, scoring four runs to force extra innings but Petersen's whack nullified their efforts.

A solo homer by Vic Westcott and a four-for-five effort by John Kendrew were the main reasons Half Way kept the battle close.

Two firsts were recorded at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

Foul Bay Tugmen won their first Senior "B" Lacrosse League game of the year, nipping Jokers 5-4. And for the losers, it was their first loss after two wins.

Three goals by Ron Marshall and singles by Bert Bertoia and Fred Mair accounted for Foul Bay's scoring. Mair's fourth-quarter shot proved to be the winner. Jokers' goals were split among Dave Collett, Whitey Wakelyn, Al Tarbett and Bob Jones.

Jokers travel to Nanaimo for a game Thursday night.

CANCER WATCHDOGS ROLE FOR DENTISTS

REGINA (CP)—Dental surgeons can play an important part in the early detection and cure of certain types of cancer.

This was the opinion of dentists attending the sixth annual Cancer Symposium who agreed that the exchange of information on cancer would prove extremely valuable to them and to their patients.

Dr. Marvin B. Porter, a dentist from Missoula, Mont., said he had obtained valuable information on the recognition and diagnosing of oral cancer.

"It is getting more important all the time for both general practitioners and dentists to be on the lookout for lesions in routine examinations, it may be a matter of saving lives."

'Teamwork' Needed In Modern Medicine

OTTAWA (CP)—A team approach to medicine was recommended Tuesday to the 41st annual meeting of the Canadian Welfare Council as a way of solving modern-day problems of care and treatment.

In an assessment of Canada's health needs a panel supported group practice by doctor-specialists as an imaginative way of coping with the complexities of modern medicine.

Dr. John Hastings of the University of Toronto's school of hygiene said the pooling of knowledge was the only way to keep pace with medical advances.

A close association with colleagues also inspired doctors to do their best work, he said.

SUPPORTS IDEA

Ted Goldberg of Toronto, a member of the research department, United Steelworkers of America, supported the idea of group practice as not only providing more satisfactory medical advice, but also cutting medical costs.

Dr. Glen Sawyer of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Medical Association, said group practice would not preserve the same doctor-patient relationship.

Although they paid for group practice, many patients still went to their family doctor.

Ambassadors Needed

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointments of new Canadian ambassadors to Yugoslavia and Portugal were announced Tuesday by External Affairs Minister Green.

Gordon Gale Crean of Toronto, now minister at the Canadian Embassy in Paris, will go to Belgrade and Jean Morin of Montreal, who had been ambassador to both Colombia and Ecuador, will take over in Lisbon.

DRUG CURES RARE TYPE IN WOMEN

Cancer Victory Claimed in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Research has shown that a certain drug cures a type of cancer which affects pregnant women, United States Surgeon-General Luther Terry said Tuesday night.

"We feel for the first time ... we have experience with a drug which has almost certainly cured cancer in man," Dr. Terry said in an interview.

"Now this is a very specific type of cancer in which there are not a great number of cases, but it's one of the widely growing cancers that happens to originate in the womb of a pregnant woman in the membranes.

"And in the past when this cancer has arisen it's been widely growing and fatal in every instance. We have just passed the stage now where, after treatment of a group of these cases over a long period of time, we feel hopeful, in fact almost confident, that we have gotten actual cures."

Although the surgeon-general did not mention the name of the drug, experiments have been under way for years with a drug which seemed to show promising results with this type of cancer.

'STRUCTURAL UNEMPLOYMENT'

Vocational Training Task

Problems of trying to train early school leavers to fit into an increasingly industrialized society were outlined for Victoria Kiwanis Club Tuesday by John H. Dalgleish, supervisor of technical and adult education for the Greater Victoria School Board.

Of 396,000 children who entered Grade 2 in this country in 1958-59, only 31,000 will go on to university, he said. Yet 70 per cent of the jobs available are for professional, skilled or semi-skilled personnel.

If present trends continue, 70 per cent of the population will be competing for 30 per cent of the jobs, Mr. Dalgleish said.

"Up until a year or two ago we realized that unemployment was something that came and went each year in cycles and no one took much notice of it," he said.

"But lately there has been a tremendous change and we now have structural unemployment."

Structural unemployment — when jobs become obsolete — is caused by technical advancements, he said.

"It can make or break our whole nation," he said.

Many students don't want to go on to university so "we have got to find some way of trying to fit them for the work that is open to them," he said.

"Vocational training isn't a nasty word . . . It is one of the things we are going to have to face up to in the next few years."

The Organization of American States, which includes most nations in the Western hemisphere, was founded 71 years ago.

PUBLIC HEARINGS LATE IN JULY

Columbia Dam Licences Sought

Three provincial government water licences to build dams on the Columbia River will be sought June 15 by B.C. Power Commission, it was learned today.

Public hearings on the plans will be held probably late in July. At least a month's notice must be given in advertisements of the applications.

The dam which is expected to provide the most controversy and opposition at these hearings is on the Arrow Lakes.

Premier Bennett Tuesday announced that the cabinet has given the power commission authority to apply for the licences—necessary before any construction on the $458,000,000 international Columbia hydro development.

However, the authority—provided through an order-in-council contains this condition:

That the authority for Power Commission go-ahead on any of the projects be withheld until the B.C. and Ottawa governments reach an agreement on financing.

The move follows informal talks between the premier and federal Finance Minister Donald Fleming last week in Quebec.

It also follows receipt by the Power Commission of a detailed engineering report on the Columbia by Caseco Consultants Ltd., a hybrid Canadian firm especially created to evaluate the U.S.-Canada Columbia treaty.

The three applications will be for storage dams at Arrow Lakes, Duncan Lake and Mica Creek.

B.C. Water Comptroller Arthur Paget said it will probably be about six weeks before he can set up the public hearings.

B.C. Government Asked To Veto Hospital Vote

DUNCAN — Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black will be asked Friday by a delegation from the Duncan-Cowichan area to refuse to accept a vote by North Cowichan municipal council which may have wrecked for years the planning for a $3,655,586 hos-

Months ago North Cowichan council had voted to share the cost to the extent of $512,569, to be levied on that portion of the municipality within School District 65. Subsequently there were complaints of Crofton and Westholme being included in the Duncan hospital scheme, in that they should support the Chemainus Hospital.

PROTEST MEETING

On the weekend there was a protest meeting in Chemainus, at which Councillors Gerry Smith and William Bowles admitted they had made a mistake in voting for the bylaw. Monday night in council, joined by Coun. Reg. Clegg, they voted 3-2 to rescind the former motion.

Their action came on the eve of the June 10 vote in the four districts concerned, and which represented years of planning to bring the widely separated interests of the areas together for the building of a new hospital.

Will Dobson, a hospital board member, was confident today that the Friday delegation might have success in its efforts.

"It is within the power of the municipal affairs minister to refuse to accept the vote to rescind the bylaw," he said.

The delegation also will try to meet with Health Minister Eric Martin.

Meanwhile, a petition is being circulated through North Cowichan in favor of the hospital plan, and urging that the vote be held June 10 as arranged.

There also will be a parade in the city, starting at noon, which is designed to stimulate interest in the bylaw voting. Other districts concerned are the city of Duncan, Lake Cowichan, and Koksilah Valley.

TOFINO 'INVADED' BY ARMY

TOFINO—Streets here came to life with a roar Monday afternoon when a convoy of 18 army trucks passed through the village and took on gas at a local service station.

They were carrying men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry of Victoria, led by Major C. R. Frost, who are spending 10 days at Tofino airport on a military exercise.

Duncan Named War Partner To Victoria

City of Duncan and Victoria City will probably take on each other's problems if either city council is wiped out in a civil disaster.

Complying with a civil defence submission that substitute councils be appointed in the event of a nuclear bombing or similar catastrophe, the two councils are suggested by the committee as "partners".

Major Jack Dobson, of Duncan said although his city is smaller, it has similar problems to those of Victoria, "and I suppose we could function as the city's policy-making body until order was restored."

At Ucluelet the school tax rate rose from 20.8 to 23.9 mills.

Municipal tax rates are unchanged from last year. Ucluelet pays 12 mills and Tofino 14 mills.

TELEVISION never will replace a teacher in schools, according to Mrs. Marion Ricker, chairman of Nanaimo District 68 school board and British Columbia delegate to the recent Canadian Conference on Educational Television, in Toronto. Television is "invaluable" as a teaching aid, she said, but "simply adds image to the sound of school radio broadcasts we have been hearing for years".

School Buses Affected By Long Day

COURTENAY — Every school bus and bus route will be affected if the Chant report recommendation for a longer high school day is observed, trustees of School District 71 learned this week.

C. T. Rendle, school superintendent, said the buses carry both elementary and high school students, and that to lengthen the high school day is to delay the junior students.

Only immediate alternative would be to use separate buses for elementary and high schools, which would be "terribly costly," he said.

Long-range solution is construction of more rural schools. In the meantime, trustees are considering starting some schools 15 minutes earlier in the morning, and keeping others open 15 minutes later in the afternoon.

SKINDIVERS SEEKING LAKE MONSTER

The "sea serpent" of Cowichan Lake, alleged to be 35 feet long, grey-green in color and with glaring eyes, will be hunted Friday and Saturday by three Victoria skindivers.

Jack Gibson, PPCLI, Work Point, and two companions, will arm themselves with flashlights and an underwater camera for the search.

Abe Johnson, 80, reported hooking a huge creature in the lake, but failed in later efforts to take it on heavy tackle.

It has been suggested that the creature could be a sturgeon, since there have been claims that sturgeon once were caught in Cowichan River.

The divers plan to work outward from the shoreline of the lake.

GULF ISLANDS DAY

GANGES — Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce was host here to 70 residents from Galiano, Mayne, Pender, and Saturna Islands for "Gulf Islands Day" on the weekend.

They arrived on the Motor Princess, and were greeted by C. R. Horel, president, then were taken to lunch and for tours of the island.

North Pender Chamber of Commerce was represented by Les Armstrong, president, and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Shirley. Mr. and Mrs. Chester Williams attended on behalf of the Galiano chamber.

Don Morrison and Irl and Wayne Bradley, the Lions Club trio, entertained at the arrival and departure of the visitors.

BAILED OUT FROM TRAINER

Cumberland Pilot Killed

Flight-Cadet Gerry Columbo, RCAF, of Cumberland, died in hospital Tuesday in Carman, Man., six hours after bailing out from a T-33 jet trainer.

He had suffered multiple fractures and internal injuries.

An air force inquiry was scheduled for today at Portage La Prairie.

The 20-year-old cadet was the son of Hector Columbo, of the Up-Island town. He was making his third solo flight at the time of the accident.

Details of the accident are scarce. He had been flying out of Portage La Prairie air base, and the plane crashed on a farm. The canopy, blown off when the pilot ejected, was 100 yards from the aircraft wreckage, and the pilot was one-half mile away.

THOUSANDS SAW HIM "strutting his stuff" in the Victoria Day parade, and he will be on display again this Sunday at a pony show at Saanichton Fair Grounds. He is prize-winning Pacific Paddy, palomino pony stallion from George Ransom's Pacific Pony Farm, 4394 Shelbourne, shown in harness in the picture by Mrs. Ransom. He stands 52 inches at the shoulder, just under the show limit.

. . . And the First to Find Mama 'Takes the Cake' at Pony Show

The "little people" of the horse world will have their day at Saanichton Fair Grounds this Sunday when the Vancouver Island Pony Breeders' Association holds its second annual show.

It will start at 1.30 p.m. and will be open to the public free of charge.

Last year's show attracted wide interest and officials anticipate a big crowd this year when a variety of events will be offered.

Included in the program will be something new in the way of horse show events. Officials call it a "dinner bell race" which will see mares and their foals in competition. The little "mamas" will be held at one end of the show ring, and their "littler" babies at the other. When the dinner gong sounds the foals will be released, and the first to find his or her mother, and naturally, the source of sustenance, will be the winner.

There will be a colorful parade pony class, halter class for yearlings, two stallion classes, small and large ponies, a trail class where obstacles must be negotiated, a barrel race, a halter class for mares, a harness class, a bareback ride race, a foal class, matched pairs and a miniature jump course contest.

54-INCH MAXIMUM

There won't be an animal in the show over 54 inches tall (13.2 hands) at the withers (highest point of the shoulder) and all riders will be under 14 years of age. There is no age limit for handlers.

Refreshments will be available on the grounds and there will be free parking.

Entries are coming from many parts of the island, and will include some of the finest pony stock in the Pacific Northwest.

MONTE ROBERTS

One thing I have always said, it is alright to be snarly as long as you know you are being snarly.

And I am certain that this constituent (name and address on file but withheld by request) knew she was being snarly when she wrote:

"Asking friends what they thought of the Victoria Day parade, some replied 'It wasn't too bad; not many floats, though,' or 'it was okay, but did you ever get the chance to see the Rose Bowl parade? Now that IS a parade.'

"And of course, Victoria being what it is, I expected that sort of an answer, so returned this reply: For all the applause and cheering the parade entrants received, you can't expect anything more.

"The people of Victoria expect a great deal for very little. The least they could do is stop sitting on their hands and give out with applause (it's free, you know). The people of Victoria are a bunch of ingrates, and I am ashamed of the fact that I, too, am a Victoria resident.

"Victoria people do not offer support when it is needed, and then they wonder why they don't get the attractions such as Vancouver might have.

"It is really self-evident, only we Victoria people do not realize it. So, Victoria, Wake Up and Live."

I must admit, this is the snarliest constituent I have encountered since I hinted that being a Little Bit of Olde England was a Little Less than being a Bit-of-Ori-Right.

But I have a gnawing feeling her snarls are pointed in the right direction.

Might be we Victorians could do with less viewing with alarm and more cheering with enthusiasm.

What think the other constituents, snarly or not?

The B.C. government's "No Smoking" Day was practically ignored in Victoria this morning.

Of 21 people approached by The Times, six had never heard of the government's proclamation, four had already given up smoking. The rest went on puffing as before.

Premier Bennett and his cabinet designated today as No Smoking Day to encourage aims of the Non-Smokers' Association of Canada.

The slogan was "Keep Your Lungs Clean and B.C. Green."

TIMES WRITER GETS AWARD FROM COUNCIL

Douglas Forrester, formerly of West Vancouver and now writing from Tokyo for the Victoria Daily Times and other newspapers, has been named as one of eight Canadian free-lance writers to win Canada Council fellowships.

The announcement today said the awards, of from $1,000 to $3,000, were for specialized studies by journalists, broadcasters and film makers.

Amount of Mr. Forrester's award was not listed.

A Vancouver man originally, he lived in Sooke for several years and first became associated with the Times as the paper's correspondent for that area.

Other B.C. winner of a council award was Patricia Young, Vancouver.

Money boxes attached to the washers were smashed open and the contents emptied.

A brace and bit was used to open the rear door of the premises.

Individualists Impress Visitor

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria is a city of individualists in the opinion of Dr. Eric Mann, leading travel writer and lecturer.

"I think you are doing a good job of resisting the general trend towards uniformity," he said today, "and I wish more North American cities would follow this example."

Vienna-born Dr. Mann expected to find "characters" in Victoria but was somewhat startled when a man in khaki shorts held up traffic on Government Street simply by raising his right hand.

REMARKABLE

"He wasn't even walking in a pedestrian crossing. He reminded me of some ancient Roman general invading a fallen city. It was truly remarkable."

A former professor of history, Dr. Mann finds Victorians "more reserved" than in other Canadian and American cities. But, he adds, it is a friendly reserve, not an attitude of indifference.

TRAVEL REPORT

Dr. Mann's impressions of Victoria will appear in the November issue of Travel Report, published in New York.

In this pocket-size publication he writes short chapters on the many places he has visited with the aim of stimulating interest in tourist travel. He contributes to many periodicals in Europe and United States and lectures widely.

Why did he become a travel writer? Because 10 years ago an American told him, "Don't go to Italy—there is nothing there!"

IGNORANCE

Such an attitude, he decided, could only result from ignorance and he promptly organized a 15-week travel course for the adult division of New York University. This has since been given in many other U.S. cities.

While in Victoria Dr. Mann is also writing a portrait of Dr. David Turner, British Columbia's deputy minister of recreation and conservation, for ASTA Travel News, official publication of the American Society of Travel Agents.

TOURISM

This is part of a series called "Men Who Make Tourism" and deals with the heads of important tourist departments.

"I was impressed by the economic operation of Dr. Turner's organization," he said. "This is no doubt due to Dr. Turner's Scottish ancestry."

Dr. Mann believes Victoria should preserve its old buildings and develope the "Old Englande" theme as far as possible.

"This is as important to Victoria as the Old Vienna district is important to Chicago. Tourists do not visit places for scenery alone. They seek history and tradition as well."

'THE TWEEDS' HAVE DONE IT ONCE MORE

The "Barron motif" is back from Portland, where it scored a hit.

Delegates from Victoria to the annual convention of the northwest division of the United Commercial Travellers of America, presented themselves at the featured banquet of the meeting in tweeds and long scarves, carrying cluster lights and teapots along the lines of Times cartoonist Sid Barron's spoofing.

They "stole the show" according to reports.

John B. Priestley, of 1621 Hollywood Crescent, was elected Grand Sentinel of the Grand Council for Oregon, Washington and B.C.

Twenty-eight local delegates attended the convention.

Royal Oak Overpass In Expressway Plan

Worthington Byelection Set for July

Saanich will hold a byelection in July to fill a seat left vacant by the death of Coun. Ainslie Worthington Tuesday.

Reeve George Chatterton said today the date of the byelection would probably be set at the next council meeting.

Councillors met briefly Tuesday to pass a resolution expressing sympathy and condolence to Mrs. Worthington and family.

The reeve recalled that Mr. Worthington as chairman of the council's health and welfare committee had been working to establish a new home for Saanich and South Vancouver Island health unit.

Mr. Worthington was a "loyal and faithful servant" of the people, he said.

UNCHANGED

Mr. Chatterton said he will not change his plans to remain as reeve until his term expires at the end of the year.

"In the next few months I believe we must decide the very important question of whether council and the people of Saanich want industry, and if they do, where it is to be located," he said.

"I believe Saanich does need industry, and I want to be there. This is something I have always worked very hard for," he said.

Hill Intersections To Be Eliminated

The B.C. government definitely plans to make an "expressway" of the Patricia Bay Highway, it was learned today.

These plans will mean elimination of all intersections on grades.

This would include an overpass at the present Quadra intersection near Royal Oak.

Drawings for a proposed "bridge" to run the highway over the top of Quadra have already been made.

Traffic surveys of the highway were made last fall. This year highways department location engineers have been working on alternative ways of widening it to four lanes.

Exact route has not yet been decided, but the highway will meet what is known as "expressway standard."

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi indicated earlier that work would not start on the project until next year, when a boom in traffic is expected as the government steps up its Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry service to hourly crossing.

The three possible plans which have been under study:

Widening existing stretches into four lanes;

Relocation of parts of the highway;

Dual carriageway on sections with heaviest traffic volume.

Canada-Wide Census Starts On Thursday

Canadians on vacation here were being canvassed today by census enumerators.

Aim of this preliminary canvass in a Canada-wide survey is to get the vital statistics of Canadians who will not be there when the enumerators call at their homes in June.

The house-to-house canvass of city residents starts Thursday morning.

There is a maximum fine of $100 or a three-month jail term for refusing to answer census questions or wilfully giving false answers.

But if you are asked personal questions by a neighbor who may be acting as a census enumerator you have the right to refuse, and may give the statistics to the census commissioner in charge of the district.

Census officials said they have received no protests against the questions asked.

PARK CEREMONY

Naval Pomp As Drums Presented

Victorians will have the opportunity of seeing a unique ceremony June 16 when Lieutenant - Governor George Pearkes presents a set of ceremonial drums to Pacific Command, RCN.

The drums are the gift of the province of British Columbia, the city of Victoria and the municipalities of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

They were ordered last year to mark the 50th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Navy but arrived here from England only recently. Ornately decorated with sterling silver, the set is valued at about $10,000. There is a bass drum, two tenor drums and six side drums.

Eight hundred men of the RCN will take part in the complicated ceremonial at Beacon Hill Park.

A square will be formed by bleachers capable of seating up to 5,000. Officials, however, are hoping the vantage points in Beacon Hill Park will attract up to 10,000 people.

Guests will include Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mayor Percy Scurrah, the reeves of surrounding municipalities and other civic dignitaries.

Ceremony will start at 7.30 p.m.

Anti-Submarine Changes Aid City Shipyards

Modification Work Seen Here

A $1,000,000 start in a $21,600,000 warship modification program is expected to stimulate work at local shipyards this year.

The navy announced plans Tuesday in a national defence handbook prior to Commons study of detailed spending estimates of the defence department.

The conversion is to equip all destroyer escorts with newer submarine detection gear and raised helicopter platforms.

A naval spokesman said there may not be much work done until late in the fiscal year because of technical problems to overcome in connection with the project.

Included in the over-all program, estimated to cost $57,100,000, will be purchase of 12 helicopters.

DESTROYER

The $21,600,000 outlay is to convert Pacific Command's seven St. Lawrence class DEs and HMCS Crusader, on the Atlantic seaboard.

This work is almost certain to provide local shipyards with contracts, the spokesman said.

STEP AHEAD

By increasing submarine hunting-killing effectiveness, the program will represent a "great step forward" in anti-submarine warfare, said Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Pacific Coast Flag Officer.

He said the range of destroyer escorts would be increased, also.

It is planned to spend $3,500,000 on the Canadian-developed varible depth sonar for sub detection, estimated to cost $11,700,000 eventually.

The spending program calls for $7,500,000 expenditure in the current fiscal year, started April 1.

ACTING MAYOR HAS BADLANDS' PLAN

Let Blanshard Develop Itself

(See Page 7)

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said today he opposes city borrowing of $800,000 to finance Blanshard Street extension to relieve arterial traffic to the north.

He said by opening the "badlands" area south of Tolmie, the city's northern boundary, first by putting in rough roads, then by proper zoning, the proposed main traffic route could finance itself through local improvement projects.

The area now has little access and no through roads.

"It's of no value the way it is now. In fact it's a burden to the city. Opening it up to development would put thousands of dollars on the city tax roll," the acting mayor said.

"You find that as soon as there is a road, even a dirt road bulldozed through, people will say, 'this is the highway,' and the area will develop itself."

He added, "I oppose borrowing $800,000 for this project . . . I believe we should continue to pay as we go."

Ald. Mooney said he first proposed an extension of Blanshard when he was new to the council about nine years ago, an idea passed off at the time.

"I'm pleased they have pretty well stuck to my original plan," he said.

One of the first streets required in the area is an extension of Finlayson, to provide east-west access, the acting mayor felt.

One of the most important steps would be controlled development by zoning, perhaps for a pleasing entranceway to the city through highrise apartment buildings.

The area is now a mixed commercial, dwelling, industrial zone.

ESQUIMALT NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fraser returns June 16.

Saguenay returns Sunday.

St. Laurent returns June 8.

Fortune, Cowichan, James Bay, Miramichi return 11:30 a.m. June 13.

EVEN BEFORE the Salvation Army campaign for the Matson Sunset Lodge was begun with the Royal Canadian Navy, men of HMCS Saguenay "weighed in" with a cheque for $87.50, results of a raffle held by the ship's company. Here, the cheque is presented by CPO Frank Andrews (left) to Lt.-Cmdr. Bruce Campbell, who is co-ordinating the drive in Pacific Command. Looking on are AB Frank McKnight and Brig. Harold Chapman of the Salvation Army. Campaign officials addressed 400 officers and men of the destroyer command concerning the drive this morning. Navy target is $12,000.

ASK The TIMES

Q—The other day, I heard someone use the quotation, "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." He said that it was from Voltaire. Is this so? A.T.R.

A—Although it is certainly in the spirit of Voltaire, this quotation is not from his pen, although it has often been attributed to him. The confusion probably arises because it first appeared in a book "The Friends of Voltaire" and is supposedly quoted from a letter sent to Helvetius by the French scholar.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Locally Designed Fashions Available in All Sizes

By PENNY SAVER

If you need a size 18, 20 or larger in a coat, suit dress or formal there's no need to feel that high-style fashion is out for you. Store I was in this morning specializes in designing and making clothes for all sizes. Describe what you have in mind or pick your favorite style from a magazine, take it there and you can have it made up the way you want it.

This store's "originals" would appeal to any smart woman.

I found organza, shaded in sunset rose tones in a sleek cocktail-length dress that was in size 18 and priced at $39.95. Styled with a sheath front and graceful fullness at back, it had a scooped neckline that dipped to a low V at back and three-quarter-length sleeves. Dress is fully lined in taffeta and would be a terrific morale-booster wherever you wore it!

In the same size is a smart white sheath in embroidered linen. It's fully lined in white silk, has a rounded neckline and a fitted midriff that's eased with subtle little pleats for better fit. Dress sells at $39.95.

Another "charmer" in tan and yellow print would look just as elegant at a tea party as on a shopping spree. Fully lined in silk, it has an easy-to-wear bloused bodice, high Italian neckline and sleeves are in this year's favorite elbow length. Additional high style is seen in the long, narrow tie belt. Made to fit size 18, this dress is priced at $35.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Can't Do Much About Prominent Veins in Hands

Here are some of the physical defects which bother readers. These are not the regular ones of overweight or underweight, or large hips or a protruding abdomen, but some of the minor difficulties with which we are born.

Lowman

A letter says "I have a problem which may seem very silly to you. It concerns my hands. The veins are very prominent and this detracts from their beauty. I have read that this is the result of having thin skin. I am sure there are many women who have this problem. I wish you would devote a column to this subject."

The thickness of the skin probably has some effect, as does weight. However, the main cause is inheritance. You just inherited large veins and this has its advantages as well as disadvantages. Of course inflamed or congested veins are a different matter and you should refer this condition to your doctor.

If you lived in a cold climate, you probably would not be bothered so much. You may have noticed that in cold weather the veins almost disappear.

I realize that this is a condition which you would not have chosen and that large veins do detract from the beauty of a hand. However, this is one of those things which we can do little about and should forget. It is helpful to keep your hands out of hot water as much as possible.

Also vitamin C is conducive to blood vessel health. The richest sources of vitamin C are the citrus fruits.

Many women also worry about their builds. They feel that they are too short or too tall or have a waistline which is too large or legs which they do not like.

You cannot help it if you are over-average tall, or over-average short. Just learn to take advantage of either extreme, by knowing what kind of clothes are most flattering to you individually. Also, learn what type hairdo is best for you, and then forget it! Nobody can change your bony structure.

The shape of the legs and the size of the waist and hipline are affected by your build as well as by the development of your muscles and by fatty deposits.

Many women who are the correct weight, or even underweight, keep striving for a waist or hip measurement which is impossible for them because of their bony structure.

I am enthusiastic about correcting or improving any defect in beauty and figure which can be corrected (and most of them can be), but if it is impossible, forget it and just have fun!

The 9-Day Diet is ideal for those who want a quick diet with excellent results. You can lose up to 10 pounds—and be an asset instead of the blight of the beach this summer. MUCH ADO ABOUT HAIR—In honor of President and Mrs. Kennedy's visit to France, Parisian hairdresser Jacques Dessange has created a coiffure with low-slung bang, reminiscent of the First Lady's hairdo.

Changed Trends in Alcohol Education 'Encouraging'

Growing interest at all levels of social organizations is one of the most desirable trends in the alcoholic education field today, said Mrs. E. W. Crawford, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of British Columbia, in her report Tuesday afternoon to the 78th annual convention, being held in Victoria.

"There is a growing desire to help people think for themselves with emphasis on their own self interests in terms of personal development and achievement, and not with fear," Mrs. Crawford said.

Attitude of the social drinker who says — "I'm not my brother's keeper," and the "thorough brain washing given young people by liquor advertising" were stressed as "disturbing trends."

"When drinking is considered normal behaviour and abstinence indicates fanaticism, it really is disturbing," the speaker said.

"We need to look at this moral sickness," she concluded. "We are living in a rapidly changing world and in order to survive we have to learn to live in it, not to produce hundreds of alcoholics yearly."

The three-day meeting is being held in Emmanuel Baptist Church. Approximately 100 delegates are attending. They represent 57 Unions with 967 members in British Columbia.

Mother-Daughter Banquets

Two successful mother and daughter banquets were held recently by North District Girl Guide and Brownie Association. Honor guests included Mrs. W. P. Hamilton, division commissioner; Mrs. J. A. Paone, Mrs. J. H. Kaiser and Mrs. H. Derricks.

Program began with community singing led by Gold Cord Guide Heather Thomas.

Mrs. E. R. Williams received a "Thank You Badge" for 10 years' service as district secretary. She was accompanied by her daughter Karen, a recent gold cord winner.

Packies Carol Crowther and Shirley Nelson were presented with world friendship pins. Golden Hand badges went to Rae Nickel, Linda Evans, Susan Ireland, Sharon Flint, Joy Cleuette, Indira Sundher, Kathleen Hamill, Carol George, Maureen O'Brien, Margo Morrison, Vicky Willson, Beverley Reid, Cathy Brynjolfson, Leonie Van Doesburg, Kathy Tipping and Wendy Gustafson.

Golden Bar badges were presented to Valerie Cruickshank and Beth Knowles.

Both affairs were arranged by district commissioner Mrs. J. R. Pogson.

Engineers' Wives Elect Officers

Mrs. J. Dixon, retiring president, installed Mrs. R. A. Upward as president of the Engineers' Wives' Association at fifth annual meeting held in St. Mary's Church hall recently.

Other officers are Mrs. D. A. McLean, first vice-president; Mrs. R. G. Foxall, second; Mrs. R. D. Thomas, treasurer; Mrs. P. H. W. Bray, correspondence; Mrs. R. D. Bennett, recording secretary; Mrs. J. W. Peck, membership; Mrs. H. T. Miard, bridge convener; Mrs. E. D. Pigott, program; Mrs. N. McGrath, social, and Mrs. R. E. Johnson, cooking convener.

Twenty-eight similar groups across Canada with a membership of over 3,000 was reported by special guest, Mrs. Lilian Robertson, secretary of the Toronto branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

In her report Mrs. Dixon detailed past year's program which includes monthly meetings of a bridge and cookery club; a membership box luncheon, costume party, theatre party and afternoon tea at Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Ignorance Is NOT Bliss!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have been invited to a Catholic wedding but my husband doesn't want to go because he says we will have to go through all that crossing and kneeling, and we aren't Catholics. I say that non-Catholics are not expected to do that. Who is right? Also, we were recently invited to a Jewish wedding and we passed that up because someone told my husband that all the men had to break their glasses. What about that?

INFORMATION PLEASE

DEAR INFORMATION: Non-Catholics are not expected to kneel and cross themselves. And at a Jewish wedding, the groom breaks a GLASS (not his glasses!). There is little excuse for knowing so little about another person's religion. Ask any clergyman (or librarian) for an enlightening book on the subject.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a mother-in-law who needs you to set her straight. My son married a girl whom I love very much. She is very close to her own mother, who lives near us. I try to let the young people live their own lives, but my daughter-in-law practically lives with her mother. They are together day and night.

The young couple is always over at her mother's. All holidays are spent there. They are expecting a baby and the wife's mother is gathering the baby things at her home, evidently expecting to take full charge of it. I know I am jealous, but I can't help it. Let me have it, Abby.

"THE OTHER MOM"

DEAR "MOM": If you can diagnose your own case (jealousy), you can heal yourself. Let your daughter-in-law do as she wishes. It's natural for a girl to gravitate toward her own mother. When she matures a little more, she will become as considerate of your feelings as you are of hers. Patience, Mom.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: There is a young couple in our building who has aroused our suspicions. He clerks during the day, and on weekends he plays band jobs out of town. His wife is a real looker. Every weekend when he goes out of town to play these band jobs, she goes with him. We wives say that she goes with him because she can't trust him away from home. Our husbands say that he takes her along because he can't trust her home alone. We would like to know your opinion, please.

THE FOLKS IN THE BUILDING

DEAR FOLKS: Isn't there a chance that she goes with him because she wants to be with him—and he encourages her because he wants her there?

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO EDDIE: Correcting faults is like trying to tie a necktie. You can do it much better on somebody else.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

South had a choice of throw-in plays to make his three no-trump contract and he decided to make the play against the unlucky expert who sat West.

Opening lead—♠ K

West led the king of spades and continued with the queen and jack. South won the third spade lead and noted that East had let two hearts go.

Now South cashed clubs and three diamonds, stopping in his own hand and threw West in with a spade. West cashed two spade tricks, but had to lead a heart to give South the last two tricks.

What was the potential end play against East? South could have held the last diamond in dummy and thrown East in with a club, whereupon East would have been end played if he held the king of hearts.

Of course, South had a very good reason for throwing West in. Give West the king of hearts and the end play against East could not possibly work. Give East the king of hearts and South could still make the hand if West held the jack.

T.V. with Lee

Eddie Albert and Dolores Gray in Steel Hour's 'Famous' at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

A PROTEGE of Dublin's slums in which he, his seven brothers and sisters grew up in a two-room flat, a one-time messenger boy for the IRA, the graduate of a Borstal reform school and a total of eight years in prison, it is little wonder that Ireland's Falstaffian playwright, 38-year-old Brendan Behan, writes of things unhappy and unpleasant.

But as demonstrated in his remarkable autobiography, "Borstal Boy," and in his play "The Quare Fellow," in spite of all, his dialogue and situations are rifle with humor and well-laced with a hard, sometimes laconic brilliance.

Nonetheless, I must confess that I encountered certain difficulties with "The Quare Fellow" at its outset Monday night. I suppose, in part, this early failure to fall before the spell of the Festival '61 production could be due to the mark left upon me by years and years of watching U.S. prison films that always made out that more than the barest amount of talk between prisoners and, especially, between prisoners and guards woud result in someone being thrown into solitary. But in Behan's play there was more talk than a PTA meeting discussing the Chant report in general and grade seven in particular.

After awhile, however, the lines get through to you and you began to care about "The Quare Fellow," an unfortunate soul who is never seen but who, you learn, was responsible for killing his brother and draining his blood into a crock. And because of the dialogue, that is deftly and understandingly handled by Douglas Campbell, Liam Redmond, Chris Wiggins, Austin Willis and David Hooks, you also begin to see how strong is the condemnation of capital punishment.

Therefore, by the time the final curtain falls you are caring a great deal.

Technically the production was of the same high calibre that has marked Festival '61 productions all winter. Direction was keen, sustaining and understanding. Sets and lighting were especially good.

IN SPITE OF its rather indifferent coverage of the start of the Swiftsure yachting classic last Saturday morning I thought CHEK-TV ended up better than even thanks to the camera work Sunday night that allowed thousands of armchair sailors to watch Vancouver's yawl Troubador cross over the finish line followed by several others.

I think it was Willi Taylor who remarked to Andy Stephen, "A wonderful thing television!" And so it is. Whereas the human eye was encountering difficulty picking up the yachts in the fast-gathering night the picture on the screen, in contrast, was remarkably light and clear.

From what I can gather CHEK's Saturday morning trouble with the start of the race was caused by technicians not giving themselves time enough to set up their equipment properly. Therefore viewers had to be content at first with seeing films of past Swiftsure races. Only toward the end of the broadcast time was the Swiftsure 1961 edition brought in live in the manner it was intended to be presented in the first place.

Next year it is hoped that CHEK-TV will be able to bring more powerful lens to bear in order that bigger and better closeups of the yachts and their hard-working crews will be possible.

WITH APOLOGIES—While speaking about some forthcoming CBC productions in Tuesday's column I unwittingly picked up some material on Maj.-Gen. Orde Charles Wingate that was later corrected but too late for my column that was already in type. In it I had Maj.-Gen. Wingate leading the Chindits in Israel. This, of course, should have read in Burma.

Three-Month Sentence

James Erickson, 5162 Cordova Bay, was sentenced to a total of three months in prison Tuesday in city police court on charges of impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Magistrate William Ostler imposed a two-month penalty for the latter offence and one month for the former. Erickson was also prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

The court was told Erickson hit a pedestrian, Norman Lynn, 65, of 3166 Millgrove, early in the morning of May 21 at Chatham and Douglas Streets.

He did not stop and was finally halted by another motorist, Gordon Dalziel, 2947 Qu'Appelle, who gave chase.

"This was a most cowardly and disgraceful act," said Mr. Ostler, and added that the sentence could have been far more severe.

Mr. Lynn is still in Royal Jubilee Hospital recovering from leg, rib and head injuries.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Daniel Bradley, age 10, of Somerville, Mass., for his question:

Is It True That Ants Keep Cows?

Some weeks ago, Andy wrote about the various pests and pets that share the nest with the busy ants. Certain ants also tend and make use of other insects in much the same way that we keep cows. These ant cows are the aphids and, sometimes, their relatives the leaf-hoppers who give off a sweet, sticky fluid called honeydew. In our part of the world, the dark brown cornfield ants are the most famous dairy farmers of the insect world and their small cattle are the aphids who like to dine on sap from the roots of our precious corn crops.

Dairy farming in the insect world is a fascinating study. But the fact remains that these clever ants and their cattle are our enemies. The aphids weaken the corn which is growing to feed us and our farm animals. And these greedy little sap suckers could not do this if they were not tended and protected by the ants throughout their lives.

In the fall, the busy ants hover around the aphid as she lays her eggs. One by one the eggs are snatched away and carried to a dark chamber deep in the nest. As the winter weather changes, the eggs may be moved several times to safer storing places. In the spring, the eggs hatch and the ants carry the baby aphids to their nurseries. These are tiny chambers in the soil next to the roots of certain weeds and grasses.

The baby aphids feed on the sap from these plants until the young corn starts to sprout roots in the fields. Then the ants carry them to new cow sheds among the corn roots where the little aphid cows can grow fat on their favorite food, which is the sap of our corn plants. Many generations of aphids will be born during the summer and the busy ants will tend all the eggs and place the aphid babies where they can feed on corn sap.

Protect Stock From Enemies

The ants also protect the aphids from their enemies—lady beetles and an insect called the aphid lion who loves to dine on aphid meat. The well-fed aphid gives off its sweet honeydew through two little tubes at the end of its abdomen. If the honeydew is not removed, the aphid gets bogged down in the sticky goo. The busy ants milk their little cows by licking off the honeydew which they enjoy very much, and both the ants and the aphids benefit from this give and take.

The corn root aphid, sad to say, is not the only aphid in the world. Every farmer and gardener knows that right now countless of these hungry little monsters are busy sipping the sap from many of our crops and plants. These aphids of the wild must fend for themselves without the help of the dairy farming cornfield ants. The honeydew given off by these aphids collects in globs and falls among the foliage like glistening drops of dew.

Some of this wild honeydew is sipped by wandering insects and when flower nectar is very scarce, it may be gathered by honeybees. This honey, however, tends to turn thin and sour. The aphids cannot claim to make up for their crimes by providing honeydew to make good quality honey.

Bomb for Union Man

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—A series of threats against his life culminated Tuesday in the discovery of three sticks of dynamite and an electric fuse under the hood of the car of Ray Poirier, financial secretary of Local 598 of the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Advt.

'JUDO IS NOT ROUGH' SAYS MAINLAND BEAUTY

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Sheila Mainland has a brown belt, but it's hardly a fashion accessory.

Sheila, 20, won the prized belt in a city YMCA judo class.

Four years ago Sheila graduated from Lester Pearson High School and was looking for a sport to replace the activities she had enjoyed at school. Deciding judo sounded interesting, Sheila walked into a Y class and walked out the back door when only one other girl, a friend, turned up.

But she returned and has loved the sport ever since.

"Judo is not rough," said the dark-haired beauty, "and I love the strenuous exercise it brings."

Miss Mainland hopes to win the black belt, highest on the judo scale of seven, next spring.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Miss Audrey Meadows has a new secret system of betting on the trotters at Roosevelt Raceway that she may copyright.

Lovely, blonde Audrey sat there so cool and poised in the beautiful Cloud Casino when the track opened that few suspected she had a mystery system.

Here's how (sssssh) the system works.

They're having dinner between races. The gals are chattering. Audrey mentions somebody finding a bullet-hole in a window.

"Did you say 'Window'?" shrieks the B.W., thumbing the program. "That's the name of the No. 2 horse. We all have to bet on 'Window!'"

So they all do. It's found later by people with better eyes that the horse's name was "Winnow." (The system wasn't exactly working that time; Winnow alias Window finished last.)

AUDREY MEADOWS . . . reveals secret

ERNEST HEMINGWAY . . . still at Mayo's

IT CLICKED

But in the big fifth race, the B.W.'s system clicked. Her $6 combination ticket on "Hogan Hanover" brought her $54. She bet on "Hogan Hanover" because she misread it and thought it was "Hogan Hangover." She's known a lot of Hogans with hangovers, so it was a cinch bet. What's so hard about winning on the horses . . . really now?

Audrey'll soon think folks are daffy. She recently emptied a piggybank and started a new account in the name of her white poodle, "Kooky Meadows." The bank accepted the account but asked that Kooky Meadows be brought in "as we like to meet all our depositors." Kooky Meadows was indeed led in and shook paws all around.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: We may be a year or two behind the Russians in space, but they're 25 years behind Buck Rogers.

EARL'S PEARLS: You hear about this highly-paid Hollywood kid star who's disinherited his parents?

Joey Adams quoted Judge Barshay who claimed he asked a man who'd been married 50 years, "Fifty years! Did you ever think of divorce?" The man said, "Divorce! Of course not. Murder—yes" . . . That's earl, brother.

MAYORS' PARLEY TOLD

Cities Can't Carry Burden

HALIFAX (CP)—Canadian cities have not kept pace with the needs of the people and the demand for more and improved services, Mayor S. L. Buckwold of Saskatoon said in his presidential address to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities today.

"Our cities have been allowed to grow without too much concern for a better urban environment," Mayor Buckwold said.

"We have allowed our older areas to decay. Traffic congestion is an economic waste of time and money . . .

Mayor Buckwold said the urbanization of the Canadian economy has placed burdens on the cities and towns which could not be financed by the revenue-raising means available to local government.

"We have only the strait-jacket of property taxation as a major source of revenue. On the revenue from the property tax we cannot finance the growing needs for more and better education and . . . provide the proper level of municipal services."

NEED NEW APPROACH

The solution would only be found by a "bold new approach" on the part of the three levels of Canadian government.

The new dominion-provincial fiscal arrangements, he said, allowed provincial governments to move into the income, corporation and succession tax fields to receive additional revenues.

"From the point of view of municipal government, it probably would have been better to have had an extension of the former tax rental agreements with a more generous formula and increased amounts paid to the provinces by the federal government."

He said provinces would then know more exactly where they stood and could deal accordingly with municipal governments.

Grounded Ship Out of Danger

ANACORTES, Wash. (AP)—Crews made emergency repairs to the grounded freighter Island Mail Wednesday and prepared to move her from her perch on a beach near here to Seattle where shipworkers will try to make her seaworthy again.

The 10,000-ton, 474-foot freighter, loaded with general and military cargo, bulk grain and lumber, was grounded off Whidbey Island Monday after striking a submerged object, apparently wreckage of a vessel that sank in 1952.

5 POINTS TO FREEDOM

'Red Imperialism' World's Real Threat

(Special to the Times)

SEATTLE — Rev. William Hills of Victoria, keynote speaker at a convention of the American Institute of Banking, Monday called on free men everywhere to adopt a five-point program for victory over Communism.

Sound communities, capacity production, teamwork in industry, efficient and economical government, and a united nation, and an effective United Nations program are the five key factors.

"What is needed," said Mr. Hills, "is not so much the ordering of society as a new orientation of the spirit of man.

"The time has come when, in his voyage through eternity, man must find a gap in the storm wrack overhead and get a new bearing—or he is lost."

Repeating remarks he made to a similar convention in Houston, Texas, some years ago, Mr. Hills said:

"The real threat is not Communism; it is Russian imperialism. It is imperialism of the most naked and sophisticated kind."

In discussing the image of America and the way of life that America has come to represent, Mr. Hills said that he was shocked at the recent Hollywood "Oscar" awards.

He mentioned the themes of the films which won best actor, best actress, and other awards, and then compared them with the Communist Manifesto of Marx and Engels, which says in part:

"Law, morality, and religion are for him (the Communist) merely so many bourgeois prejudices behind which as many bourgeois interests are concealed."

1,000 BREAK THROUGH POLICE LINES IN WAVE OF ADMIRATION

'La Tres Belle Jackie' Wows Paris Crowds

PARIS (UPI)—A crowd of about 1,000 persons broke through police lines today and surrounded Mrs. John F. Kennedy in a wave of admiration for America's First Lady.

Most of the day Mrs. Kennedy was in the company only of diplomats and statesmen. They were with her on arrival at Orly Airport when she stepped out of a jetliner with her husband President Kennedy and at the luncheon with President Charles de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace.

Crowds of ten of thousands cheered her but only from afar — until mid-afternoon when she paid a 45-minute visit to a child welfare clinic founded by the American Red Cross after the First World War.

Then it was the turn of the ordinary housewives, shopkeepers and passersby who applauded her as she entered the red-brick building.

By the time Mrs. Kennedy was ready to leave, the crowd had grown to more than 1,000. They were held in check across the broad Avenue Brune by rows of police.

As the president's wife, in a pale yellow two-piece costume, walked to her car, the crowd began to force through the ranks of police.

Suddenly, the dam burst and the swarm of humanity flocked around "La Tres Belle Jackie"—the very beautiful Jackie—to tell her with smiles, waves and shouted words of acclaim the warmth the average Frenchman felt for her as a charmilng representative of the United States.

Earlier, two heads of state had looked on appreciatively as 2,000 French women cheered when Jackie stepped out into the sunshine of Paris in the spring.

The radiant American First Lady, arriving at the Elysee Palace for a state luncheon, was hailed with shouts of "Jackie" as she stepped from a limousine and she smiled and waved in response.

President Charles de Gaulle, a Frenchman still responsive to a chic woman and particularly one of his country's ancestry, stood alongside President Kennedy on a terrace at the moment.

De Gaulle beamed at the reception given the lovely young wife of his guest while Kennedy smiled quietly.

Mrs. Kennedy had kept in the background at the arrival ceremony at Orly Airport but the French crowds got a good look at her when she arrived at the Quai D'Orsday. She came not only as the President's wife but as a sort of ambassadress of American fashion.

"Judging from the cheers, from the waving French and American flags, the average Frenchwoman liked what she saw. But whether this was partly due to Mrs. Kennedy's good looks and the excitement of the state visit will have to await the verdict of French fashion experts.

"Jackie is absolutely terrified," said Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States. "She is afraid of what the critics will say because she, as the wife of the President, cannot be dressed any longer in the French couture houses.

"But the French people will be crazy about her."

The people seemed to be just that for they dubbed her "La Belle Jackie" Pretty Jackie and gave her cheers every bit as enthusiastic as those that greeted her husband.

President de Gaulle and President Kennedy were just walking out to the terrace of the Elysee Palace when Mrs. Kennedy arrived shortly after 1.15 p.m. and the two heads of state watched appreciatively as she got out of her car to shouts of "Jackie."

So far, Mrs. Kennedy, who used to buy all her clothes in Paris, has displayed two of the costumes designed for this trip by Oleg Cassini and Chez Ninon of New York. At the airport she wore a pale blue wool coat, single breasted with three self buttons, and a low set pointed collar.

For the Elysee lunch she wore a lightweight wool dress, diagonal closing loosely tied belt, and slightly flared skirt with box pleats. Over this she wore a matching jacket, loosely fitted with notched lapels.

JFK, De Gaulle In Agreement On West Berlin

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PARIS — President Kennedy and President de Gaulle reached "general agreement" today on the problem of West Berlin in the opening session of their allied policy conferences.

This result was announced by a U.S. spokesman. He said the agreement was achieved within the course of a 45-minute discussion when they first met.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters that during the day the two presidents "discussed Berlin, problems of Southeast Asia and the Geneva conference on Laos."

Kennedy began his first venture in summit diplomacy with de Gaulle after receiving a 101-gun salute and a warm welcome from the people of Paris.

The president and the French leader held two sessions of talks in de Gaulle's office at the Elysee Palace today.

Only two interpreters were present as the two men discussed world problems, including some concerning NATO on which the United States and France do not see eye-to-eye.

The two leaders began their talks, which will take up nine hours in five meetings over the next three days, just two hours after Kennedy and his wife arrived here.

The talks are expected to range over the entire list of international problems as a prelude to Kennedy's summit meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend.

Hundreds of Parisians shouted "Vive Kennedy" as the car carrying the smiling president swept through the gates of the Elysees Palace, de Gaulle's official residence, for the beginning of their talks.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Tens of thousands of Parisians lined the streets in spring sunshine to cheer the president and his wife as they drove through the city from the airport.

Andrew Hatcher, assistant press secretary to Kennedy, said he estimated the crowds at about 1,500,000.

Veteran observers said the welcome matched that accorded President Eisenhower, al-

LIFE TERMS REQUESTED FOR GENERALS

PARIS (UPI)—The prosecution asked life imprisonment today for two leaders of last month's abortive "generals' revolt" in Algeria.

Prosecutor General Antonin Besson told the special military tribunal that he found it "impossible" to ask the death penalty for former generals Maurice Challe, 55, and Andre Zeller, 63. He said he had spent "a week of sleepless nights" in reaching the decision.

Sentencing was expected later today.

Chatterton Hears Budget Next Week

New MP George Chatterton said today he had heard reports the federal budget is coming down next week.

"I don't know," he added, "This is just talk I have heard."

However, Mr. Chatterton is expected to make his maiden speech in Parliament during the budget debate.

He now is awaiting word from Ottawa on when to take his first trip to the House of Commons as Esquimalt-Saanich MP.

"I had expected to go this weekend," he said.

SHORT VISIT

Mr. Chatterton said he plans to attend the International Municipal Congress June 15 in Washington, D.C. as representative of Saanich.

He said he was told that he would not have to stay very long in Ottawa for his first visit. This could mean that he will be able to participate in the budget debate before going to the U.S. conference.

'Class or Kind' Tariff Opposed by Exporters

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's controversial "class or kind" tariff legislation was opposed today by the Canadian Exporters Association but won the support of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association.

The three organizations were the first of a score of associations and individuals to appear before the Senate Banking Committee to give evidence on a proposal to give Revenue Minister Nowlan the final say on some factors in deciding whether imported goods are approximately of a class or kind of goods already made in Canada. Imports directly competing with Canadian-made goods generally face higher tariffs.

Tuesday night in the Senate the bill was given second reading — approval in principle.

Earlier Sen. W. Ross Macdonald (L. Ontario), opposition leader, said that while he would not bring the majority in to vote the bill down at the third reading stage, he was opposed to the contentious clause.

He hoped a compromise amendment could be worked in committee. Sen. F. McGrand (L. New Brunswick) called the bill a prelude to tyranny. Someday Canada may have a revenue minister who would say, like a king of France, "I am the state—the state is me."

The exporters' association said it opposes the bill on grounds that it will lead to increased rates of duty on a substantial volume of imports, notably machinery.

R. D. L. Kinsmen of Montreal, president, said the legislation will result in other countries raising tariffs against Canadian imports. The measure would work against the country as a whole and Canadian exporters in particular.

WILL PROVIDE STIMULUS

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said the bill will give much-needed stimulus to several important segments of the manufacturing industry.

"We believe that nothing would be gained by having such decisions subject to appeal," the association said.

DEMONSTRATORS SHOT

Revelry Greets Birth Of S. Africa Republic

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PRETORIA—South Africa became a republic today with the country mobilized against demonstrations by the non-white majority of the people.

Church bells at midnight and cannon at daybreak heralded the birth of the new republic—and the only African nation still ruled wholly by whites.

Jubilant white throngs — mostly Afrikaners who long wanted a republic free of the 51-year connection with the British Crown — braved rain for night-long revelry in this administrative capital.

As the republic was born the government claimed a "total collapse" of the three-day strike launched Monday by leaders of the 13,000,000 non-whites to demand voting rights reserved for 3,000,000 whites.

But one Negro was shot dead and two were wounded Tuesday night in townships outside Port Elizabeth, where thousands of Negroes demonstrated against the government by burning South African flags.

Police moved into the Negro township with armored cars, but claimed they were not responsible for the shootings. Johannesberg's streets were

Dominican Dictator Assassinated

Kennedy Orders 'Watch'

From Times News Service

PARIS — Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean, has been assassinated, it was learned here tonight.

The announcement was made by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, here with visiting President Kennedy.

He told reporters Kennedy has instructed State Secretary Dean Rusk to stay in Washington instead of coming to Paris so he can keep a close watch on the situation in the Dominican Republic.

The press secretary said the president had been in close touch with Washington on the matter.

Meanwhile in Washington, the state department said it has received unconfirmed reports of Trujillo's assassination.

Department sources said:

"Reports from travellers arriving in a nearby country say that an unusually tense situation exists.

"The capital is reported to be under heavy military guard.

"The department has no further information."

COMMUNICATIONS CUT

Earlier there had been rumors in Port au Prince, Haiti, that an attempt had been made to kill Trujillo.

The sources said communications from the consulate in Ciudad Trujillo had been interrupted.

Three weeks ago, diplomatic sources in Washington reported unusual air activity over Ciudad Trujillo, and speculated that a revolution might be brewing.

Regular direct communication between the Dominican Republic and the United States, as well as with Haiti, adjacent to the Dominican Republic, was cut off.

RULED 30 YEARS

Trujillo ruled the Dominican Republic as a dictator since 1930.

"You'll know I'm retired when you hear I'm dead," he told an American interviewer in March, 1960.

'POINT OF GUN' TACTICS CHARGE BY U.S.

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today accused the Soviet Union of trying to force the Laos peace parley to work "at the point of a gun."

W. Averell Harriman attacked Soviet opposition to giving the International Control Commission (ICC) in Laos added power to check violations of the cease-fire there.

He spoke to the 14-nation conference which re-convened after a week-long stalemate recess. But as soon as the session got underway Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin bluntly told the delegates that Russia opposes giving more power to the ICC.

Harriman immediately challenged Pushkin's stand.

SWEEP 'BEDLAM'

Nanaimo Pair Win $55,000

Word of their winning a $55,000 Irish Sweepstake prize today turned the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson, 1371 Discovery Street, in Nanaimo, into a bit of a "bedlam."

"The phone started ringing first thing and has never stopped," Mr. Watson said by telephone.

Five Canadians won the $137,500 pot of gold with tickets on Psidium, winner of the Epsom Derby.

Another nine held $55,000 tickets on Dicta Drake, the second-place horse, and seven had $27,500 tickets on Pardao, the third-place horse.

The Watson's ticket was bought in Mrs. Watson's name under the pseudonym "All Wet."

Mrs. Watson used the nom de plume "All Wet" because she was in the bath when she bought the ticket.

"We didn't know anything about our winning until 7.30 a.m., when I got a phone call from my father in Vancouver," Mr. Watson said. "Then the fun started."

SHE DREW A BEAD ON PSIDIUM

EPSOM (CP) — You can count on Mrs. Marpad Plesch to hang on to that lucky red bead from now on.

Mrs. Plesch carries the bead in her handbag "just for luck."

And the charm worked wonders today as her chestnut colt, Psidium, came from well back to win the 182nd running of the Epsom Derby.

The colt, by Pardal out of Linarella, paid off in boxcar figures at 66-to-1.

Mrs. Plesch is the wife of a Kungarian-born financier.

'SUNNING HIMSELF' SAID FIRST-SACKER

Murder on the Foul Line

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI)—Frederick La Torella, 36, was a problem prisoner.

State penal authorities shifted the convicted burglar in and out of three prisons in the past year because he was a troublemaker. He was brought to the state prison here Monday and assigned to the prison baseball team for a Memorial Day game in the hope of getting him off to a good start.

Gordon Peterson, captain of the opposing "outside" team from Natick, Mass., noticed La Torella lying near the right field foul line behind first base during the game. He asked the first baseman what was wrong.

"He's been sick. He's sunning himself," was the reply.

Later, when a prison guard investigated, he found La Torella had been clubbed to death. The bloody baseball bat was still at his side.

A conspiracy of silence among the prisoners hampered the investigation of the death. But state police officials said fingerprints on the bat and other evidence indicated that convicts William Daggett, 23, and James O'Malley, 25, were the bludgeoners.

The suspects were formally arrested on murder charges today. Their cases will be presented to a grand jury next week.

Construction Totals for '60 Show Decrease

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's 1960 construction program totalled $6.9 billion, down 2.7 per cent from the previous year's $7.1 billion, the bureau of statistics reported today.

New construction fell 3.9 per cent from $5.7 billion in 1959 to $5.5 to more than offset a slight increase in repair work from $1.3 billion to $1.4 billion.

The bureau said most types of building construction shared in the decline with a "substantial" reduction in residential construction and smaller declines in most other fields. Among the exceptions were mine, office and broadcasting buildings, and schools.

Mac-Powell Drops Foleys From Board

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harold S. Foley, former vice-president of the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Company has been dropped from the big forest industry firm's executive committee.

His omission was disclosed Tuesday as chairman J. V. Clyne announced the list of executives elected at a meeting of the board of directors last Wdnesday.

George W. O'Brien, a longtime executive of the Powell River company, also left the policy-making group. He said he did not stand for re-election for "purely personal reasons."

Also dropped from the executive committee was M. J. (Joe) Foley, Harold's younger brother, who resigned from the company after a management disagreement in mid-April and became vice-chairman of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills in Quebec.

Filling the Foley's positions are Vancouver financiers Alan H. Williamson and Frank H. Brown.

Harold Foley Tuesday declined to explain his omission from the executive but it is reported that he now plans to resign from the board of directors.

Stories that discord was developing in the company had been prevalent since the merger of MacMillan and Bloedel and the Powell River Company in December, 1959.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Joe Foley resigned April 19 as president of the merged companies and said he was quitting because of a policy dispute. At the company's annual meeting April 25, chairman Clyne charged that there had been a lack of executive teamwork.

His attack apparently took the Foleys by surprise and as a result Harold Foley stepped down from his position as vice-chairman. H. R. MacMillan, dean of the B.C. lumber industry, quit as honorary chairman.

However, MacMillan remains on the executive committee along with Prentice Bloedel of Seattle, Conley Brooks of Minneapolis, president R. M. Shaw, W. J. VanDusen, Brown, Williamson and Clyne.

Plans Made For Philip's Conference

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian industry and labor have contributed more than $600,000 to finance the Duke of Edinburgh's second Commonwealth study conference next year, a 25-day investigation of the impact of the industrial community on family life.

A steering committee announced this when it met here to assess progress in the organization of the conference scheduled to begin May 13, 1962, in Montreal.

The money will underwrite the cost of a concentrated study of particular human problems by 300 delegates from more than 30 countries during a nation-wide tour.

The delegates, young men and women likely to assume positions of leadership and responsibility within a decade, will hold two days of plenary sessions in Montreal. Prince Philip, conference president, will address the opening session May 14.

The group will spend a day in Ottawa before breaking into groups of 15 to visit selected industrial communities in Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

On May 27 delegates will board two special trains here for the journey to Vancouver.

SPECIAL JOB PROJECTS

Federal Gov't Aids Nova Scotia Miners

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is continuing special coal subventions to alleviate coalmining layoffs in Nova Scotia, Mines Minister Comtois said Tuesday, and will allocate $1,500,000 for special job-making projects.

The special subsidy on freight rates to make Maritimes coal competitive in Central Canada was inaugurated last year for areas previously outside the so-called subventions zone and was paid to Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to keep three pits open.

Mr. Comtois said this alone won't be enough. Layoffs would continue and the special $1,500,000 fund was being established — after parliamentary approval — for Cape Breton projects that would be approved on their merits.

Aside from the special subvention, other subsidies are paid on Maritimes coal as well.

The one being extended from June 1 to Aug. 1 next year amounts to $1 a ton — 80 cents from the federal government and 20 cents from the Nova Scotia government up to a maximum $300,000.

Mr. Comtois recalled that this has gone to Dosco on the express understanding that the company provide assurance it would use the money to keep as many men at work as possible.

FOYT WINS BY 8½ SECONDS

Big Prize Almost Slipped Through Texan's Fingers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Texan A. J. Foyt, who sits mighty tall in a race car seat, will learn at tonight's victory dinner how much he won Tuesday by capturing the golden anniversary 500-mile auto race in a record 139.131 miles an hour.

The top prize of $100,000 or so almost slipped through his fingers in a ferociously contested race on Tuesday that knocked out 21 of the 33 starting cars before the checkered flag fell. And, because of a breakdown in the timing system, it wasn't until Tuesday night that he learned he'd set a record.

It was a three-car race in the last stages among Foyt, 26, the big car champion from Houston, Texas; Eddie Sachs, of Center Valley, Pa., and 1959 winner Rodger Ward. And it finally was decided in the pits.

Foyt made his third and supposedly last pit stop for tires and fuel, but the connection on the pressure fueling system wouldn't work. His crew borrowed a refueling rig and called Foyt back in for an extra stop.

Meanwhile, Sachs was flying and looked like a sure winner after failing to finish in four previous starts. Then his right rear tire wore ragged and he had to stop for a new one with only three laps—7½ miles—to go.

Foyt passed Sachs as the Pennsylvanian was gunning his car out of the pits. The handsome Texan beat Eddie to the finish line by 8½ seconds. With four pit stops apiece, Sachs spent 8 2-5 seconds more off the track.

Foyt drove the Indianapolis Bowes Special. Sachs the Long Beach, Calif., Dean Special.

Ward, having trouble with a new type Watson car, was less than a lap behind in third place.

Mechanical trouble sent Jim Rathmann, last year's winner, to the sidelines after he had led part of the race. Other leaders at various times included 1952 winner Troy Ruttman, who became physically exhausted; rookie Parnelli Jones and second-time starter Jim Hurtubise.

Hurtubise and Jones both suffered facial cuts from small flying objects, and Jones' cut forced him into a four-minute-plus pit stop. He had to change goggles three times because of blood from his eyebrow.

Jack Brabham, of Australia, the world road racing champion, drove a shrewd, smooth race to ninth place but was never in contention. His little English Cooper simply didn't have enough "oomph" on the straightaways as the American Offenhausers remained kings of the speedway for the 15th straight year.

Following the third place Ward, in order, were Shorty Templeman, Al Keller, Chuck Stevenson, Bobby Marshman, Lloyd Ruby, Brabham and Norman Hall.

The race was run without death or serious injury to a driver, in spite of a series of spectacular wrecks on the west main straightaway. A speedway guard, John Masariu, became the old racing plant's 54th fatality, however, when a fire truck backed over him after extinguishing a fire in Eddie Johnson's wrecked car.

The first posted time had Foyt finished at 138.466 which would have been a whisker behind Rathmann's record 138.767 last year. However, during the evening, speedway officials revealed timing equipment had gone bad on the 175th lap and had to be replaced by stop-watches for two or three minutes.

The corrected time—139.131—made Foyt the fastest ever to finish the race.

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

Unless I have a deuce or two riding on one of the critters, horse racing seldom excites me. Just about anybody who doesn't make a habit of beating small dogs gets a kick out of watching horses run, but it usually takes the price of a mutuel ticket to get the innards squirming during the run down the home stretch.

I can't say the same about races run by Carry Back, the little colt that this Saturday goes after the Belmont Stakes—the third jewel in racing's triple crown.

The drives he made to the wire to grab the first two jewels—the Kentucky Derby and Preakness—were heart-stoppers that almost made the idiot box seem worth while.

The bubble may burst Saturday, but this is a colt with color and one that seems to have been adopted by the people as their kind of a horse, partly because he runs from behind but mainly because he's been ridiculed by turfdom's elite as a scrawny youngster from the wrong side of the tracks who has a knack of throwing dirt in the collective faces of racing's bluebloods.

* * *

Like a million other guys and gals, I'm for Carry Back because they call him scrawny and unfashionable—and because he's a come-from-behind scrapper. Learned turf experts will tell you that running from behind doesn't mean too much and that Carry Back's times are ordinary. A horse can run a mile and a quarter just so fast, whether he goes to the front or lays back until the last turn. But the way he does it, you'd almost swear Carry Back enjoys giving people heart attacks and works just hard enough to win.

Maybe he hasn't been busting any records, but only the great ones win every Saturday.

* * *

From the way race track snobs have been lifting their eyebrows, you'd almost suspect Carry Back had buck teeth and a tail like a camel. Listening to TV accounts and reading about the colt that has now won more than $700,000, you'd think he was just an overgrown Shetland pony. He has been described as "having the stringy homeliness of a dirty muskrat." And owner Jack Price appears willing to go along with the story.

In racing, they say "breed to the best and hope for the best" and Price bred the best he had to the best he could afford.

Price acquired Carry Back's dam, Joppy, for $150 and a cancelled $115 board bill. The stud fee for Carry Back was $400, because his dam was one of a group bred to Saggy at wholesale discount.

Trained racing people may be able to believe that Carry Back is a scrawny-looking thing, but for my money that part of his saga is untrue. From my TV seat he looks like a reasonably handsome colt, and the worst that can be said about him physically is that he's on the small side. And that's hardly a rap when you consider all the tremendous horses of the past that have also been smallish—Sword Dancer, Determine and Alsab, to name a few.

* * *

Carry Back's so-called unfashionable breeding only goes as far as the cost. All thoroughbreds come from the same book. And Carry Back doesn't have any reason to apologize to his ancestors.

For authority, we give you Frank Talmadge Phelps, the breeding expert for The Thoroughbred Record, who writes: "The presence within his first three generations of such sires as Equipoise, Hyperion and Blenheim II, as well as such mares as Chantress and Starweed, gives Carry Back enough quality in his bloodlines to qualify as a Derby winner."

* * *

Although Saggy had a habit of folding in the stretch, his sire, Swing and Sway, won the Whitney Stakes at a mile and a quarter.

"As a son of the brilliant Equipoise," Phelps points out, "Swing and Sway had a right to be any kind of a stallion. One suspects, however, that a considerable portion of Carry Back's staying ability is inherited from Saggy's dam, Chantress, daughter of the splendid classicist and superb sire, Hyperion.

"Joppy was the daughter of the virtually unknown Star Blen. But Star Blen was the son of the English Derby winner, Blenheim II, sire of classic victors on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. Star Blen's dam, Starweed, won the Wilbraham Stakes in England. Joppy's dam, Miss Fairfax, is inbred to the tremendous French stallion, Teddy, with one free generation . . ."

It's high-falutin' language, but it just goes to show that you shouldn't believe all those yarns about Carry Back being from the wrong side of the tracks.

He's better in the bloodlines than 90 per cent of his cafe society detractors who have been looking down their snobbish noses at his ancestors.

And when he's going by horses in the home stretch, he's a thing of beauty.

The squabble between Little League baseball and the medical fraternity is in the news again and there are a couple of articles coming up that should make interesting reading for anybody interested in the program that now involves hundreds of boys in this area.

Slated for the Weekend Magazine of next Saturday's Times is a piece by Andy O'Brien. Another is printed in the June edition of Reader's Digest.

Both boil down to the fact that Little League baseball is just fine, as long as parents leave it to the kids and don't put too much stress on winning and individual excellence. The danger is immature parents.

Four-and-Twenty Runs 1.34.2 Mile

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Four-and-Twenty has regained his role as probably the best three-year-old runner campaigning on the west coast.

The colt, in the purple and white silks of Alberta Ranches, won the $28,000 Will Rogers Stakes Tuesday in a stirring struggle before 63,079 Memorial Day fans at Hollywood Park.

The victory hardly atoned for Four-and-Twenty's dismal seventh-place finish in the Kentucky Derby May 6 but it did establish him as the horse to beat in the $100,000-Added Hollywood Derby in July.

The one-mile Will Rogers turned out to be a ding dong duel between Four-and-Twenty, with Johnny Longden up, and Olden Times, ridden by Willie Shoemaker. Sonofagun ran third.

The time of 1.34 2-5 equalled the race record set by Round Table under 122 pounds in 1957. Four-and-Twenty carried 126.

There was never any alibi for Four-and-Twenty's poor showing at Churchill Downs. Western turf writers contend he just ran into too many better eastern colts.

But Vince Glorioso, who is training the colt in the absence of head trainer Vance Longden, said: "He's in a lot better shape than he was when he ran in the Kentucky Derby."

Vance Longden is back east with the stable's other three-year-old hope, Flutterby, pointing toward the Belmont Stakes June 3.

Still wearing goggles, A. J. Foyt grins happily after winning 500-mile automobile race Tuesday at Indianapolis. Youngest driver ever to win event at 26, Texan drove his car to record 139.131 m.p.h. average as he finished 8½ seconds ahead of Eddie Sachs. (AP Wirephoto.)

TAKE COAST TITLE

Mexicans Blank Royals in Final

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Mexican select team won the John F. Kennedy Trophy and $1,000 in prize money Tuesday by defeating Westminster Royals of British Columbia 3-0 in the finals of the first Pacific International soccer tournament.

In the consolation round, San Francisco and Los Angeles tied 1-1 for third place.

The hard-playing Aztecs sewed up the championship match in the first half on a goal by Carlos Zapata at the three-minute mark and a pair by Armando Carrido at 23 and 29 minutes.

An estimated 4,600 fans turned out for the games in Rancho Cienega Stadium.

New Formula Tried by Vics

New Westminster sticks to its successful format—one that has provided 10 straight victories—but Victoria tries a new tack in a bid to vacate the Inter-City Lacrosse League basement.

Westminster's formula—steady goaltending by Les Norman and sufficient fire power by a smooth-working offense—gave the unbeaten leaders their 10th win Tuesday. They defeated Vancouver 9-6.

The change comes in Victoria's Memorial Arena where, tonight, the Vics face Nanaimo.

Manager Whitey Severson, who will handle the Victoria team in the absence of coach Arnie Ferguson, says the cellar-dwellers will concentrate on packing two forward lines in an effort to produce greater scoring punch.

Severson himself figures in the lineup shuffle, moving to a line with Jim McNeill and Jack Showers. Ron Jay, Tom Collett and rookie Rod Kilduff make up the second unit, with Al Gill available for spot duty.

Gill, returning to the lacrosse wars after a short-lived retirement, will start on defence but may move to a forward line "if needed".

NEW BLOOD SOUGHT

Severson also disclosed today that the Vics are attempting to get "three or four" players from New Westminster.

The list includes one-time Victoria stalwart Jack Howes.

"Jack apparently has been given his release. We're still not too well informed on why, but I have heard that he suffered a bad injury. At any rate, we're checking into it," said Severson. "We hope we can get him."

The other players — all rookies — are Wayne Shuttleworth, Larry Brownlee and Keith Jackson. All were cut by the power-packed leaders this week.

Henley Too Costly

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia announced Tuesday that its oarsmen will not compete in the Henley Regatta in England this summer.

The University said the main reason is anticipated trouble in raising $15,000 for expenses and the crew's lack of experience.

Bye Bye BOGIES by BOB ROSBURG

Pressure

No other game that I know of calls for greater control of emotions and feelings, more complete self command than golf.

Perhaps that is one of the game's greatest fascinations. When you have mastered golf, you have mastered yourself. There are so many things — some of them petty — that can put a golfer under pressure it is impossible to list them all. A bad shot for instance—and we all make them.

I find the best way to keep a bad shot from ruining my game is to simply ignore it. Forget it happened. Concentrate on the next shot. If you keep dwelling on a bad shot, it multiplies itself into more bad shots.

When I'm under pressure, I do better if I play the shot in which I have the most confidence. I often will take a club I wouldn't ordinarily use, simply because I feel better using it. Feeling better with it eases tension.

Ignore a bad shot

I try not to think of what could go wrong, but try to visualize the perfect shot with every stroke. If you have a mental picture of a good shot, the chances are you'll make it.

Mind over matter works in golf, particularly when the player is under pressure.

Spencer Traded

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals traded shortstop Daryl Spencer to Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday for shortstop Bob Lillis and rookie outfielder Carl Warwick.

Lillis, 34, who has seen little action this year, will replace Spencer as the No. 1 Cardinal shortstop. The Redbirds have been searching for a satisfactory shortstop for years, ever since the departure of Marty Marion.

Spencer, who will be 32 in July, is hitting .260 and has drawn some boos in recent games for fielding lapses.

Warwick, 24, hit .292 for St. Paul of the American Association last year.

Longshot Psidium Triumphs in Derby

EPSOM, Eng. (CP) — Psidium, a 66-to-1 longshot, won the 182nd running of the English Derby today.

Dicta Drake, the French-owned entry, was second and the American-owned Pardao came third in a photo finish for the runner-up spot.

The finish — a sensational one—had the crowd roaring wildly. Psidium did not make his dash until the last furlong. For a few strides it looked as though he would have a hard task getting the better of Pardao and Dicta Drake.

The lightly-rated Psidium, which hadn't won in three earlier starts this year, moved away in the final furlong to take the top prize of £34,548 ($96,734).

Dicta Drake was 100-to-8 in the betting and Pardao 13-to-2. Sovrango finished fourth at odds of 100-to-7.

Cipriani was fifth, followed in order by: 6, Just Great; 7, Latin Lover; 8, Bounteous; 9, Nicodemus; 10, Hot Brandy; 11, Allosha, and 12, Belliquex II.

QUEEN SEES RACE

A throng of about 250,000, including Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family, watched the famed 1½-mile race under perfect weather conditions.

An Irish hospital sweepstakes is based on the result of the classic for three-year-olds.

The lead changed hands several times before Psidium, English-owned but ridden by French jockey Roger Poincelet, pulled away to win by two lengths.

Psidium, owned by Mrs. Arpad Plesch, is a chestnut colt by Pardal out of Linarella.

MOUTIERS ALSO RAN

Moutiers, owned by the 80-year-old widow of American publisher Ralph Strassburger, was favorite for the race at 5-to-1 but was never in the contest after Psidium turned on the speed in the stretch.

Psidium's victory, accomplished over a hard, dry turf course after weeks of near drought, was the biggest upset in the classic since Aboyeur won at 100-to-1 odds in 1913.

Jerome Sets Mark

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Harry Jerome of Vancouver Tuesday won the 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds, equalling the world record, to help University of Oregon to a 70-61 track meet victory over Oregon State.

What! Reds In NL Lead?

New York Yankees fired a prodigious seven-home salute to Memorial Day and Baltimore Orioles popped a pair of classy pitching performances, but with no such style or fanfare Cincinnati Reds enjoyed the happiest holiday celebration of all.

In their inimitable scrambling fashion, the Reds dumped San Francisco Giants in both games of a double-header, 7-6 and 6-4, and moved into a first-place tie in the National League race.

For the Yankees, Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Bill Skowron each hit a pair of homers to tie a major league record and lead a 12-3 bombardment of Boston Red Sox.

This was the fifth time in major league history that three players on a team each hit two homers in a game. Yogi Berra also contributed a homer as the Yankees fell one short of tying the major league record set by their 1939 predecessors.

ORIOLES WARM NOW

Baltimore, meanwhile, capitalized on a pair of pitching performances reminiscent of last season — by Steve Barber and Skinny Brown — to sweep a double-header from Chicago White Sox, 6-0 and 2-1.

The American League race was tightened when first-place Detroit Tigers split a double-header with Kansas City Athletics, winning the opener, 5-3, on Norm Cash's grand slam homer, but losing the second game, 9-3.

Cleveland Indians took advantage of this to move within 2½ games of the lead, sweeping a twin bill from Minnesota Twins, 4-3 and 7-5. In the other AL game, Washington Senators defeated Los Angeles Angels, 5-1.

Chicago Cubs pulled a surprise sweep of a double-header from Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3 and 10-0; and Milwaukee Braves split two games with Philadelphia Phils, winning the first, 3-1, and losing the second, 11-4. In the only holiday night game, Los Angeles Dodgers pulled to within 10 percentage points of the Reds and Giants by turning back St. Louis Cardinals, 5-3.

REDS REALLY ROLLING

In moving into a first-place tie with the Giants, Cincinnati collected 24 hits and ran its latest winning streak to five games. The Reds have won 20 of their last 26.

Vada Pinson, winning pitcher Jim Maloney and Gene Freese each hit a homer that gave the Reds a 7-2 lead in the opening game. The Giants erupted with three homers in the ninth—by Hobie Landrith, Chuck Hiller and Willie Mays in a pinch-hitting role—to come within one run of tying before Jim Henry got the final out.

The second-game win was only slightly easier. Pinson hit a two-run single during a four-run third-inning rally against Juan Marichal. Jim O'Toole yielded seven hits for his fifth victory, although manager Fred Hutchinson called in Bob Purkey to pitch the ninth inning.

Hosts for B.C. Meet

Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club will be the site of the annual provincial tennis championships, July 24-29, it was announced Tuesday by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

"BEST CONTRACT" possibly ever offered a coach was the way Admiral John J. Bergen, head of New York Rangers, today described three-year pact given Doug Harvey (above), former Montreal Canadiens' star defenceman. No salary was mentioned but it is believed Harvey, 36, will receive between $25,000-$27,000 per year as playing coach with the National Hockey League club.

Battle Royal

It's every man for himself.

That's how promoter Rod Fenton describes a nine-man battle royal that takes top billing when the pro wrestlers take over Memorial Arena Saturday night.

Participating in the battle royal, as well as four supporting bouts, will be Whipper Bill Watson, Ivan Kameroff, Joe and Guy Brunetti, Mitsu Arakawa, The Yankee, Bob Morse, Danno McDonald and Doug Lindsey.

Body slams start at 8.30.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1961—PAGE 17

Royal Oak Overpass In Expressway Plan

Worthington Byelection Set for July

Saanich will hold a byelection in July to fill a seat left vacant by the death of Coun. Ainslie Worthington Tuesday.

Reeve George Chatterton said today the date of the byelection would probably be set at the next council meeting.

Councillors met briefly Tuesday to pass a resolution expressing sympathy and condolence to Mrs. Worthington and family.

The reeve recalled that Mr. Worthington as chairman of the council's health and welfare committee had been working to establish a new home for Saanich and South Vancouver Island health unit.

Mr. Worthington was a "loyal and faithful servant" of the people, he said.

UNCHANGED

Mr. Chatterton said he will not change his plans to remain as reeve until his term expires at the end of the year.

"In the next few months I believe we must decide the very important question of whether council and the people of Saanich want industry, and if they do, where it is to be located," he said.

"I believe Saanich does need industry, and I want to be there. This is something I have always worked very hard for," he said.

Hill Intersections To Be Eliminated

The B.C. government definitely plans to make an "expressway" of the Patricia Bay Highway, it was learned today.

These plans will mean elimination of all intersections on grades.

This would include an overpass at the present Quadra intersection near Royal Oak.

Drawings for a proposed "bridge" to run the highway over the top of Quadra have already been made.

Traffic surveys of the highway were made last fall. This year highways department location engineers have been working on alternative ways of widening it to four lanes.

Exact route has not yet been decided, but the highway will meet what is known as "expressway standard."

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi indicated earlier that work would not start on the project until next year, when a boom in traffic is expected as the government steps up its Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry service to hourly crossing.

The three possible plans which have been under study:

Widening existing stretches into four lanes;

Relocation of parts of the highway;

Dual carriageway on sections with heaviest traffic volume.

Modification Work Seen Here

A $1,000,000 start in a $21,600,000 warship modification program is expected to stimulate work at local shipyards this year.

The navy announced plans Tuesday in a national defence handbook prior to Commons study of detailed spending estimates of the defence department.

The conversion is to equip all destroyer escorts with newer submarine detection gear and raised helicopter platforms.

A naval spokesman said there may not be much work done until late in the fiscal year because of technical problems to overcome in connection with the project.

Included in the over-all program, estimated to cost $57,100,000, will be purchase of 12 helicopters.

DESTROYER

The $21,600,000 outlay is to convert Pacific Command's seven St. Lawrene class DEs and HMCS Crusader, on the Atlantic seaboard.

This work is almost certain to provide local shipyards with contracts, the spokesman said.

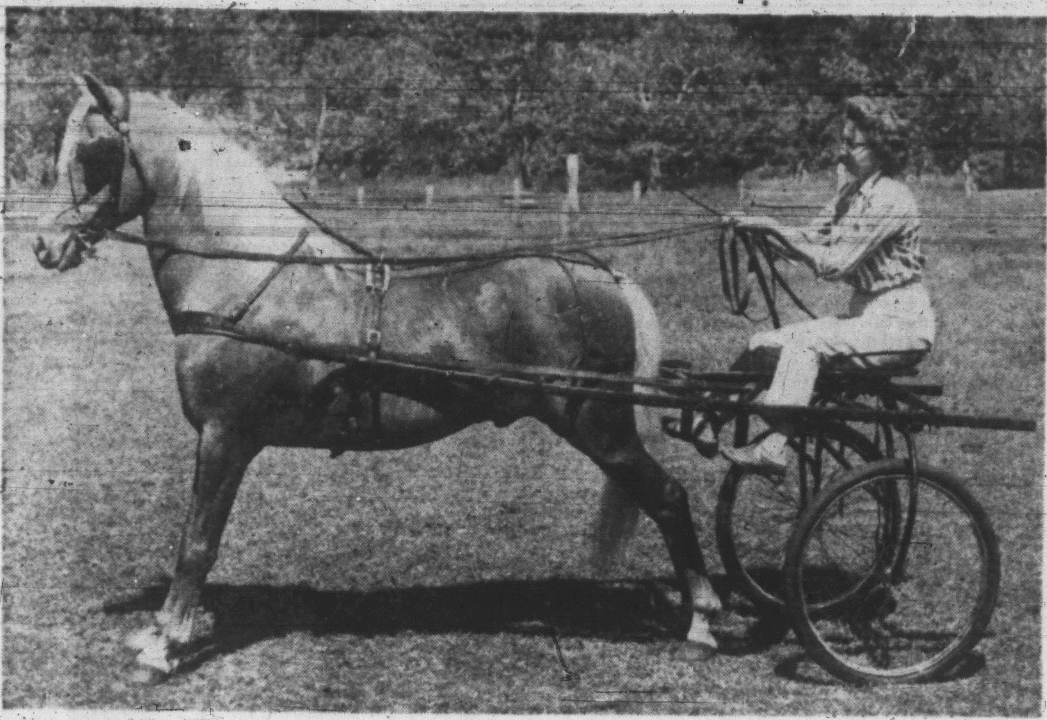
STEP AHEAD

By increasing submarine hunting-killing effectiveness, the program will represent a "great step forward" in anti-submarine warfare, said Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes, Pacific Coast Flag Officer.

He said the range of destroyer escorts would be increased, also.

It is planned to spend $3,500,000 on the Canadian-developed varible depth sonar for sub detection, estimated to cost $11,700,000 eventually.

The spending program calls for $7,500,000 expenditure in the current fiscal year, started April 1.



THOUSANDS SAW HIM "strutting his stuff" in the Victoria Day parade, and he will be on display again this Sunday at a pony show at Saanichton Fair Grounds. He is prize-winning Pacific Paddy, palomino pony stallion from George Ransom's Pacific Pony Farm, 4394 Shelbourne, shown in harness in the picture by Mrs. Ransom. He stands 52 inches at the shoulder, just under the show limit.

. . . And the First to Find Mama 'Takes the Cake' at Pony Show

The "little people" of the horse world will have their day at Saanichton Fair Grounds this Sunday when the Vancouver Island Pony Breeders' Association holds its second annual show.

It will start at 1.30 p.m. and will be open to the public free of charge.

Last year's show attracted wide interest and officials anticipate a big crowd this year when a variety of events will be offered.

Included in the program will be something new in the way of horse show events. Officials call it a "dinner bell race" which will see mares and their foals in competition. The little "mamas" will be held at one end of the show ring, and their "littler" babies at the other. When the dinner gong sounds the foals will be released, and the first to find his or her mother, and naturally, the source of sustenance, will be the winner.

There will be a colorful parade pony class, halter class for yearlings, two stallion classes, small and large ponies, a trail class where obstacles must be negotiated, a barrel race, a halter class for mares, a harness class, a bareback ride race, a foal class, matched pairs and a miniature jump course contest.

54-INCH MAXIMUM

There won't be an animal in the show over 54 inches tall (13.2 hands) at the withers (highest point of the shoulder) and all riders will be under 14 years of age. There is no age limit for handlers.

Refreshments will be available on the grounds and there will be free parking.

Entries are coming from many parts of the Island, and will include some of the finest pony stock in the Pacific Northwest.

MONTE ROBERTS

One thing I have always said, it is alright to be snarly as long as you know you are being snarly.

And I am certain that this constituent (name and address on file but withheld by request) knew she was being snarly when she wrote:

"Asking friends what they thought of the Victoria Day parade, some replied 'It wasn't too bad; not many floats, though,' or 'it was okay, but did you ever get the chance to see the Rose Bowl parade? Now that IS a parade.'

"And of course, Victoria being what it is, I expected that sort of an answer, so returned this reply: For all the applause and cheering the parade entrants received, you can't expect anything more.

"The people of Victoria expect a great deal for very little. The least they could do is stop sitting on their hands and give out with applause (it's free, you know). The people of Victoria are a bunch of ingrates, and I am ashamed of the fact that I, too, am a Victoria resident.

"Victoria people do not offer support when it is needed, and then they wonder why they don't get the attractions such as Vancouver might have.

"It is really self-evident, only we Victoria people do not realize it. So, Victoria, Wake Up and Live."

I must admit, this is the snarliest constituent I have encountered since I hinted that being a Little Bit of Olde England was a Little Less than being a Bit of Orl Right.

But I have a gnawing feeling her snarls are pointed in the right direction.

Might be we Victorians could do with less viewing with alarm and more cheering with enthusiasm.

What think the other constituents, snarly or not?

Coin Laundry Burglary Close to $150

Thieves broke into the Pink Elephant Launderette Tuesday night and stole between $100 and $150 from 18 washers, city police reported today.

Money boxes attached to the washers were smashed open and the contents emptied.

A brace and bit was used to open the rear door of the premises.

TIMES WRITER GETS AWARD FROM COUNCIL

Douglas Forrester, formerly of West Vancouver and now writing from Tokyo for the Victoria Daily Times and other newspapers, has been named as one of eight Canadian free-lance writers to win Canada Council fellowships.

The announcement today said the awards, of from $1,000 to $3,000, were for specialized studies by journalists, broadcasters and film makers.

Amount of Mr. Forrester's award was not listed.

A Vancouver man originally, he lived in Sooke for several years and first became associated with the Times as the paper's correspondent for that area.

Other B.C. winner of a council award was Patricia Young, Vancouver.

Individualists Impress Visitor

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria is a city of individualists in the opinion of Dr. Eric Mann, leading travel writer and lecturer.

"I think you are doing a good job of resisting the general trend towards uniformity," he said today, "and I wish more North American cities would follow this example."

Vienna-born Dr. Mann expected to find "characters" in Victoria, but was somewhat startled when a man in khaki shorts held up traffic on Government Street simply by raising his right hand.

REMARKABLE

"He wasn't even walking in a pedestrian crossing. He reminded me of some ancient Roman general invading a fallen city. It was truly remarkable."

A former professor of history, Dr. Mann finds Victorians "more reserved" than in other Canadian and American cities. But, he adds, it is a friendly reserve, not an attitude of indifference.

TRAVEL REPORT

Dr. Mann's impressions of Victoria will appear in the November issue of Travel Report, published in New York.

In this pocket-size publication he writes short chapters on the many places he has visited with the aim of stimulating interest in tourist travel. He contributes to many periodicals in Europe and United States and lectures widely.

Why did he become a travel writer? Because 10 years ago an American told him, "Don't go to Italy—there is nothing there!"

IGNORANCE

Such an attitude, he decided, could only result from ignorance and he promptly organized a 15-week travel course for the adult division of New York University. This has since been given in many other U.S. cities.

While in Victoria Dr. Mann is also writing a portrait of Dr. David Turner, British Columbia's deputy minister of recreation and conservation, for ASTA Travel News, official publication of the American Society of Travel Agents.

TOURISM

This is part of a series called "Men Who Make Tourism" and deals with the heads of important tourist departments.

"I was impressed by the economic operation of Dr. Turner's organization," he said. "This is no doubt due to Dr. Turner's Scottish ancestry."

Dr. Mann believes Victoria should preserve its old buildings and develope the "Old Englande" theme as far as possible.

"This is as important to Victoria as the Old Vienna district is important to Chicago. Tourists do not visit places for scenery alone. They seek history and tradition as well."

'THE TWEEDS' HAVE DONE IT ONCE MORE

The "Barron motif" is back from Portland, where it scored a hit.

Delegates from Victoria to the annual convention of the northwest division of the United Commercial Travellers of America, presented themselves at the featured banquet of the meeting in tweeds and long scarves, carrying cluster lights and teapots along the lines of Times cartoonist Sid Barron's spoofing.

They "stole the show" according to reports.

John B. Priestley, of 1621 Hollywood Crescent, was elected Grand Sentinel of the Grand Council for Oregon, Washington and B.C.

Twenty-eight local delegates attended the convention.

Canada-Wide Census Starts On Thursday

Canadians on vacation here were being canvassed today by census enumerators.

Aim of this preliminary canvass in a Canada-wide survey is to get the vital statistics of Canadians who will not be there when the enumerators call at their homes in June.

The house-to-house canvass of city residents starts Thursday morning.

There is a maximum fine of $100 or a three-month jail term for refusing to answer census questions or wilfully giving false answers.

But if you are asked personal questions by a neighbor who may be acting as a census enumerator you have the right to refuse, and may give the statistics to the census commissioner in charge of the district.

Census officials said they have received no protests against the questions asked.

PARK CEREMONY

Naval Pomp As Drums Presented

Victorians will have the opportunity of seeing a unique ceremony June 16 when Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes presents a set of ceremonial drums to Pacific Command, RCN.

The drums are the gift of the province of British Columbia, the city of Victoria and the municipalities of Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

They were ordered last year to mark the 50th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Navy but arrived here from England only recently. Ornately decorated with sterling silver, the set is valued at about $10,000. There is a bass drum, two tenor drums and six side drums.

Eight hundred men of the RCN will take part in the complicated ceremonial at Beacon Hill Park.

A square will be formed by bleachers capable of seating up to 5,000. Officials, however, are hoping the vantage points in Beacon Hill Park will attract up to 10,000 people.

Guests will include Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mayor Percy Scurrah, the reeves of surrounding municipalities and other civic dignitaries.

Ceremony will start at 7.30 p.m.

ACTING MAYOR HAS BADLANDS' PLAN

(See Page 7)

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said today he opposes city borrowing of $800,000 to finance Blanshard Street extension to relieve arterial traffic to the north.

He said by opening the "badlands" area south of Tolmie, the city's northern boundary, first by putting in rough roads, then by proper zoning, the proposed main traffic route could finance itself through local improvement projects.

The area now has little access and no through roads.

"It's of no value the way it is now. In fact it's a burden to the city. Opening it up to development would put thousands of dollars on the city tax roll," the acting mayor said.

"You find that as soon as there is a road, even a dirt road bulldozed through, people will say, 'this is the highway,' and the area will develop itself."

He added, "I oppose borrowing $800,000 for this project . . . I believe we should continue to pay as we go."

Ald. Mooney said he first proposed an extension of Blanshard when he was new to the council about nine years ago, an idea passed off at the time.

"I'm pleased they have pretty well stuck to my original plan," he said.

One of the first streets required in the area is an extension of Finlayson, to provide east-west access, the acting mayor felt.

One of the most important steps would be controlled development by zoning, perhaps for a pleasing entranceway to the city through high rise apartment buildings.

The area is now a mixed commercial, dwelling, industrial zone.

ESQUIMALT NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fraser returns June 16.

Here, the cheque is presented by CPO Frank Andrews (left) to Lt.-Cmdr. Bruce Campbell, who is co-ordinating the drive in Pacific Command. Looking on are AB Frank McKnight and Brig. Harold Chapman of the Salvation Army. Campaign officials addressed 400 officers and men of the destroyer command concerning the drive this morning. Navy target is $12,000.

ASK The TIMES

Q—The other day, I heard someone use the quotation, "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." He said that it was from Voltaire. Is this so? A.T.R.

A—Although it is certainly in the spirit of Voltaire, this quotation is not from his pen, although it has often been attributed to him. The confusion probably arises because it first appeared in a book "The Friends of Voltaire" and is supposedly quoted from a letter sent to Helvetius by the French scholar.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

DOMINICAN DICTATOR SLAIN

JFK, De Gaulle In Agreement On West Berlin

PARIS (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy tonight pledged U.S. forces would stay in Europe as long as required and meet with all necessary weapons any threat to the Western Alliance.

He said he was certain that neither France nor the United States would ever ignore NATO "to risk war or to accept retreat or to act out of narrow isolation."

The president's pledge came in the course of remarks at a glittering state dinner given for him and Mrs. Kennedy by President and Mme. Charles de Gaulle.

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PARIS — President Kennedy and President de Gaulle reached "general agreement" today on the problem of West Berlin in the opening session of their allied policy conferences.

This result was announced by a U.S. spokesman. He said the agreement was achieved within the course of a 45-minute discussion when they first met.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters that during the day the two presidents "discussed Berlin, problems of Southeast Asia and the Geneva conference on Laos."

Kennedy began his first venture in summit diplomacy with de Gaulle after receiving a 101-gun salute and a warm welcome from the people of Paris.

The president and the French leader held two sessions of talks in de Gaulle's office at the Elysees Palace today.

Only two interpreters were present as the two men discussed world problems, including some concerning NATO on which the United States and France do not see eye-to-eye.

The two leaders began their talks, which will take up nine hours in five meetings over the next three days, just two hours after Kennedy and his wife arrived here.

The talks are expected to range over the entire list of international problems as a prelude to Kennedy's summit meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna this weekend.

Hundreds of Parisians shouted "Vive Kennedy" as the car carrying the smiling president swept through the gates of the Elysees Palace, de Gaulle's official residence, for the beginning of their talks.

THOUSANDS CHEER

Tens of thousands of Parisians lined the streets in spring sunshine to cheer the president and his wife as they drove through the city from the airport.

Andrew Hatcher, assistant press secretary to Kennedy, said he estimated the crowds at about 1,500,000.

Veteran observers said the welcome matched that accorded President Eisenhower, al-

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of Parliament have been invited to attend a meeting in nearby Hull, Que., tonight to discuss "the urgent necessity" of Quebec breaking away from Canada.

The invitations, delivered by special messenger, noted that since the Second World War 30 countries had won independence.

"When is Quebec's turn?" the invitation asked.

Foley Blasts Clyne, Resigns From Board

(See Also Page 8)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harold S. Foley, known as the "silver fox" of the forest industry, today resigned from the board of directors of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company, Canada's largest forest products company.

In a letter to board chairman J. V. Clyne, former British Columbia Supreme Court justice, Mr. Foley charged Mr. Clyne with:

Having a prejudiced attitude, acting contrary to verbal understandings at the time of the merger of MacMillan and Bloedel and the Powell River Company; seriously depleting the management strength of the merged company.

Limiting Powell River's contribution to the merger to little more than its physical resources and financial reserves; cutting Powell River's voice on the board; failing to act as an impartial chairman; unjustifiably publicly accusing Powell River executives of lack of co-operation and blaming Mr. Foley's brother, M. J. Foley, for financial losses in the company's charcoal operation.

In a statement in reply to Mr. Foley's letter, which was distributed to all directors of the company, Mr. Clyne said he has no intention of entering into a public controversy with Mr. Foley. He said he will recommend acceptance of Mr. Foley's resignation.

Over the last year several former Powell River executives quit their posts in the merged company.

'Bedlam' Hits Island Home

Word of their winning a $55,000 Irish Sweepstake prize today turned the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson, 1371 Discovery Street, in Nanaimo, into a bit of a "bedlam."

"The phone started ringing first thing and has never stopped," Mr. Watson said—by telephone.

Five Canadians won the $137,500 pot of gold with tickets on Psidium, winner of the Epsom Derby.

Another nine held $55,000 tickets on Dicta Drake, the second-place horse, and seven had $27,500 tickets on Pardao, the third-place horse.

The Watson's ticket was bought in Mrs. Watson's name under the pseudonym "All Wet."

Mrs. Watson used the nom de plume "All Wet" because she was in the bath when she bought the ticket.

"We didn't know anything about our winning until 7.30 a.m., when I got a phone call from my father in Vancouver," Mr. Watson said. "Then the fun started."

Kennedy Orders 'Close Watch'

From Times News Service

PARIS—Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean, has been assassinated, it was learned here tonight.

RAFAEL TRUJILLO
. . . 30 years a dictator

The announcement was made by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, here with visiting President Kennedy.

He told reporters Kennedy has instructed State Secretary Dean Rusk to stay in Washington instead of coming to Paris so he can keep a close watch on the situation in the Dominican Republic.

The press secretary said the president had been in close touch with Washington on the matter.

Meanwhile in Washington, the state department said it has received unconfirmed reports of Trujillo's assassination.

Department sources said:

"Reports from travellers arriving in a nearby country say that an unusually tense situation exists.

"The capital is reported to be under heavy military guard.

"The department has no further information."

COMMUNICATIONS CUT

Earlier there had been rumors in Port au Prince, Haiti, that an attempt had been made to kill Trujillo.

The sources said communications from the consulate in Ciudad Trujillo had been interrupted.

Three weeks ago, diplomatic sources in Washington reported unusual air activity over Ciudad Trujillo, and speculated that a revolution might be brewing.

Regular direct communication between the Dominican Republic and the United States, as well as with Haiti, adjacent to the Dominican Republic, was cut off.

Trujillo ruled the Dominican Republic as a dictator since 1930.

"You'll know I'm retired when you hear I'm dead," he told an American interviewer in March, 1960.

Chatterton Hears Budget Next Week

New MP-elect George Chatterton said today he had heard reports the federal budget is coming down next week.

"I don't know," he added, "This is just talk I have heard."

However, Mr. Chatterton is expected to make his maiden speech in Parliament during the budget debate.

He now is awaiting word from Ottawa on when to take his first trip to the House of Commons as Esquimalt-Saanich MP-elect.

"I had expected to go this weekend," he said.

SHORT VISIT

Mr. Chatterton said he plans to attend the International Municipal Congress June 15 in Washington, D.C., as representative of Saanich.

He said he was told that he would not have to stay very long in Ottawa for his first visit. This could mean that he will be able to participate in the budget debate before going to the U.S. conference.

'Point of Gun' Tactics U.S. Charge

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today accused the Soviet Union of trying to force the Laos peace parley to work "at the point of a gun."

W. Averell Harriman attacked Soviet opposition to giving the International Control Commission (ICC) in Laos added power to check violations of the cease-fire there.

He spoke to the 14-nation conference which re-convened after a week-long stalemate recess. But as soon as the session got underway Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin bluntly told the delegates that Russia opposes giving more power to the ICC.

Harriman immediately challenged Pushkin's stand.

Revelry Greets Birth Of S. Africa Republic

(CP From AP-Reuters)

PRETORIA — South Africa became a republic today with the country mobilized against demonstrations by the non-white majority of the people.

Church bells at midnight and cannon at daybreak heralded the birth of the new republic—and the only African nation still ruled wholly by whites.

Jubilant white throngs — mostly Afrikaners who long wanted a republic free of the 51-year connection with the British Crown — braved rain for night-long revelry in this administrative capital.

As the republic was born the government claimed a "total collapse" of the three-day strike launched Monday by leaders of the 13,000,000 non-whites to demand voting rights reserved for 3,000,000 whites.

But one Negro was shot dead and two were wounded Tuesday night in townships outside Port Elizabeth, where thousands of Negroes demonstrated against the government by burning South African flags.

Police moved into the Negro township with armored cars, but claimed they were not responsible for the shootings. Johannesberg's streets were

1,000 BREAK THROUGH POLICE LINES IN WAVE OF ADMIRATION

'La Tres Belle Jackie' Wows Paris Crowds

PARIS (UPI)—A crowd of about 1,000 persons broke through police lines today and surrounded Mrs. John F. Kennedy in a wave of admiration for America's First Lady.

Most of the day Mrs. Kennedy was in the company only of diplomats and statesmen. They were with her on arrival at Orly Airport when she stepped out of a jetliner with her husband President Kennedy and at the luncheon with President Charles de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace.

Crowds of ten of thousands cheered her—but only from afar — until mid-afternoon when she paid a 45-minute visit to a child welfare clinic founded by the American Red Cross after the First World War.

Then it was the turn of the ordinary housewives, shopkeepers and passersby who applauded her as she entered the red-brick building.

By the time Mrs. Kennedy was ready to leave, the crowd had grown to more than 1,000. They were held in check across the broad Avenue Brune by rows of police.

As the president's wife, in a pale yellow two-piece costume, walked to her car, the crowd began to force through the ranks of police.

Suddenly, the dam burst and the swarm of humanity flocked around "La Tres Belle Jackie"—the very beautiful Jackie—to tell her with smiles, waves and shouted words of acclaim the warmth the average Frenchman felt for her as a charming representative of the United States.

Earlier, two heads of state had looked on appreciatively as 2,000 French women cheered when Jackie stepped out into the sunshine of Paris in the spring.

The radiant American First Lady, arriving at the Elysee Palace for a state luncheon, was hailed with shouts of "Jackie" as she stepped from a limousine and she smiled and waved in response.

President Charles de Gaulle, a Frenchman still responsive to a chic woman and particularly one of his country's ancestry, stood alongside President Kennedy on a terrace at the moment.

De Gaulle beamed at the reception given the lovely young wife of his guest while Kennedy smiled quietly.

JACQUELINE KENNEDY . . . Paris in the Spring.

Mrs. Kennedy had kept in the background at the arrival ceremony at Orly Airport, but the French crowds got a good look at her when she arrived at the Quai D'Orsday. She came not only as the President's wife but as a sort of ambassadress of American fashion.

Judging from the cheers, from the waving French and American flags, the average Frenchwoman liked what she saw. But whether this was partly due to Mrs. Kennedy's good looks and the excitement of the state visit will have to await the verdict of French fashion experts.

"Jackie is absolutely terrified," said Mrs. Herve Alphand, wife of the French ambassador to the United States. "She is afraid of what the critics will say because she, as the wife of the President, cannot be dressed any longer in the French couture houses.

"But the French people will be crazy about her."

The people seemed to be just that for they dubbed her "La Belle Jackie"—Pretty Jackie—and gave her cheers every bit as enthusiastic as those that greeted her husband.

President de Gaulle and President Kennedy were just walking out to the terrace of the Elysee Palace when Mrs. Kennedy arrived shortly after 1.15 p.m. and the two heads of state watched appreciatively as she got out of her car to shouts of "Jackie."

So far, Mrs. Kennedy, who used to buy all her clothes in Paris, has displayed two of the costumes designed for this trip by Oleg Cassini and Chez Ninon of New York. At the airport she wore a pale blue wool coat, single breasted with three self buttons and a low set pointed collar.

For the Elysee lunch she wore a lightweight wool dress, diagonal closing loosely tied belt and slightly flared skirt with box pleats. Over this she wore a matching jacket, loosely fitted with notched lapels.

FINANCING SOUGHT

Blanshard Extension Wins Approval Again

Immediate steps to find a source of financing Blanshard Street extension was asked by city public works committee Tuesday.

The committee reaffirmed its support of the plan as adopted in October of last year, approved then because it dovetails with other downtown expansion for the future.

Its reconsideration of the earlier plan "shoots down" a suggestion made a few days ago that Quadra Street widening be accelerated as a cheaper means of speeding traffic.

Cost of the Blanshard Street proposal and of rebuilding a bottleneck intersection at Johnson, Wharf and Store Streets is estimated at $1,000,000.

Finance committee was asked to explore possible means of obtaining money for the project, about $800,000 for Blanshard and $200,000 for the other.

It is proposed to extend Blanshard from Hillside, where it forms a "T" intersection, through school board property and other private lots northward to link in Saanich with Douglas or Patricia Bay Highway.

This concept has long been considered as part of the city's over-all plans for urban redevelopment, to inject new life into the downtown area by better access and parking facilities, thus retaining the area as the centre of commerce.

More Economical Solution

The conflicting project was offered as a more economical solution to the problem by finance committee chairman Ald. Austin Curtis. Mayor Percy Scurrah and Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, public works chairman, gave it early support.

Reaffirmation of the old plan was made in response to a four-page report by engineer James Garnett, clarifying the proposal. He said:

1. Quadra Street already is at capacity in the peak hours and widening can relieve only the existing condition, not extra capacity, nor relieve the strain on Fountain Circle.

"Thus, without an entirely additional highway, both these entrance routes will become serious bottlenecks in the near future and will result in stifling business in the city," Mr. Garnett said.

2. An essential feature of a modern highway capacity route is freedom from uncontrolled access, which fully-developed Quadra Street cannot provide.

3. Other Quadra limitations include the bottleneck between Royal Oak Avenue and Douglas-Quadra intersections on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Four Lanes to Airport

The provincial government has plans for a by-pass for the highway at this point, fitting in with its plans for a four-lane route to Patricia Bay airport and Swartz Bay ferry facilities.

This would deliver traffic to Douglas, with ample capacity now. But with creation of a completely new highway from this point south, as the government foresees, Douglas Street south of Trans-Canada Highway intersection would be "entirely inadequate to handle this additional load."

"It is the provincial government's concept that the new Patricia Bay Highway by-pass this junction and go behind the new Saanich Road shopping centre to link with Blanhard Street extension," the engineer said.

Such a plan, he said, would provide for a considerable increase in volume of traffic downtown.

The downtown area has commercial pulling power "but urgently needs parking facilities and better access."

Even if parking were prohibited along Quadra's entire length, Mr. Garnett said, load capacities indicate it would handle only 1,000 cars an hour.

4. The provincial government should pay more towards the cost of arterial highways within the city, since there is high mileage, hence high gasoline tax revenue, on city streets.

5. The land involved in the Blanshard extension is mostly undeveloped, and if the opportunity to obtain it is not seized now, it may be lost to expensive new commercial development.

'Class or Kind' Tariff Opposed by Exporters

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's controversial "class or kind" tariff legislation was opposed today by the Canadian Exporters Association but won the support of the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association.

The three organizations were the first of a score of associations and individuals to appear before the Senate Banking Committee to give evidence on a proposal to give Revenue Minister Nowlan the final say on some factors in deciding whether imported goods are approximately of a class or kind of goods already made in Canada. Imports directly competing with Canadian-made goods generally face higher tariffs.

Tuesday night in the Senate the bill was given second reading — approval in principle.

Earlier Sen. W. Ross Macdonald (L—Ontario), opposition leader, said that while he would not bring the majority in to vote the bill down at the third reading stage, he was opposed to the contentious clause.

He hoped a compromise amendment could be worked in committee. Sen. F. McGrand (L—New Brunswick) called the bill a prelude to tyranny. Someday Canada may have a revenue minister who would say, like a king of France, "I am the state—the state is me."

The exporters' association said it opposes the bill on grounds that it will lead to increased rates of duty on a substantial volume of imports, notably machinery.

R. D. L. Kinsmen of Montreal, president, said the legislation will result in other countries raising tariffs against Canadian imports. The measure would work against the country as a whole and Canadian exporters in particular.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said the bill will give much-needed stimulus to several important segments of the manufacturing industry.

"We believe that nothing would be gained by having such decisions subject to appeal," the association said.

Alberta Bids For Alaska Road Route

EDMONTON (CP) — Hon. Gordon Taylor said Tuesday night that the Alaska Highway should go through Alberta rather than British Columbia.

Mr. Taylor was speaking at a dinner sponsored by the City of Edmonton and the province to a group of Montanans on a trip by plane to promote the paving of the Alaska Highway.

Neil Wall, chairman of the Montana Chamber of Commerce international relations committee, said afterward that his chamber agreed with Mr. Taylor's arguments.

Mr. Taylor, Alberta Highways Minister, contended that if the highway went through Alberta it would avoid British Columbia's mountainous terrain and could be kept open 12 months of the year more easily.

'SUNNING HIMSELF' SAID FIRST-SACKER

Murder on the Foul Line

WALPOLE, Mass. (UPI)—Frederick La Torella, 36, was a problem prisoner.

State penal authorities shifted the convicted burglar in and out of three prisons in the past year because he was a troublemaker. He was brought to the state prison here Monday and assigned to the prison baseball team for a Memorial Day game in the hope of getting him off to a good start.

Gordon Peterson, captain of the opposing "outside" team from Natick, Mass., noticed La Torella lying near the right field foul line behind first base during the game. He asked the first baseman what was wrong.

"He's been sick. He's sunning himself," was the reply.

Later, when a prison guard investigated, he found La Torella had been clubbed to death. The bloody baseball bat was still at his side.

A conspiracy of silence among the prisoners hampered the investigation of the death. But state police officials said fingerprints on the bat and other evidence indicated that convicts William Daggett, 23, and James O'Malley, 25, were the bludgeoners.

The suspects were formally arrested on murder charges today. Their cases will be presented to a grand jury next week.

Tourist Dies

CAMPBELL RIVER—A tourist, Mrs. Andrew Price, of Fort Worth, Texas, died aboard the Alaska-bound CPR cruise ship Princess Louise, presumably of a heart attack.

Her body was put ashore here Tuesday and Dr. N. B. Hall, coroner, said an inquiry would be held. Her husband and two friends, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Owens, also stayed here.

Transfer was made by the RCMP patrol vessel Massett, which met the cruise ship at Duncan Bay, three miles north of here.
